Charlevoix picked to stop the Alpena at home

After giving the state's No. 2 team all they could handle, the Red Raiders are considered a two-touchdown favorite when the Alpena Catholic Thunderbolts come to town Friday for Charlevoix's homecoming game.

Last Friday the boys were just nipped by powerful St. Ignace 13-12, a score that surprised everyone except the Raiders themselves, and with the better half of the season coming ahead of them, it looks as though Coach Carey has again molded a winner.

The Saints' first try to recover from the downstate invasion and near upset from Charlevoix will be to play the Thunderbolts at home. John Wambold has shown much improvement as he has been the scorer for the whole team of Crusaders. He will be able to put the ball and chain on the field for the Raiders.

Gaylord will be on friendly grounds as it faces the always tough Cheboygan Chiefs in their annual homecoming. The Chiefs and Gaylord have fought through a 14 game series with an even split. The Chiefs have a well balanced scoring attack and the depth to stop the Cardinal scoring machine. If the game doesn't end in a tie, our pick will be Cheboygan, by a 21-19 count.

Were still trying to find enough room on the page to list the scoring feats of the boys.

Pellston stops Lancers in non-conference tilt

ELLSWORTH -- The Lancers fell down for their non-conference contest Friday and gave Pellston its first football victory in 18 games.

Pellston held the Lancers to seven points as it won 14-7, handing Ellsworth its first defeat of the year.

The loss, however, did not change Ellsworth's position as leader in the St. Ignace League. With three wins and two losses in league play, the Lancers are followed by inland Lakes and Sault Ste. Marie.

October 25 is homecoming. The Lancers will meet Mackinac Island, a non-conference rival. The homecoming will be complete with a queen and floats.

In last week's contest at Pellston, the Lancers were

Rayders almost upset St. Ignace

by DAVE HESS
The Rayders didn't stay the giant Friday night but they came closer than anyone else has.

The fast-improving Rayders lost to St. Ignace, the state's number two ranked class C team by only 13-12. In almost upsetting the Saints, Charlevoix became the first team this year to score on them.

The Saints received from Charlevoix's Mike Lord and carried to the Rayders 29 yard line. Gaining a first down by passing, St. Ignace held the ball on the 41. The Saints were penalized 15 yards and equated by punting from the Rayder 26.

Charlevoix's Kraag Lieberman made a 30 yard run to put Charlevoix's first down on the 30 yard line. Failing to gain the next first, Bruce Meggison punted.

The Saints lost yardage on their first down and fumbled on the next play with Charlevoix recovering on the Rayders 5 yard line.

A quick pass to Bruce Meggison gave the lead to the Rayders 6-0. The kick for the conversion point was attempted by Lord and lost.

The Red Rayders lead at the end of the half 6-0. St. Ignace then lead in the number of first downs with 11 to 8.

The Saints soon moved to the 30 yard line where John Brown ran the ball across, from a pass, for the Saints' first touchdown. The conversion point which was kicked by Bob Brown was good and the Saints led 7-6.

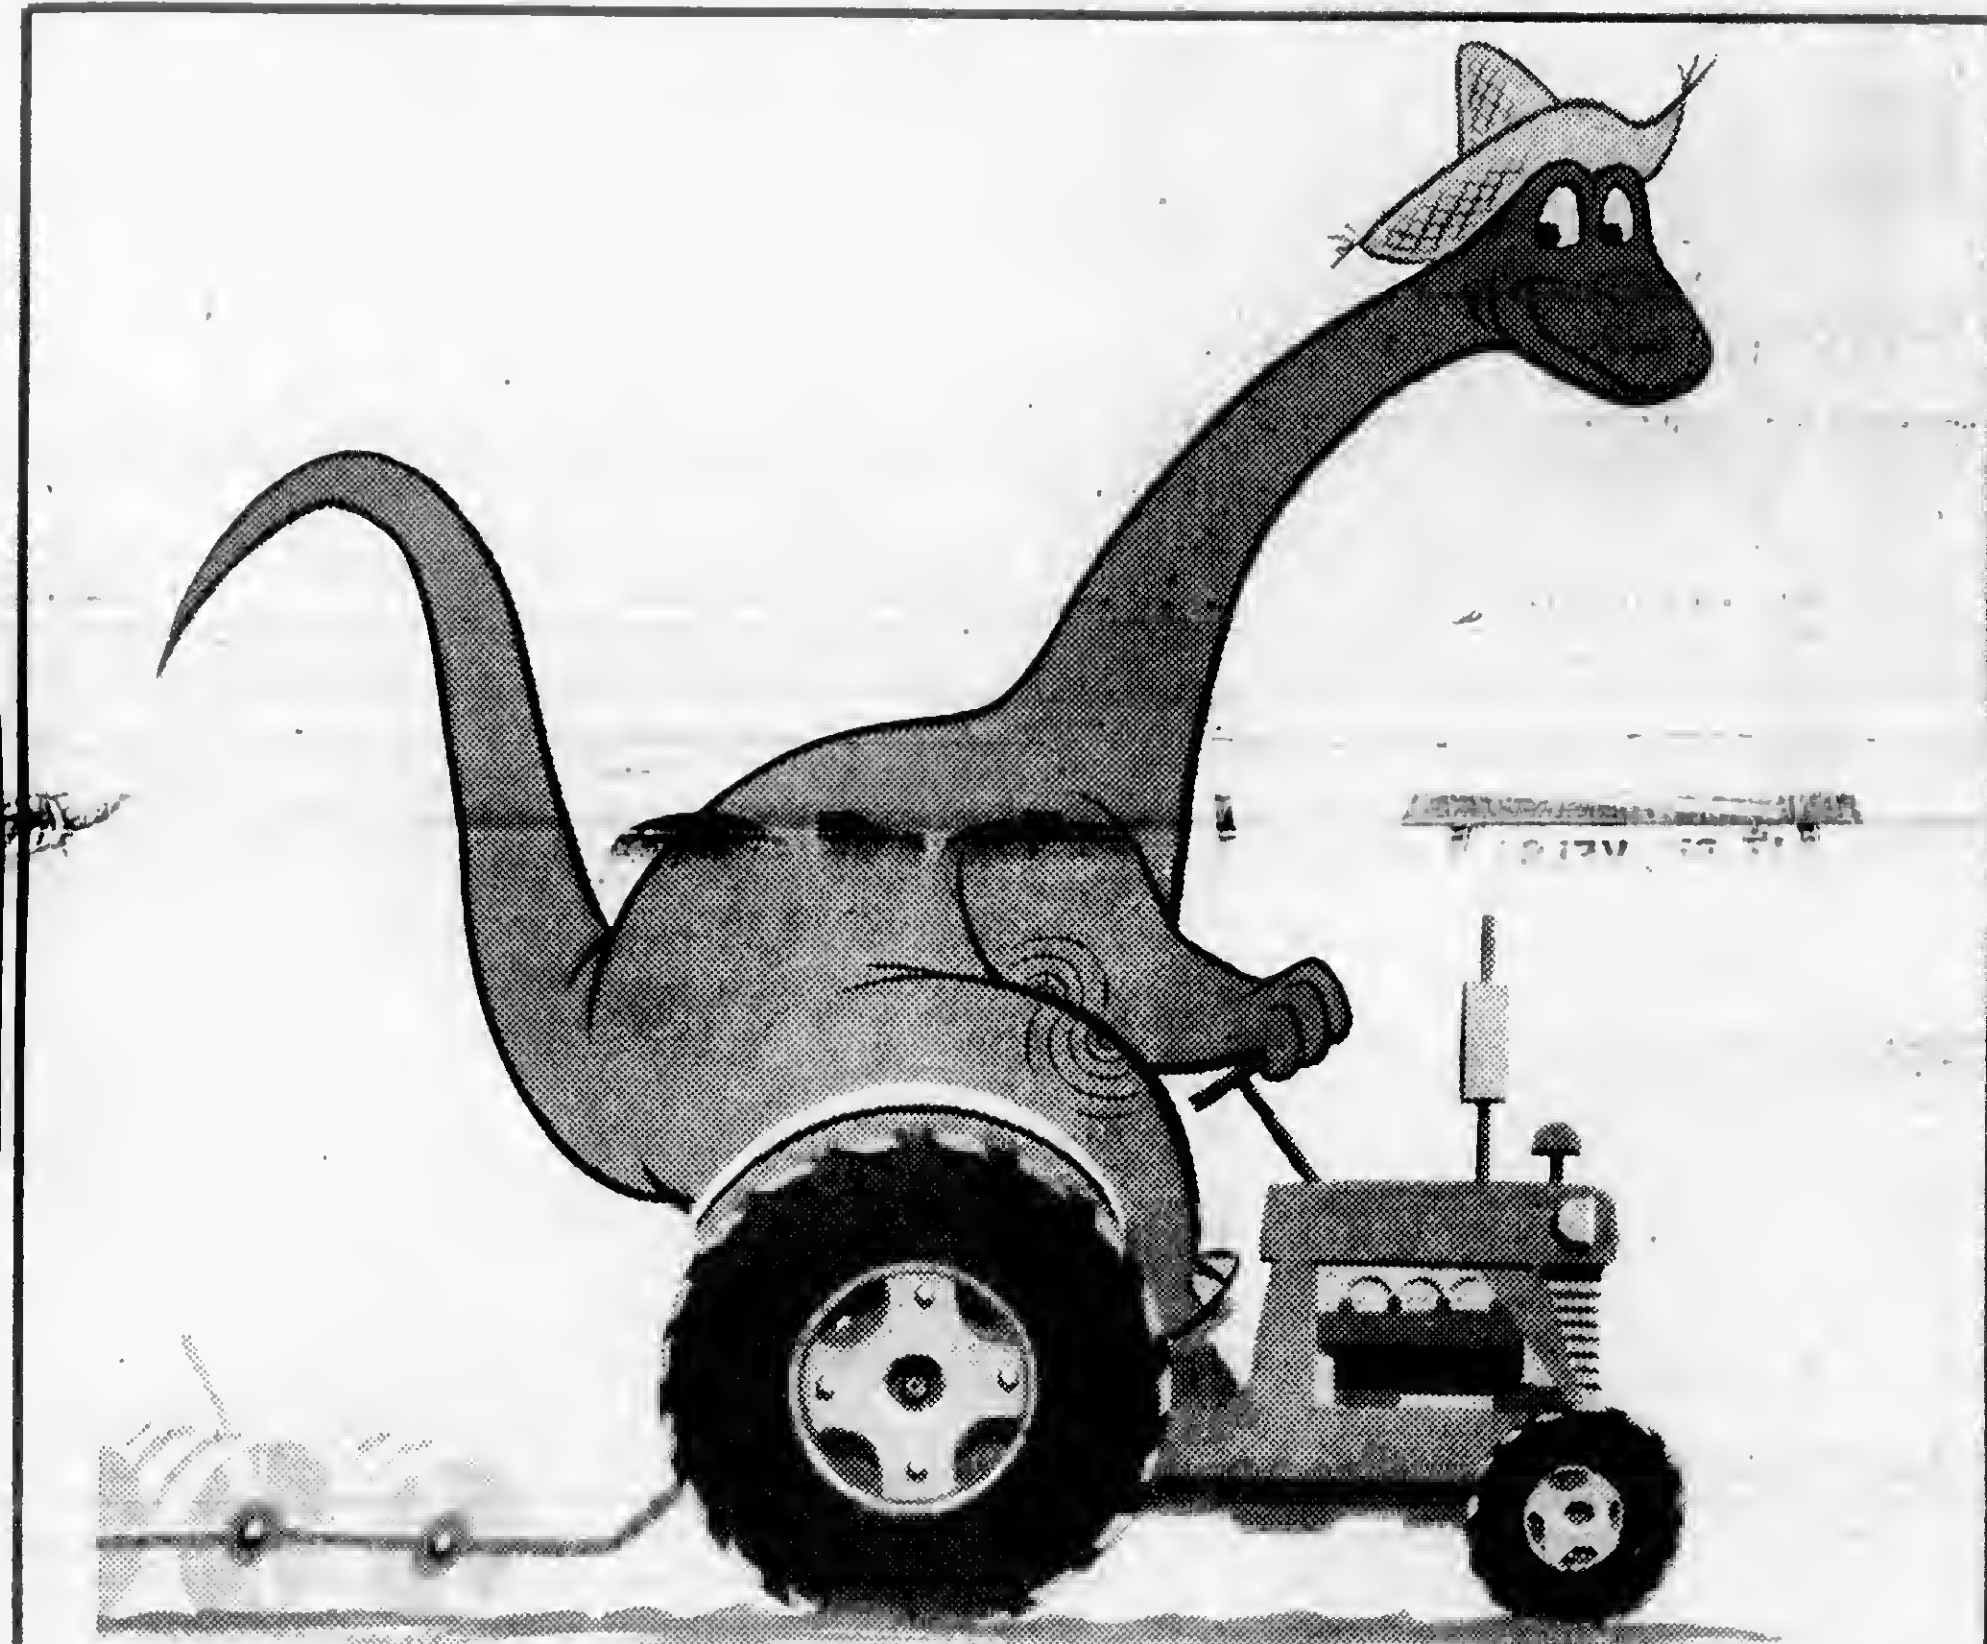

The Rayders held the ball for most of the third quarter until they could not complete their fourth first down and the Saints gained possession of the ball. After several minutes they had moved the ball to their ten. In the next play with less than a minute to go St. Ignace's Al Gustafson went across for a touchdown. The conversion was no good and the third quarter ended 13-6.

The Rayders did not stop. Kraag Lieberman brought the ball up to the Saints 45. In the next six plays three first downs were gained. In the next play Don Livingston caught the ball in the end zone. The score was 13-12 as Charlevoix lost the conversion point.

The Saints didn't keep the ball long as the Rayders soon intercepted on a pass. With a penalty against St. Ignace the ball was placed on the Charlevoix's 53. Kraag Lieberman and George McClellan ran the ball up to the 30 in four plays where Mike Lord attempted a field goal which was incomplete.

The ball was brought out to the Rayders 20. The Saints moved the ball down the field to the 35 where time ran out.

Library notes

Three books by the author of "The Seven Story Mountain".

Disputed Questions, by Thomas Merton. A book about the relation of the person to the social organization. The author defines it as "thinking out loud about certain events and ideas which seem to me to be significant in our way of living, for its spiritual and social life of modern man."

Life and Holiness, by Thomas Merton. "There is no essential difference between the holiness of the layman and the holiness of the religious, for the active life is essential to every Christian. The participation of the Christian in the Church's mission on earth."

The Sign of Jonas, by Thomas Merton. Thomas Merton is Father Louis of the Charlevoix Order at the Abbey of Gethsemani near Louisville. This book is an autobiography taking the first years after he entered the monastery. It contains personal notes, meditations and a rare glimpse of life in a Trappist monastery.

See Yourself in the Bible, by Walter Russell Bowie. In this book the author shows that each of us needs only to leaf through the pages of the author's definition of "holiness" to find his or her living counterpart. It is a startling and not always a comfortable experience.

Guide to Contentment, by Fulton J. Sheen. Bishop Sheen has enjoyed a large and successful career in radio and television. "Life is Worth Living" is a TV program he launched in 1952. They will find comfort, inspiration and wisdom in this new guide to personal fulfillment and happiness in troubled times.

A Catalogue of Sins, by William F. May. "My Sinister" is a book that marks, mauls, inflates, depresses, disrupts, distorts, or abandons humanity. In this contemporary examination of the Christian conscience, Professor May's emphasis is not on moral rules but on the underlying reality from which sins derive.

Books on the field of philosophy include:

What is Existentialism? by William Barrett. The big expression about existentialism arose in the late 1930's, when what people really wanted was a book about the people who belonged to the literary group or "school" of existentialism.

Philosophical Essays, by Bertrand Russell. A recent book by a noted philosopher, containing essays on the nature of truth and falsehood, on pragmatism, on the elements of ethics and other subjects.

Your Infinite Power To Be Rich, by Joseph Murphy. Dr. Joseph Murphy is a "psychic scientist", a Fellow of the American Research University of India, and Master of the Church of Divine Science, in Los Angeles. This book contains proof that the Cosmic Giver wants you to live joyously and abundantly. It gives complete, easy-to-follow directions for activating your "psychic projector" to put you in personal touch with the Cosmic Giver.

Islander misses for first time

The Beaver Island missed its first scheduled run of the year Thursday, October 3.

According to Beaver Island Boat Co. manager James Gallagher the ferry remained in St. James due to high winds on Lake Michigan.

The boat had made 236 trips without a miss until last Thursday, Gallagher said. The island will continue carrying passengers, cars, freight and mail to the island until freeze-up on the big lake.

During Saturdays this summer the boat made three trips daily between the island and Charlevoix. Last year she set a new record of 287 crossings.

Beaver Island research facilities ideal for bass study

Sportsmen have wasted many happy hours arguing that a ten-inch smallmouth bass does, or does not, out-right a ten-inch brook trout.

Fortunately it is one of those joyous arguments which can never be won, or lost, and in which no one gets hurt (at least not seriously). It's been going on for at least since my grand-dad's time and he's still wrong.

However, the point of these remarks isn't to answer those foolish people who think a ten-inch brook trout is worth catching.

The objective here is to report that the thousands of anglers who have fished the peppy smallmouth are getting short shifts from the Conservation Dept. are finally due for a break.

The advent of the salmon era in the Great Lakes is causing department biologists and biologists to decide the big lakes are with us for good. And no one can take a serious look at the Great Lakes without coming to the conclusion smallmouth bass are wonderful creatures.

The best fishing in Michigan continues to be for smallmouth bass in the Great Lakes. For instance, one afternoon this summer I landed a coon with a dozen smallmouths in the three-pound class and one that was truly trophy size.

Several other days I hooked 50 many 10 to 14 inchers 1 great first of the sport. All of this around Garden and Long Islands.

That, certainly, proves that even a lousy angler can have a great time with smallmouth.

Furthermore, it is unrealistic to suppose there is something unique about Garden and Long Islands. Millions of smallmouth which have never seen a hook, feed safely in hundreds of Lakes Huron and Michigan bays. It's just that it is easier—and more fun—to make the 30-minute boat trip to Garden Island than it is to explore nearby shores.

If, however, we knew why, when and what Great Lakes smallmouth eat, what draws them into shallow waters (the shoreline) and when they come, what water temperature makes them most active, what conditions they spawn, best under what environment they prefer, etc., a fantastic sports fishery would be opened.

This kind of fishery has many advantages over lake trout and salmon, on which the Conservation Dept. is spending millions of dollars.

First, it is safe. The best particularity appropriate.

Miss Margaret Douglas who presented the popular program Paper and Lace year ago will present "Is This What You'd Want?"

Dr. Alvin E. House of the M.S.U. Agricultural Economics Department will discuss a subject particularly appropriate to northern Michigan at this time, "Evolution or Revolution," which concerns county government.

In the evening husbands are invited to attend the roast beef dinner at the Holiday House. The price is $2.50 and reservations must be made in advance and prepaid.

Dr. House will speak on the subject, "The Role of Political Parties in Government, Interest Groups, The Public Welfare and You."

A barber shop quartet will provide music and entertainment.

Michigan State University will then speak on her specialty of family life.

There will be a lunch break and ladies are invited to bring a sack lunch and join in the social hour. The ladies of the Charlevoix Extension Group headed by Mrs. Robert Straw will provide the beverages.

Other women from the area who have been active in planning this program are Mrs. Martha Kamradt and Mrs. Alfred Crowell of East Jordan. Area 22 includes Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan Counties.

In the afternoon at 1:30 there will be three speakers from the Michigan State Extension Service. Dr. Richard Bristor will speak on the topic, "Electrical Safety Valves in Your Home." Since this is Fire Prevention Week the subject is never developed into a road, they point out. About 250 feet of beach is involved.

Plaintiffs are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Darrton, Mr. and Mrs. William Darrton, Martha Darrton, W. Philip Walters and Ransom Abel. John Michael is their attorney.

Charlevoix Township is considering entering the lawsuit, but was not named as a party in the defense by Condo.

Clarence Rabach, Charlevoix Township supervisor, is concerned because the platted, but undeveloped roadway extends into his township in the North Charlevoix plat adjacent to Pine Point plat. Rabach said that if the plaintiffs are successful in Hayes Township similar lawsuit to possible in Charlevoix Township.

Rabach considers the lake front in North Charlevoix and Pine Point plats valuable as public beach and picnic area. He has ordered improvements on the beach area in Charlevoix Township.

Clarence Rabach, Charlevoix Township supervisor, is concerned because the platted, but undeveloped roadway extends into his township in the North Charlevoix plat adjacent to Pine Point plat. Rabach said that if the plaintiffs are successful in Hayes Township similar lawsuit to possible in Charlevoix Township.

Rabach considers the lake front in North Charlevoix and Pine Point plats valuable as public beach and picnic area. He has ordered improvements on the beach area in Charlevoix Township.

Trouble-maker!

He is Johannes Gutenberg, the man who invented movable type.

Gutenberg had a hunch it would make a printer's work easier if type could be used over and over again in various combinations. Before his time, printers carved entire texts on large blocks of wood. Gutenberg, experimenting, sawed up one of these blocks into individual letter-units.

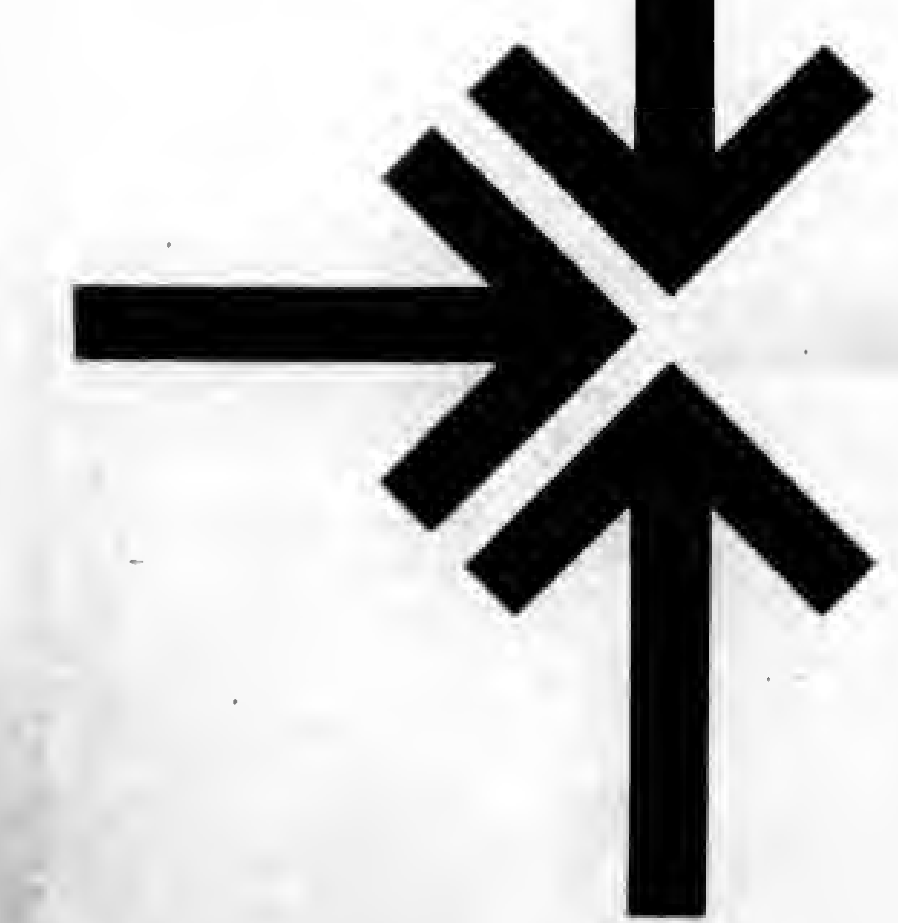

His idea worked. It made printing a great deal easier. But the ruckus it was to cause would have astounded this humble and devout German craftsman. For movable type not only simplified printing, it made possible for the first time the distribution of ideas to large numbers of people.

Under the interchange of ideas, serfs became restless; national states developed, and feudalism crumbled. Revolutionary trouble-makers such as Voltaire, Tom Paine, and a group of uncouth pamphleteers in England took ideas directly to the people. They found print was the ideal way to express complex thoughts. It was true then, and it is true today.

Printing made possible modern newspapers. Good newspapers always make trouble. They're trouble to officials who want to carry on the public's business in secret. They're trouble to anyone with entrenched authority. They're often troublesome to those whose private lives become suddenly caught up in the public business.

But the work that newspapers do has become a basic link in our political process.

That's something for you to think about during National Newspaper Week Oct. 6-12, 1968.

Court should not delay decisions

CITIZENS have shown understandably keen interest in the current court cases involving a public roadway at Pine Point and zoning along the Pine River channel.

The outcome of both cases could open what is candidly being called a "can of worms" by many observers. Both involve questions that have never been satisfactorily answered in an area court of law.

The Pine Point property owners starting the suit there contend that the lake front property in front of their cottages should be decided to them. Their case is built on the fact that though the beach area was platted as a road in 1913 no public funds were spent on it, thus it should revert to the adjacent property owners.

If the court finds in their favor dozens, and maybe hundreds of other property owners may consider they have similar rights. Throughout the north there are miles of platted, but undedicated and undeveloped roadways.

In the Pine River channel case, the Weatherlane Inn has asked Circuit Court to stop Jack Begrow from building an apartment building next to the restaurant on the grounds it is in violation of city zoning laws.

Begrow denies the zoning violation charge with qualifications and builds his defense on the counter-charge that the Weatherlane Inn and Weatherlane Terrace are in violation of as many, or possibly more, zoning rules as his apartment would be. Begrow's attorney, Don Berlage, demands equality under the law for his client.

Throughout Charlevoix and other small towns variances from zoning laws have been tolerated for years. And Berlage, certainly, has a popular point when he insists all citizens must be treated equally.

But if the court supports Berlage chaos could result that would virtually nullify zoning laws.

The Courier, of course, has its laymen's opinions on both cases. However, they obviously should be settled in a court of law.

Our gravest concern is that both plaintiffs and defendants and the public will be done an injustice by the growing failure of our Circuit Court to give citizens a fair hearing and reasonably prompt decision. Both cases, obviously, are of such public interest that they should be tried and decided during the October term of court.

Mighty fine town

THE OPEN admiration for the financial affairs of the city of Charlevoix expressed by a consulting municipal finance expert should interest all Charlevoixians.

Julius A. Hamslovsky of the Independent Municipal Financial Consulting firm of East Lansing was obviously unprepared for the soundness of the city's money handling. A city with parks, beaches, docks, golf course, new fire truck, new cars, sewage system, water system, paved side streets large and attractive city hall and well equipped public works department is supposed to be deep in debt and scrounging for dollars.

Hamslovsky deals with dozens of Charlevoix-size cities which are attempting to provide only some of the facilities Charlevoix has and are seriously strapped for money.

But he found Charlevoix has nearly $300,000 in the bank drawing interest, owes no money, has received minimal federal aid and levies the lowest tax rate of nearly any small town in Michigan.

Though he obviously found that Charlevoix doesn't need the services of an outsider to tell it how to handle its money, Hamslovsky evidently was pleased to discover a city which historically has kept its affairs in such sound condition.

Some of the things he overlooked which add to the pride we feel in our city should also be mentioned.

For instance, what other city has, and is willing to spend, the money to employ enough workmen to keep its streets and parks trim and unlitteled? Where else do citizens get their sidewalks shoveled by the city before the morning paper is delivered?

Where else is there a summer recreation program offering activities for residents of all neighboring townships as well as the city? Where else does the city provide cut-rate first-rate golfing for all area residents? Where else is the city's bankroll that keeps the Chamber of Commerce in business?

Yep, Mr. Hamslovsky, we have a mighty fine little city here and darned near all of us are mighty proud of it.

Equal opportunity

THE NORTH Country is catching up with the rest of the nation. The most evident sign of this is the Charlevoix County State Bank's announcement last week that it will start processing Federal Housing Administration low-downpayment, long-term home mortgages.

For more than a decade economists, industrialists and politicians have cited the lack of FHA financing as one of the major hindrances to development in the North. Young couples will not settle for renting an old-fashioned home in the North for years when they can buy a new home, while making more money, downstate. And, obviously, industry cannot survive without skilled young men.

Banks have been understandably reluctant to accept the red tape and federal meddling which comes with FHA.

The County Bank's decision to accept these inconveniences in the interest of Charlevoix's future rates appreciation from all of us.

Can't out-smile him Ruppe hard for Ray to tackle

Charlevoix COURIER Editorial page

Former Congressman Ray Cleveland's dilemma, he admits, is that he can't "out-nice-guy" his incumbent opponent Phil Ruppe of Houghton.

The mystery tantalizing novice voters is why he wants to. But, no matter, he does want the office back that he held from 1964 through 1966.

Getting it back is going to be even harder than taking it away from most-back Sox Republican Vic Knox in LBJ's 1964 landslide victory.

Phil Ruppe is no Vic Knox and Slippery Houghton is no LBJ (he's not quite as bad).

Cleveland is a fighter and Ruppe is a smiler. Cleveland doesn't quite know how to fight a smiler, unless you out-smile him. And that isn't Cleveland's bag of tricks.

During his two years in Congress Cleveland would almost straight down the line with the historic social legislation of LBJ's Great Society.

During his two years in Congress Ruppe has skipped from one side of the fence to the other. Ruppe's voting record is said to be the most un-foggyman of any Michigan GOP congressman. It's popular at home with the minority groups that influence elections it has been popular with nice-guy Ruppe.

So Cleveland can't fight Ruppe on his voting record.

Nor can he hope the smile of the wealthy brewer's pleasant profile by hitting the issues. Ruppe is against war, but not firmly. He's against big government, unless you're for it. He's against government programs, unless they will land him a few votes or avoid a fight.

Cleveland's approach to being a Congressman was to fight with federal and state bureaucrats to get government programs and money for the people of northern Michigan. He really believed.

He also made some enemies in Washington.

More often than not Cleveland was right. The guidelines established and administered by federal agencies are stacked against the people of northern Michigan. It is darned frustrating for anyone, and especially an angry man like Cleveland, to fall in line like most congressmen are doing.

Ruppe, wisely, he did not do this. I don't know anyone who is mad at Ruppe. Not even Cleveland is mad at him. He simply has done nothing to get mad at.

Cleveland would like to find a way to convince the voters they should be upset with Ruppe because he has done nothing. But, at the same time, he is too savvy to think he can win any votes by attacking a nice guy for being too nice.

If Cleveland won a few rounds he lost

THESE NEARLY 20 Charlevoix High School government students attended a Council meeting to see "government in action." There wasn't much action. When they left after 90 minutes one student asked if the council ever makes decisions. The meeting adjourned after 11 p.m. with the only official decision

And he wasn't discreet who it came to his party's top institution—the Democratic National Committee. The Committee, he was convinced, should be doing more for underdog freshmen congressmen like himself.

When polite words failed to shake the National Committee loose from its rut Cleveland attacked. The Committee's henchmen ran for cover.

More often than not Cleveland was right. The guidelines established and administered by federal agencies are stacked against the people of northern Michigan. It is darned frustrating for anyone, and especially an angry man like Cleveland, to fall in line like most congressmen are doing.

Nor can Cleveland make any hay on the major issues—law and order and Vietnam.

Both men are for law and order and neither has the backbone to tell their party's position on Vietnam.

Cleveland is still trying to figure out where that leaves him.—Shep.

Classiest can in North

by BOB MYERS

Lapeer County Press

Years ago, the Lapeer county board of supervisors tried a public toilet in the basement of the courthouse. They closed it when it became a stinking, sewer-plugged, obsceneness. And well it might. It was unattractive and unventilated in the first place and there were no adequate provisions for maintaining it.

People like to cite that experience to me to prove that public toilets are impossible. They don't explain how we can operate a dog pound and clean that alleyway and still have a decent people.

Still, they might have convinced me if I hadn't visited Charlevoix this summer while vacationing on a sailboat. Even before I got there, other boatmen had told me about the "fancy john" they've got in Charlevoix. They were right. It's the prettiest spot in town.

It's a $65,000 building in the middle of the business district. In a beautiful park, with watered lawns, trimmings, shrubs, and a fine yachting harbor. It's divided into 4 parts: a Chamber of Commerce office, a deckmaster's office, an unlocked public toilet and a locked toilet for the boaters. The 2 toilets are the same except that the boaters' facility includes showers. The boaters get a key when they tie up and register.

Over a period of 3 weeks, I overnighted in Charlevoix 3 times. Always, both the public and boaters' facilities were immaculate. I don't mean just decent. They were spotless.

Generous space, life walls, hot water and good design make it possible to keep them clean. And someone up there in Charlevoix is seeing that they are kept clean.

Charlevoix is a beautiful little town with nice stores, beach and harbor, and good restaurants. But the same can be said of other communities in that area - Traverse City, Harbor Springs, Beaver Island, Leland, Petoskey and Northport. It's a great country up there and it's hard to choose between these places. But give me Charlevoix, the city with the classy can. From the Lapeer County Press.

Burning of Champlain tragic chapter in Charlevoix history

BURNING OF THE CHAMPLAIN

The most shocking calamity in the annals of the village of Charlevoix was the destruction of the Champlain. The fire spread rapidly from one end of the boat to the other, most of the passengers and crew were forced to jump overboard. While some were rescued, many others were drowned in Lake Michigan, the known dead being twenty-two. There were very few families in the entire County who did not suffer the loss of a relative or dear friend in this tragedy.

practically destroyed the seed peas and the warehouse was abandoned.

THE RAILROAD COMES

The Chicago & West Michigan Railroad, now the Pere Marquette, was built through Charlevoix in 1892. No little excitement was created by the building of the railroad as it gave the western part of the County its only outlet, other than by water. Construction crews worked from both north and south, toward the bridge, which was being constructed over Old River. The City council had bonded the city for $25,000 for the construction of this bridge, as an inducement to the railway company to expand their line through Charlevoix. The first engine to be used on the construction work at Charlevoix was shipped to this point on a scow from Petoskey. The work progressed rapidly and Charlevoix became an important shipping point.

Forty, shaved and fat makes poor hippy

by JIM FITZGERALD

No doubt about it. If I were 20 years younger I would grow a beard and carry a sign and bug the establishment.

And I would be more comfortable than I am today. Which is fat and forty and crew-cut. What kind of a hippie is that? If I were sandals my knees would cave in. But my heart is transplanted to the kids who stand up and bother at injustice.

I want to yell and march and picket and sit-in, too. But this is physical stuff which requires a certain amount of muscle and bravery. I wouldn't drive through Chicago without first trimming my sideburns. And Dr. Spock is in better shape than I am. Besides, I have to go to work every day or my family's word of credit cards will come tumbling down.

The Miller total is that I am too old, too cowardly and too busy to join the regular army of protesters. But I still have this growing to do my thing for the cause from the sidelines. To "do my thing" is young talk meaning you do what you do best for what you be-

A "pillar of the community" was giving me the devil the other day. I don't use that cliché with a sneer, Henry is the type of man upon whom our towns depend for support and sweat. He gives his time and money to the hospital and Red Feather and his church. He's been a county supervisor and a city councilman. He's raised the grandchild who looks like good bets, too. I admire Henry for his contributions. But he makes me cringe when he has 3 drinks and yells at me:

"Yeah, you write about brotherhood. But wait'll the niggers come to town and move next door to you. See how ya like it then."

Heve in. So I write things like this and end up in earnest arguments at cocktail parties. And it is these arguments which make me feel like Rap Brown at a DAR meeting.

And on and on.

The Henrys of this country are my contemporaries, my friends. When I look in the mirror, I see Henry-middle-age, middle-and-up income, dark suit, chubby, short hair or bald and clean shaven. The All-American Robinson. Just what my mother had in mind when she enlisted me in the Boy Scouts.

But when Henry discusses anything more important than poker, golf or clean shaven, I see Henry-middle-age, middle-and-up income, dark suit, chubby, short hair or bald and clean shaven. The All-American Robinson. Just what my mother had in mind when she enlisted me in the Boy Scouts.

right to dissent. That's what this country is all about, Buster.

I can't get angry at any Negro who simply wants the same rights I was born with. I'm sickened by a civilization which insults Negroes (Indians, Puerto Ricans, etc.) and forces them to be twice as good to get half as far.

Just like Henry, I'm against violence. But I can understand how and why it happens. A rock thrown by a stoned-against Negro is better aimed than a club swung by a bully cop. If George Wallace can spare any law and order, I'm for it. But the Boston Tea Party was illegal. Unjust laws will always be broken by uncompromising men, such as Martin Luther King, who will pay the penalty to stake the national conscience.

At best, Henry thinks I'm nuts. At worst he's sure I'm a card-carrying Communist. Either way, you have got to keep an eye on me. I belong to the country club but I'm not paying all the dues. Don't invite me and the VFW commander to the same party.

It's easy to see why Saturday is my most comfortable day. I never shave on Saturday.

Medusa pollution cited by township

Citizens complaints that Medusa's South point cement plant is violating Charlevoix Township's clean air law were confirmed by a health department official Monday.

The township board approved District Health Dept. sanitarian Olan Mikulski's recommendation that Medusa be directed to correct the violation as soon as it is reasonably possible.

Mikulski told the township board and Citizens' Committee Chairman Don Bertage that the company is using an illegal, dust producing, procedure to cool and handle its clinker. "Believe me there's a lot of dust," Mikulski said.

He said he will send a directive to Medusa's Cleveland office immediately ordering it to design and install a new system for handling the clinker.

Township Supervisor Clarence Babach told the board that the company has had problems with its clinker cooling system since the plant went into full operation more than a year ago.

The problem, Mikulski explained, is that because the equipment intended to do the job is not adequately cooling the clinker much of it is deposited on the ground with no cover or dust control device. Dust, he said, is created when the clinker is dropped to the ground from about 20 feet in the air—and when it is pushed by a bulldozer-type machine back into the processing system.

Bertage, who attended the meeting, read a section of the township law which specifically requires air cleaning equipment to control dust from the clinker handling and processing.

Asked by township trustee Oscar Stroud how long he feels Medusa should be given to comply with the law, Bertage recommended that a competent engineer's estimate be obtained to determine how long it should take to construct the proper facilities.

Bertage urged Mikulski to give the company reasonable time limits, but said he feels deadlines for presenting plans and completing construction should be specifically spelled out in the directive.

The Citizens Committee, Bertage reminded the board, has the duty to obtain information on whether dust was being created by clinker handling. Company officials pointedly refused to answer questions about the clinker handling operation, he also reminded them.

Mikulski was hired by the township late this summer to begin enforcing the township code. Until he was hired the ordinance was not being administered or enforced by anyone.

His hiring followed organization of the Citizens Committee, whose first request to township officials was that someone with training and authority be given responsibility for seeing that the township ordinance is obeyed by Medusa.

Mikulski told the board Medusa has also recommended that more effort be made to control dust from materials handling operations and that roads at the plant be treated more "routinely" for dust control.

The hot clinker, he explained, is the product produced after the "clinkery" combination of raw materials and water is cooked in the plant kiln. The cooking operation produces a clinker which, after cooling, is ground into the fine powder that is finished cement.

34 years on the beat Veteran cop still on job

Thirty-four years as a policeman, including 12 as the county's top cop, would be enough for most cops.

But when former Sheriff Glenn Rose retired two years ago, at age 65, he took on a job he felt had been neglected since he put on his first badge.

Since starting his Northern Cottage Patrol in 1968, Rose points out that the cottages he protects has been broken into or vandalized.

Before he started the business cottage breaking and enterings were common. Every spring he received dozens of calls at the county jail reporting vandalism and thefts at cottages the owners hadn't seen since the previous Labor Day.

Now, he reports, there are far fewer calls. Cottage owners are more alert, and the winter there are no other area counties which do not have a cottage patrol.

He is especially pleased with this in the county. There is a lot more petty theft, larceny and vandalism throughout the north country, he points out. This, Rose feels, is due to a national trend of young people challenging authority.

Though crime in general is no longer his concern, Rose cannot resist the opportunity to renew his life-long plea for parents to take more responsibility for the behavior of their children.

Most of his problems as Sheriff for 12 years and city patrolman for 22 years would have been avoided if parents had more control over their children, he continues to insist.

The cottage patrol business is far more pleasant than sheriffing, there are no drunks, angry wives, neglected children or parents blindly denying their wayward sons have violated the law.

The system developed during three decades of police work isn't always appropriate in his new field, Rose points out.

For instance, he recalls one winter afternoon finding signs that someone had been inside a snowbound Lake Charlevoix cottage. Because the roads were not plowed and there had been a fresh snow, Rose's lip-split that someone was, or had been, inside was more instinctive than tangible.

He dug out his key and started in the door when he was met by a very disturbed young man. The occupant insisted he and the cottage owner's daughter were at the cottage for their honeymoon.

That didn't set too well with Rose's instincts as a policeman. He made the young couple, who were not prepared for company, to dig out identification. By the time he left he was as embarrassed as they were.

Rose checks every cottage on his list at least once a week. He takes time to make sure all of the doors and windows are still locked and checks around for signs that anyone has been on the premises. Something like an opened curtain that was closed the week before will bring out his keys for an inside investigation.

During the winter he makes his patrol on a snowmobile, traveling from Charlevoix to East Jordan along the lake shore.

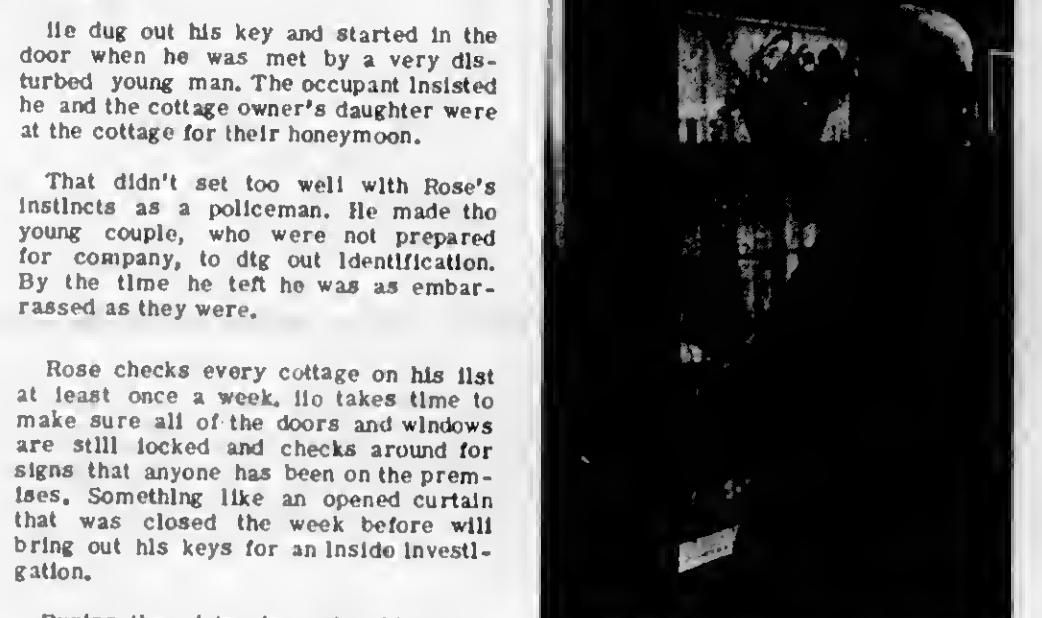

All of the cottages he protects have red signs on their warning that they are checked regularly by the Northern Cottage Patrol. Rose is convinced the signs help discourage trouble makers.

When the fish lamprey and heavy commercial fishing pressure virtually wiped out the lake trout in the late 1940s and the fish became all but extinct in Lake Michigan by the early 1950s most people were ready to write them off.

A joint effort by the states, federal government and Canada was launched. First the lake lamprey had to be dealt with. (Continued on Page 8)

The Sheriff's Dept. and State Police do not have enough men to even consider checking on the hundreds of cottages in the winter.

Rose has found that cottage owners are not the only ones who feel the need for added protection. He checks the large Culbert Co. dredge barge tied up at Iron-ton every day.

GLENN ROSE checks the doors at one of the Lake Charlevoix cottages he patrols while owners are at their winter homes.

Lake trout breakthrough

A small, unheralded moment in what will in time become one of the most monumental angling conservation history was recorded this fall at the former National Fish Hatchery here.

The first sexually mature female Lake Michigan lake trout seen by state or federal fisheries officials in years was taken in a net off South Point.

When the nearly six-pound fish was cut open in the laboratory at the hatchery building it was found to be bursting with ripe eggs.

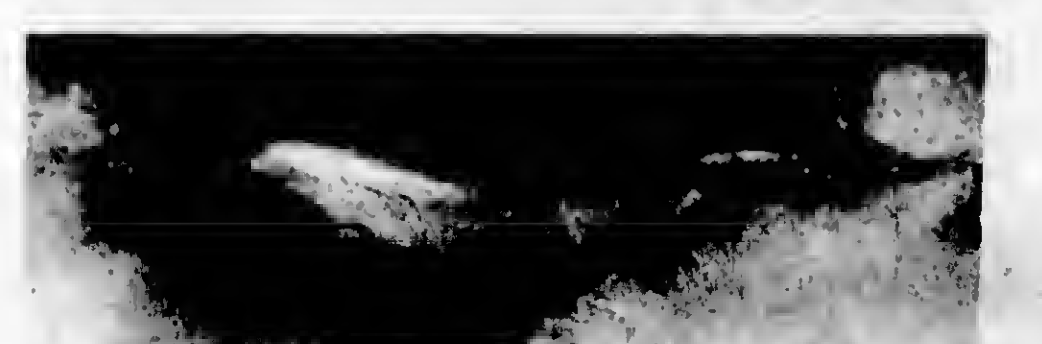

Myrl Keller, chief of the Great Lakes Fishery Station, excitedly phoned Gene Mason, director of the federal government's lake trout restoration program. Mason confirmed Keller's estimate, the fish would have spawned in November or late October.

There was a subdued feeling of drama, Keller appeared to sense the significance of the discovery far more than the other half-dozen fisheries people in on the "find."

What does it mean?

The long and expensive effort to restore lake trout to Lake Michigan waters has succeeded. The planted lake trout have spawned. They will, again, become a self-perpetuating species.

More than that, though, it means that one of the most massive conservation programs ever undertaken by man has become a success.

THIS PICTURE is historic. It is the first taken in a decade or more of a Lake Michigan lake trout with ripening eggs. The black pen points to the eggs.

Roller skating ok'd at elementary gym

The school board Monday evening decided to open the elementary school gym for community roller skating.

Sept. Rex Milligan said adults and children will be invited to skate at the gym school, probably two nights a week, as part of the board's effort to make the schools available for more community use.

Rental skates will be made available and a small charge will be made for use of the gym. Persons buying their own skates must have special rollers which the board will specify before the program starts.

Skating on the floor will not harm it as long as the special rollers are used, Milligan said.

In other matters Monday, the board hired Leonard Skaley as athletic director for $500 a year above his teachers' pay.

Appointment of an athletic director eliminates the present three-man athletic council. Skaley, an English teacher, served on the council with Principal Ray Carr and head coach Don Carey. The board also gave tentative approval to purchase of a $10,500 bookkeeping machine. Plans for financing the machine to avoid increasing the school district's anticipated $10,000 1968-69 operating deficit are being investigated.

Borrowing of $80,000 to meet operating expenses until property taxes are collected was approved. Only as much of the $80,000 as is actually needed will be borrowed, Milligan said. Last year the board borrowed $70,000.

Pay for drivers making noon bus runs and for substitute bus drivers was increased from $3.50 per driver to $4.50.

The board also agreed to increase its payment of $20 a month for the use of Marvin Sargent's pick-up truck to $30. The truck is used for general utility work at the school.

Milligan reported that 334 students have purchased the voluntary accident insurance coverage offered through the school board.

Surviving besides Mr. Shadko are her sons George O. Haggard Jr. of Morris-town, Tenn., William J. Haggard of South Charlevoix, James J. Haggard of South Pasadena, Calif., and John E. Haggard of Westland, Mich.; one stepson, Warren J. Shadko of Corpus Christi, Tex.; her mother, Mrs. Mary Kolar of Coral Gables, Fla.; sister Mrs. Jack Lucas of Charlevoix; brothers William Kolar Jr. of Cleveland and Robert Kolar of South Miami, Fla., and nine grandchildren.

She married George Haggard in May 1931. He died in 1953. In January of 1955 she married Gregg Shadko. She was born June 22, 1903 in Cleveland.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. today, Wednesday, at St. Mary's Church with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery. Rosary was recited Tuesday evening at Winchester Funeral Home.

Mrs. Shadko and Kay Fitch opened the Polly Kay clothing shop here in June of 1925. She worked at the shop until last week.

Liquor store sales top half-million mark

Almost as much money was spent on booze in the Charlevoix area last year as was spent to operate the public schools, which means that by the time it got into the public's throats the price was high.

Outing the same fiscal year, it cost $774,812 to operate the Charlevoix school district.

So when you add the mark-up on drinks at bars, the amount of beer sold locally (the liquor store does not sell beer) and the amount of beer and liquor bought by the Charlevoixians in other towns, it seems possible we spent nearly as much for alcoholic beverages as for our schools.

The present liquor store, Bennett said, is slightly too small and has a serious parking and loading handicap. Antrim St. traffic is sometimes blocked when a truck load of liquor is received at the store.

The new store, Bennett said, must have 3,000 square feet of interior space and 2,000 to 3,000 feet of paved parking and loading space for customers. The present store, owned by Henry Ikon, has 3,000 square feet of interior space, according to Bennett.

Services today for Mrs. Shadko

Charlevoix businesswoman Pauline Veronica Shadko, 65, died Monday, October 14, at Charlevoix Hospital where she had been a patient for three days.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. today, Wednesday, at St. Mary's Church with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery. Rosary was recited Tuesday evening at Winchester Funeral Home.

Mrs. Shadko and Kay Fitch opened the Polly Kay clothing shop here in June of 1925. She worked at the shop until last week.

Mrs. Shadko was a member and past president of the St. Mary's Altar Society and the Shakespeare Club and a member of St. Mary's Church.

She married George Haggard in May 1931. He died in 1953. In January of 1955 she married Gregg Shadko. She was born June 22, 1903 in Cleveland.

Surviving besides Mr. Shadko are her sons George O. Haggard Jr. of Morris-town, Tenn., William J. Haggard of South Charlevoix, James J. Haggard of South Pasadena, Calif., and John E. Haggard of Westland, Mich.; one stepson, Warren J. Shadko of Corpus Christi, Tex.; her mother, Mrs. Mary Kolar of Coral Gables, Fla.; sister Mrs. Jack Lucas of Charlevoix; brothers William Kolar Jr. of Cleveland and Robert Kolar of South Miami, Fla., and nine grandchildren.

Sports club

The Charlevoix Sports Boosters Club has more than 75 members after being active only three weeks, according to President Tom LaBlance.

The club meets tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. in City Hall to make plans for the next two away games and take up other matters LaBlance said.

A car pool will probably be organized to make the long trip to Osoos October 25. An after-game social gathering in Charlevoix or Petoskey is being considered following this Friday's game.

Last Friday club members and other sports boosters gathered in the basement lounge of the Weatherly Inn following the Rayders 38-13 drubbing of Alpena Catholic Central. LaBlance said about 60 people participated in the Alpena session. The Weatherly set the room aside for sports boosters.

State pays on boat ramp

BOYNE CITY -- A $1,000 check has been received by the Boyne City Council for engineering of a boat launching ramp for cubs and steelhead fishermen.

The higher license plate fees were paid by the Legislature last year. The same law increased the tax on gas from six cents to seven cents per gallon.

According to Harbo, the 5% per hundred pounds weight was charged in Michigan from 1925 to 1933. In 1934 the rate was cut back to 3% per

1. A separate desk for each teacher in the district, with lockable drawer space.
2. Suitable closet space for each teacher to store coats, overcoats and personal articles.
3. Adequate chalkboard space in every classroom.
4. Copies, exclusively for each teacher's use, of all texts used in each of the courses he is to teach.
5. A complete and unabridged dictionary in every classroom.
6. Adequate storage space in each classroom for instructional materials.
7. Adequate attendance books, paper, pencils, pens, chalk, erasers and other such material required in daily teaching responsibility.

C. The Board shall work to make available in each school adequate restroom and lavatory facilities exclusively for teacher use and at least one room, appropriately furnished, which shall be reserved for use as a faculty lounge in which smoking shall be permitted. Provision for such facilities will be made in all future buildings.

D. Because the pupil-teacher ratio is an important aspect of an effective educational program, the parties agree that an ideal class size should not exceed 25 pupils in the elementary school, and the Board agrees to continue working toward this goal. The maximum student load in working toward this goal, the maximum student load in the secondary school will meet North Central requirements. The ratio of pupils to teachers and other professional staff members of the school shall not exceed 24 to 1. Only a staff member's time actually devoted to duties in the high school may be counted in determining the pupil-teacher ratio.

ARTICLE VII
QUALIFICATIONS AND ASSIGNMENTS
A. Unless deemed necessary by the Administration no new teacher shall be employed by the Board for a regular teaching assignment who does not have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university.

B. The employment of teachers upon special certificates is to be permitted only in cases of absolute necessity or where the teacher has outstanding credentials.

C. Unless deemed necessary by the Administration no full-time teacher serving in a regular position will be hired under the provisions of the State Board of Education special 90-day certificate.

Due to lack of fish, commercial fishermen were no longer a threat as they could not make a go of it in a barren lake.

Numerous techniques for dealing with the lamprey were tried. Electric shocking wires in spawning streams proved inefficient. Finally chemical was developed that killed the vermin in their early stages.

Then, in 1965, the federal government started planting lake trout in Lake Michigan. (The plantings started in 1958 in Lake Superior.)

Many of the original Lake Michigan plantings were fish reared in the Charlevoix hatchery. After the massive Jordan River hatchery opened millions of lake trout were planted annually.

High catches of planted trout by commercial fishermen starting last year proved they were surviving. The unanswered question was would they mature and spawn?

ed that William E. Lowery and Violet M. Lowery, whose appearance to be entered in these proceedings is set for the 23rd day of October 1968, and that the hearing of said cause will be held at my office at 213 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, on the 24th day of October, 1968, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, Eastern Standard Time, at which time you are ordered to appear to answer and defend said Complaint, and that upon failure of said Defendants to enter their appearance as above ordered, or to appear at the hearing thereon as ordered, the said Complaint may be taken as confessed as against them.

It is further ordered that within twelve (12) days after the date hereof, the Plaintiffs cause a copy of this Order to be published in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County, said publication to be continued therein once each week for three successive weeks and that a copy of this Order shall be mailed to said Defendants at their last known Post Office address, by registered mail and a return receipt demanded, at least ten days prior to the time of appearance mentioned therein.

Norman D. Ace, Circuit Court Commissioner, Charlevoix County, Michigan, on the 24th day of September, 1968.

The above plaintiffs having filed their Complaint in writing before me to recover the land and premises described in the Complaint, and that the Defendants of certain land and premises situated and being in the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, described as follows, viz:

Lot 18 of Mason's Second Addition to the Village (now City) of Charlevoix according to the plat recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix County, Michigan.

which they allege to be the owner of and this action is to recover possession of land held contrary to the conditions and covenants of any Executive Contract for the purchase thereof.

It further appearing from the Affidavit on file that the Defendants, Violet M. Lowery is not a resident of the State of Michigan but resides at 3225 Walcott, Toledo, Ohio, and Defendant, William E. Lowery is a resident of the State of Michigan, County unknown, said Defendant being employed as a seaman on the Coast Guard Cutter, Mackinaw.

Now therefore, it is Ordered that they appear at the hearing thereon as ordered, the said Complaint may be taken as confessed as against them.

Publication and service shall be made as provided by Statute and Court Rule. Dated: October 9, 1968 s/John Makel Judge of Probate

by PAT BEGHOW
 Most people only know the Richard Lowenstein home by the long curving drive that leads toward Lake Michigan from Michigan Avenue, but actually this house has stood for many years.

It was built by the famous Professor Pattengill who taught Greek at the University of Michigan and brought his second bride there to live. The house was designed by the Pond Brothers of Chicago who were architects and friends of Frank Lloyd Wright.

The careful detailing and workmanship on this old house are a joy to behold. Many ideas are as fresh today as they were in 1900. They are certainly executed with greater care and craft than is found in many of the new houses today.

Professor Pattengill died in 1907 and four years later the Sidney Lowensteins bought the house. It has been in their family ever since, and has been occupied every summer.

Hidden down the hill as it is the house has still been a mecca for scores of friends. A tennis court was built in 1912 and was a popular spot for years. It is still usable and if there were still tennis enthusiasts in the house the court could be put into action.

REMODELING UPON remodeling has marked the life of the first and second Lowenstein cottages, which is hidden from view at the end of a winding drive off Michigan Ave.

 Most people only know the Richard Lowenstein home by the long curving drive that leads toward Lake Michigan from Michigan Avenue, but actually this house has stood for many years.

It was built by the famous Professor Pattengill who taught Greek at the University of Michigan and brought his second bride there to live. The house was designed by the Pond Brothers of Chicago who were architects and friends of Frank Lloyd Wright.

The careful detailing and workmanship on this old house are a joy to behold. Many ideas are as fresh today as they were in 1900. They are certainly executed with greater care and craft than is found in many of the new houses today.

Professor Pattengill died in 1907 and four years later the Sidney Lowensteins bought the house. It has been in their family ever since, and has been occupied every summer.

Hidden down the hill as it is the house has still been a mecca for scores of friends. A tennis court was built in 1912 and was a popular spot for years. It is still usable and if there were still tennis enthusiasts in the house the court could be put into action.

Rayders crumble, Alpena Charlevoix upset seen

by DAVE HESS

It was Rayder Town Friday. Capping off the homecoming parade Friday evening and Thursday's crowning of both Peabody as queen, the Rayders whalloped Alpena Catholic Central 38-13.

Bruce Meggison got the Rayders steamroller moving with two touchdowns in the first quarter.

In the second play of the game for the Rayders, quarterback Stewart Coleman fired a pass to Bruce Meggison across the line. The pass was complete and Mike Lord put the finishing touches on it with the conversion point.

Alpena Catholic Central had little chance to get in action as the Rayders recovered a fumble on Alpena's first down. Stewart Coleman and George McClellan moved the ball to the 25, Bruce Meggison ran it across two plays later. The extra point was made by Mike Lord and the Rayders lead 14-0.

It was now Alpena's turn to hold the ball. From a pass by Beaucon Lee St. Ignace was able to give Alpena their first touchdown.

The Rayders were on their toes as the kick was blocked. The first quarter ended with the Rayders leading 14-6.

Alpena held the ball very few times this quarter, but they seemed to slow down the Rayders. The third quarter down for the Rayders came in the middle of the quarter when the Rayders moved the ball up to the 7 yard line.

The Rayders were far from done scoring. The Rayders held the ball again five minutes later and moved it up to the 50. From a fast pass from

At this point Charlevoix's Krag Lieberman ran a quick drive through the Alpena line to score. The conversion was low and no good.

The homecoming celebration at half time was even merrier as the Rayders led 20-6.

After half time entertainment, the Rayders were ready with some tricks of their own. George McClellan put the ball on the 10 after a 40 yard run. In a quick, short pass, Charlevoix's Stewart Coleman hit Bruce Meggison. Several feet and the score rose to 26-6.

The visitors to Kipke Field had little chance to get in action on this ground as the Rayders were really showing their true colors. Still in the third quarter with only 10 seconds to go, quarterback Coleman fired a 47 yard pass to give the Rayders a 2-1 league mark over their opponents. The conversion point was attempted because of a fumble. Both times it was bad and the score stayed at 26-6.

The conversion point was attempted because of a fumble. Both times it was bad and the score stayed at 26-6.

In the final period, Alpena Catholic Central gained the ball because of two penalties on the Rayders who were unable to make up yardage. Alpena passed for 10 yards and continued 25 more yards.

On the next play the Rayders gained the ball which was soon intercepted by Mike Clearwood on the ten and he went into the endzone. The conversion point was good.

In last Friday's game the Lancers were defeated by fatigue, Wagner said, as they lost 20-14 to Chass C. Mancelona.

The game was played at mid-day in Mancelona. With literally no reserve strength, Wagner explained, the Lancers were simply exhausted by the heat before the third quarter ended.

The score by quarters at Mancelona was 7-6 Ellsworth; 14-6 Ellsworth and 14-13 Ellsworth.

Dennis Drenth scored one touchdown, Jim Jensen scored the other. Both Dennis Drenth and Jim Jensen scored an extra point. Stan moved the ball 108 yards on nine carries, for an average of 12 yards a carry.

Though inland Lakes will be bringing considerable bench power with it this Friday, Wagner feels the Lancers will pull an upset if it is not handicapped by cold or practice injuries.

After inland Lakes the Lancers will get a one-week rest from conference action as they face Mackinac City in the homecoming tilt Saturday, October 26.

CHARLEVOIX'S KRAAG LIEBERMAN (44) skims through Alpena tacklers to put Charlevoix's third touchdown on the scoreboard in the Rayders 38-13 homecoming victory.

Potoskey CC seeks money

The Potoskey Chamber of Commerce Monday asked the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors to pay part of the bill for tourist brochures it distributes.

Merle Lutz and Jack Generoux of the Potoskey Chamber asked the board to pay $900 of the cost of distributing and preparing brochures promoting Boyne Country skiing.

The brochure, they pointed out, covers four Charlevoix County ski areas and two in Emmet County. It also covers attractions and facilities for tourists from Mackinac City to Boyne City.

East Jordan Supervisor Bill Taylor pointed out that while the brochure's map does include East Jordan it makes no mention of the snowmobile facilities there. Lutz said this information will be added in next year's brochure.

Big game Friday

ELLSWORTH - After two straight non-conference losses, Lancer Coach Henry Wagner figures his squad is ready for the game of year this Friday when inland Lakes comes to town.

Indian River (Inland Lakes) has a 2-0 record in league play, compared to Ellsworth's 3-0. Believing the 3-0 Valley League lead with Ellsworth, but Wagner suspects inland Lakes is the team to beat if the Lancers are going to nab the title.

(Ellsworth travels to Bellaire November 1.)

In last Friday's game the Lancers were defeated by fatigue, Wagner said, as they lost 20-14 to Chass C. Mancelona.

The game was played at mid-day in Mancelona. With literally no reserve strength, Wagner explained, the Lancers were simply exhausted by the heat before the third quarter ended.

Superintendent's Progress Report

The greatest progress made in our school district the past year was the provision of the means for a new elementary building. It has been stated by educators that if a child gets a good start in school, he is likely to be successful throughout the remainder of his formal educational training. Early elementary training is extremely important. The new elementary building will provide for our children the following facilities:

1. A Materials Center for each ten classrooms—a place where a great variety of learning materials will be made available to students and teachers.
2. Classrooms which are acoustically treated for minimum sound distractions, cheerful, and provide a good atmosphere for learning.
3. Folding walls between each classroom so that the rooms may be quickly opened for team teaching or large group instruction or other activities, or easily closed to make regular-sized classrooms.
4. An Arts and Crafts room
5. A Special Education room
6. A Remedial Reading Center
7. A Physical Education area
8. A Speech Correction room
9. A Cafeteria
10. A Health Center
11. A Music Center

These facilities will be available by September, 1969. The Charlevoix citizens are to be congratulated for providing one of the finest buildings for elementary children in Northern Michigan.

In the high school we have added to the course of study: World Geography, Earth Science, Music Appreciation, Senior Mathematics, Home and Family Living, Economics, Office Practice, Business Machines.

Our Adult Education program grew considerably. The first high school completion program was organized and implemented, resulting in 26 adults completing their high school education, mainly through evening class attendance. Approximately 300 adults participated in such courses as physical education, German, Spanish, English, art, knitting, drafting, business machines, etc. Mr. Terrill is to be congratulated for his effort in organizing and promoting this program.

A two-year contract between the Charlevoix Board of Education and the Charlevoix Teachers Club was ratified. It is my opinion that this contract denotes progress as it provides a guide for working relations between the teachers and the Board of Education and the Administration.

Again, I would like to comment on our students. We have beyond a doubt one of the most outstanding student bodies in Northern Michigan. I find them in most instances courteous and eager to learn. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the citizens of our community for their cooperation, an element which is imperative for the operation of a good school.

Respectfully,
Rex Milligan, Superintendent of Schools

THE PAVED STREETS and exclusive rights to private beach, boat launching ramp, play and picnic areas at Michigan Shores appeal to resort and permanent residents seeking Lake Michigan building lots, according to Jerry Batterson, manager of the development near Bay Shore.

52 court cases slated for Judge this month

The October term of Circuit Court is scheduled to open Monday, October 21, with 52 cases on the calendar.

How many of the cases Judge Charles Brown will hear or take action on is unknown. The term schedule calls for the judge to handle as many of the 18 criminal cases on the docket as possible Monday.

Four cases are scheduled for hearing Tuesday, October 22. At 10 a.m. Jim Sawell's $150,000 suit against Travco Bay Corp. is scheduled. The suit by several Pine Point property owners seeking to obtain possession of a beach area platted as a roadway is scheduled for hearing at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

At 11 a.m. Wednesday, October 23, Judge Brown is scheduled to hear a motion in the Weatherman Inn's suit to halt Jack Begrow from building a condominium on the Pine River channel.

A total of 18 criminal cases, two auto negligence cases, 24 general civil cases and eight divorces are on the calendar.

Teachers focus on pupil needs

LAST WEEK'S Courier attempted to give the teachers' side of their controversial militancy in bargaining for wages and working conditions with the public.

For several years the Courier has sought to fill what we recognized as a void in coverage of teacher - school relations. We found that teachers had not yet solidified their thoughts or determined what approach they wanted to take with newspaper readers. Consequently, we could not convince their spokesmen to sit down and tell it like they see it, as Vince Chew did in last week's paper.

The mere fact that teachers no longer feel they must confine their ambitions and thoughts to their inner circle and the secrecy of closed negotiating sessions is an indication the process is maturing and reaching a point of stability.

The public, we are convinced, will see teacher militancy in a more favorable light as they begin to see and hear more of the other side.

The Courier has long felt that the people who motivate our youngsters to learn and lead them to knowledge rate top salaries. Our objection to the negotiating process stemmed from the fact that as teachers demanded higher salaries they were not offering higher quality teaching or in any way offering to show the public that they are doing a quality job.

Now, however, our opinion has begun to mellow. Chew and others in the Charlevoix Education Association do have ideas for giving our children a better education. This we have always suspected. The difference seems to be that they are reaching the stage where they are willing to publicly present their ideas for improvement and ask for the support of parents.

Laymen, it should be understood, do not, and cannot be expected to know about innovation in teaching technique and concepts. This is the responsibility of sincere teachers. This responsibility does not, however, end with merely being up to date on new ideas and methods; it also includes relating them to the public in such a way that parents support change.

Improvements in education traditionally have meant newer buildings with better facilities or expansion of the curriculum. Today they mean bold and often exciting techniques for capturing and stimulating young minds.

With Charlevoix students scheduled to move into a new elementary school, a remodeled middle school and elimination of congestion at the high school it is time to start preparing to bring these changes to our school system.

School board members and administrators do not have the intimate feel that teachers do of what is happening and what can be made to happen in the classroom. The leadership must come from our teachers. If, as we now hope, teachers are prepared to take an active role in guiding the public toward better public schools we are eager to follow.

Medusa & reality

EARL YOUNG has deservedly become as much a Charlevoix institution as has the bounty of our lakes and the foghorn. His stone buildings have set the community's mood more than many of us understand. Over the years his controversial participation in laaves has earned him a reputation as an unpredictable character.

Those who know Earl and understand his brooding moments never have a doubt but what a deep love for Charlevoix and unique feeling for its natural charm are his guiding motivations.

In lieu of these factors, his recent support for Medusa's South Point operation and political slap at the company's critics took many Courier readers off guard.

It shouldn't have. Earl has long, and publicly, supported Medusa. As stated earlier, there is no second guessing the nearly 80-year-old patriarch.

What Earl did by writing the article took courage of the particular kind he has often demonstrated in stepping outside the "establishment" to advocate change.

Unfortunately, we fear that in this case he is being naive. Several members of the citizens committee working to keep Charlevoix as an unspoiled area possibly have much broader experience than Earl does with heavy industry. We cannot understand anyone believing that Medusa is going to voluntarily be an exception on South Point. Our experience with top Medusa officials in the last five years proves to us they cannot be relied on to remember pledges that being a good neighbor comes first.

Those of us who have probed for the truth of what is happening at Medusa realized last winter that production problems were being given priority over pollution control. When asked if the clinker cooling and grinding system were working properly company spokesmen refused to answer.

Now our unconfirmed facts have been confirmed by Robert W. Fort, Medusa's president. Fort told a Wall Street Journal reporter "operating problems with the clinker cooler, a key piece of equipment, have resulted in third quarter output falling well below the second quarter," to quote the Journal; and that the clinker handling machinery will be replaced.

It would be ideal for Charlevoix and the entire nation's lakes, river and air if Medusa and the other heavy industry were as genuinely concerned about their community as Earl Young is.

Our autumn bonus

IT IS pretty swell when you can collect a bonus on top of a bonus on top of a bonus. And that's just what we're doing here in northern Michigan these days, thanks to the Conservation Dept. (which nowadays they are calling the Dept. of Natural Resources.)

We have always cherished autumn's sparkling clear air, and color as a North Country bonus. But on top of this we can now add the bonus of the early hunting season on woodcock and partridge and the fast developing fishing for rainbow trout and salmon.

For sportsmen this combination of options presents an exciting package. Imagine being able to take off after work and hunt for an hour or so, then troll for a couple hours for big steelhead. All while enjoying the most refreshing weather and scenery nature offers.

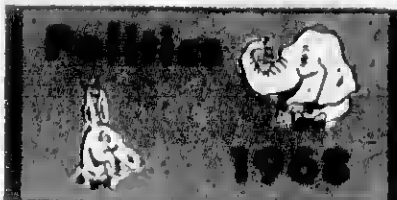

People elsewhere wouldn't believe our good fortune.

State Dems ignore George

by GLEN SHEPPARD

George LaBlance is finally seeing the inside of his party's state house as being Charlevoix's most effective and loyal Democratic leader.

The Democratic State Central Committee is ignoring LaBlance, who is a candidate for the House of Representatives in Lansing.

George is, understandably, puzzled and more than a little miffed by the committee's failure to give him the help it is expected to give its candidates. Whenever the party brass in Lansing wanted something in Charlevoix County it called on George. Almost without exception he delivered.

This spring when State Central was seeking a respected Democratic leader to oppose Bob Davis it asked George to carry the party's banner. Having tinkered with such ambitions, he agreed to run. But before doing so he extracted promise of help from Lansing.

At the time George was warned that State Central would not deliver. He refused to heed the warning.

He is learning fast. Without State Central he knows he cannot win and he isn't about to make a fool of himself or spend much of his own or someone else's money on a losing effort.

This department has been somewhat unfair and definitely unkind by calling George a drop-out; which he is, but with good cause.

Why, though, must George LaBlance, any candidate, have help from his party's pros in Lansing to win a seat in the State House?

First, he must know how Bob Davis voted, how he spent public money and achieved where there are two parties actively promoting and debating issues. Domination by one party - either party - can only produce stagnation of ideas and public interest.

Second, LaBlance is not a publication expert or writer. Like the rest of us, he isn't familiar with the radio stations, TV stations, newspapers and other media in any Machine or Chip-pewa Counties in the UP.

Putting these facts in perspective they come out with much more significance than whether George LaBlance wins or loses.

The Democratic chiefs have traditionally neglected the northern Lower Peninsula, in so doing they have made this a one-party area.

All serious students of government will agree that the best government is achieved where there are two parties actively promoting and debating issues. Domination by one party - either party - can only produce stagnation of ideas and public interest.

So far more tragic than its depiction of the Democratic party's deliberate refusal to meet its responsibilities to a large area of the state.

Of course there are excuses for the party's neglect.

Foremost must be the obvious fact that it has a better chance of electing candidates in downstate areas; so that's where its money and effort goes. Further, the party's most powerful leaders come from downstate and they have the power to selfishly demand that the spoils go to them.

In this context it may be equally selfish of this editor to urge stimulation of the two-party system in the North. After all, it is the Democratic money that I want to see spent to promote better government instead of necessarily electing Democrats.

Dear Editor:

Congratulations to Earl Young for saying about Medusa what has needed to be said for so long.

Coming from a person who has done so much in his own right to make Charlevoix beautiful, his words carry double the weight.

Having followed the pros and cons of Medusa's Charlevoix building program for the past three years, I have noticed that chief opposition to the plant has come from two sources: summer people and former big-city residents who are new to the community.

The summer people, of course, contend that Medusa has ruined the picturesque primordial wilderness of South Point. Newcomers from the city fear that Medusa is the first step toward complete industrialization of the area.

and that Charlevoix will soon be like the factory towns they fled north to escape.

By and large, it seems the old timers-the pioneers-are squarely behind Medusa. They remember the days when Charlevoix was a one-industry town--tourism--and they recall only too well the long, lean winters when

Safety first rule a must at airport, area pilot contends was an amateur Pilot and encountered foul weather that we were not qualified to fly in. Recently, Mr. Al Phillips found himself in the same position. Instrument weather and not instrument that, as Joe Topolinski, our favorite town ship supervisor, might say.

I am stating facts as I see them, and as everyone who is interested in airports, aviation, qualified pilots and "SAFETY" should see them.

May I remind all councilmen who frequently admit that they are not experts on airports or flying matters that Mr. McPhillips is,

I have been flying 22 yrs. and instructing 15 yrs. and I am well updated with the "aviation moonlighters" and part time operators. Here in Boyne City we have two pilots who are giving "duff" flight instruction without an instructor's certificate. To the ones who receive this "FREE" instruction, I have only pity. No one should practice a profession without a valid license.

May I suggest that all of the "qualified" pilots and flight instructors in Charlevoix go to Mr. McPhillips and apply for a job as he is a man who can help and lead them.

Next month we're supposed to vote on keeping or discarding daylight savings time or standard time or something like that, as Joe Topolinski, our favorite town ship supervisor, might say.

This department has probably been negligent in not asking the Boyne Falls statesman for his version of the great time fumbling game. But since haven't talked to Joe, we are limited to my opinion, which is that a person's got to be nuts to get excited about it.

My knowledge of the issue is, admittedly, limited to almost zero. But it seems I did read somewhere that daylight savings time was invented by a student of goose mating habits.

In the last two summers I have learned to appreciate the hour daylight savings time delays the sunrise and sunset.

Because the sunrise comes so much later in the morning I see it more often. Sunset watching may be more popular, but I'll take the sunrise over Goodhart viewed from a boat in Lake Michigan.

Sure, you don't get as much sleep in the summer as in the winter. But that's hardly new with daylight savings time. Who wants to waste a Charlevoix summer sleeping?

by a bunch of foot-otfs who should have been at work. This was civil defense. A Conservation Dept. official, obviously awed, gave an apt description:

"This is not sport fishing by any stretch of the imagination," he said. "This is a mob attack on the stream."

MY DATTLE with the frog was more modest, I suppose. But this was not a field and stream encounter where the hunter is prepared and armed. This was in my own home and I was defending my wife and children and all I've worked so hard for all these years. And I did it without a weapon. I didn't even have a license pinned to my back.

No one knows for sure how the frog got into the house. Most likely it squeezed through a screen door which can't be closed tight because of my wife's watermelon bugle. Our daughter, Christa, discovered the frog in the hallway early one morning. It hopped over her foot. Christa screamed while she was playing and the first blood was therewith let.

The frog disappeared into son Eddie's room with me but on the trail. My wife was already on the phone to Equally obvious, however, is that no matter what the politicians do with their clocks they are manipulating our habits--not the sun. Summer offers us a maximum of sunshine. Why do we need something to Lansing or Washington playing with our clocks?

Winter, however, is a different story. It does seem that the winter sun is against a working man.

Many afternoons I have tried to rush home early to grab a handful of minutes chasing rabbits in the swamp. About the time I get into the snow-shoes it is too dark to see down the rifle barrel.

An extra hour of sun at the end of a February day certainly would shorten winter.

So, if Joe Topolinski will pardon my conclusion, I'll take my sun the way I get it--regardless of politicians and ballots.--Ship.

her favorite retractor. "If a frog can get in, so can a snake," she said. "This house is for sale."

I could hear the frog inside Eddie's closet. I grabbed a baseball bat and set forth without a glance backward. Invading a 10-year-old boy's closet is similar to being crushed under Mace's foot and the locker room at Tiger Stadium. But I didn't leave a dirty sock unturned and finally found the frog skulking behind a 10 pound bag full of sugar cubes swiped from Howard Johnson restaurants, coast to coast.

"Are you going to kill it, Daddy?" the kids asked.

Well, I grabbed that frog and threw it into the backyard to hop again another day. I did it with a disband, world-weary, back-headed flip. I felt like Earl Flynn releasing Basil Rathbone from the chair. He had Basil pinned to the floor with his sword against his gut.

"That's class," I explained to the children.

"I could never explain it to Bishop Cashman and the cobb clubbers."

Closet frogging can be exciting adventure

Many big city newspapers published Rev. Cashman's eloquent blessing of hairy chicks and shattered birds. I don't know why. Perhaps because it was refreshing to hear a priest say something that had nothing to do with the pill.

before giving up. And while the fisherman fights this one lousy coho, hundreds of others have time to escape. A terrible thing. Obviously, something more effective than this pogan warfare was required if Bear Creek were to be cleared of the dreaded coho.

The brave fishermen proved equal to the task. While crowds cheered they grabbed clubs and waded right into the attacking coho, swinging nightly. They knocked these fish senseless and scooped them up with large nets. They gulped those fish right over the banks and carried them away in wastebats. The water was bloody, the banks were littered with entrails, and the air was heavy with the smell of battle. But not one fisherman was lost. American ingenuity and pluck had prevailed again!

School oks huge deficit budget

The biggest budget of any public agency in history was adopted last week by the Charlevoix school board. The record $352,168 budget anticipates a $10,929 deficit at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1969.

The 1968-69 budget was more than $120,000 higher than last year's budget of $232,169.

School board members and Sup. Rex Milligan said the deficit became necessary because teachers salaries increased more than the eight percent which was anticipated when voters were asked to approve a 6.5 - mill operating tax levy last spring.

Instead of going up eight percent, Milligan said, salaries increased approximately 12%, costing the district $44,638 more than the board expected to spend.

To make up this $44,638, the board cut non-salary areas of the budget.

The board this year expects to spend $736,168 on salaries, compared to $603,071 last year. Of this $542,402 is for teachers' salaries. This is an increase of $103,090 over last year's regular teacher salary budget, Milligan said.

Non-salary items this year are expected to cost $159,000, compared to $143,294 last year.

The board anticipates $525,847 from property taxes this year, compared to $477,090 last year. State aid will be considerably less this year, however, with $280,683 expected, compared to $314,698 last year.

Major non-teaching expenditures budgeted for this year (with last year's in parentheses) include: Administration, $52,145 ($43,138); transportation, $58,509 ($53,420); operation of the plant, $83,125 ($77,842); maintenance, $15,000 ($13,181); and capital outlay, $20,751 ($40,945).

A complete copy of the budget is available to citizens at Milligan's office.

Supervisors kill plan to build jail without vote

Plans to mortgage Charlevoix County citizens for a half-million-dollar jail without giving them a chance to vote on it were, at least temporarily, thwarted last week.

The County Board of Supervisors almost unanimously endorsed an indirect maneuver which vetoed the plan to finance a new jail without the consent of the people.

The board took away the approximately $50,000 in "hidden" annual income it has routinely given to the Building and Grounds Committee in the past.

Building and Grounds Committee Chairman Kit Carson had proposed using the funds to pay for a new jail. That way, he explained, taxpayers would not have to authorize the expenditure.

The County has used the non-budgeted, quasi-secret fund to pay for the County Building, Grandview Medical Care Facility and an $18,000 site for the proposed jail in the fastest growing residential section of Charlevoix.

The approximately $60,000-a-year fund comes from fees charged citizens for various services (such as birth certificates, etc.) and rent to non-county agencies using county facilities.

These fees and rentals are expected to bring in $64,375 during 1969. This would have paid the annual principle and interest on a half-million-dollar, or more, bond issue.

"We can't build a jail with these fees and rentals," East Jordan Supervisor Bill Taylor said.

Hayes Township Supervisor Lee Sheehan Jr. and Board Chairman Clyde Cunningham of Marlette Township were reported to be the chief architects of the maneuver which pulled the rug from under the no-vote jail building plan.

Sheehan, as chairman of the Finance Committee, recommended to the board that the fees and rentals be placed in the regular county operating budget. He pointed out the money is needed to balance increasing costs created by inflation.

Supervisors approved the change in policy with praise.

"I think this is the finest budget I've ever seen," Boyne City Manager and Supervisor Forbes Tompkins said. "This way it (the fees and rentals) are out where they should be," he added. "Before you might have called them a hidden asset."

Budget tops all previous for county

The largest budget in Charlevoix County history—$515,000, higher than the 1968 budget—was approved last week by the Board of Supervisors.

The $503,692 budget includes $16,838 to pay the deficit accumulated during 1967.

Virtually every budget area is higher than last year, with all county department heads and most employees getting raises.

In approving the budget supervisors leaned on a nearly $80,000 increase in property taxes. Due to the county's increased taxable property valuation and a slight increase in millage the county will receive $419,417 in taxes next year, compared to $340,176 this year.

The Tax Allocation Board, which divides the statutory 15-mill levy between county, townships and schools, gave the county 5.6 mills this year, two-tenths of a mill more than last year.

The board also took advantage of $99,000 in new income by putting all fees and rentals received by the county in the general fund budget and from state income tax returns. The fees and rentals are expected to raise $64,000. Income tax returns were estimated at $35,000.

East Jordan Supervisor Bill Taylor said the county can "easily anticipate" a 1970 budget of $600,000. "We're going to have terrific trouble," he added.

Only a few years ago, Taylor said, the board wondered what it was going to do with the added tax income from Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock plant and Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s South Point plant.

Already, he said, inflation and the growth brought by recreation, new industry has forced spending higher than the increased income.

South Arm Township Supervisor Don Graham said that in the future the board will have to ask the Allocation Board for a bigger slice of the 15-mills.

The other alternative would be for the board to ask voters to approve operating millage—as schools must. If the county gets more of the 15-mills, it will come from school income, forcing schools to ask voters for more millage.

Judge dismisses Stockholders in $150,000 lawsuit

Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown Tuesday morning dismissed the individual stockholders and officers of Traverse Bay Corp., as defendants in James Sawtelle's $150,000 lawsuit against the corporation.

Traverse Bay attorney John Michael argued that Sawtelle's suit did not establish any complaint against the individuals. The charges, he claimed, are against the corporation.

Art Reibel, attorney for Sawtelle, opposed Michael's bid to have the individuals dismissed as defendants. He charged that they were directly involved, and further, that the corporation is insolvent and bankrupt, making it impossible for Sawtelle to collect damages from it.

In supporting Michael's request, Judge Brown left it open for the individuals to be brought back into the suit if Reibel can establish a justified complaint against them.

Several of the company's stockholders who were removed as defendants are prominent Charlevoix businessmen and civic leaders. They are Bob Lieberman, Bill Carey, Michael, Tom Acton, John Barnes, W.G. Boyer, and R.L. Shaw.

The judge also refused to grant Reibel's request that a receiver be immediately appointed to take over the company. Reibel argued that the receiver should be appointed to protect the corporation's assets until the case is settled.

Judge Brown decided the case would be decided on its merits before any action is taken on appointing a receiver.

About a dozen spectators were in the courtroom to witness the opening motions in the case. Further argument on the suit will be held at an undetermined time.

The owners of Traverse Bay Corp. have asked Circuit Court to require James Sawtelle to post bond to cover their expenses in opposing his suit against them for $150,000.

The corporation, through its attorneys, John Michael and Don Berlage, also ask that the individual company stockholders be dismissed from the suit. Sawtelle's charges, they claim, are against the corporation—not the individual owners.

In asking that Sawtelle post a bond, the corporation explains it wants assurance he will pay its expenses should the court dismiss the suit and award costs to the defendants. Sawtelle, they allege, is moving to Florida, where he will be beyond the court's jurisdiction.

Sawtelle's attorney Art Reibel filed suit October 7 demanding $150,000 damages from Traverse Bay and its owners.

He charged, among other things, that the corporation tried to collect an unjust debt from him, wrongfully used its design for shipwreck furniture, and failed to pay him commissions and royalties it owes him for using his designs.

Sawtelle also asked that a receiver be appointed to safeguard Traverse Bay's financial assets and that an audit be made of its books.

Retirement dinner honors Pete Bulow In Boyne City Nov. 2

Northwestern Michigan's senior public official, Fenton R. (Pete) Bulow, 70, will be honored at a retirement party in Boyne City Saturday, November 2.

Bulow was appointed Charlevoix County Clerk July 15, 1929 by Circuit Judge Farm C. Gilbert, replacing George A. Roderick. Voters have re-elected him to office since.

When his term expires in January of 1969 Bulow will have served nearly 40 years as the county's clerk. Only three other persons in Michigan history are reported to have served in the clerk's post as long. Richard Lewis, who served as clerk from 1906 to 1920, held the previous record for Charlevoix County.

Bulow decided not to seek re-election this year. Running for the job on the November 5 ballot are Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Babach, a Republican, and County Democratic Party chairman Pete Johnson of Boyne City.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LOOER
CHAMBER MANAGER

While putting this little piece together Saturday morning, October 19, while looking out through our large windows, there is an extremely large formation of dark clouds moving in quite rapidly with a bit of breeze, and it causes me to realize more than before, one day this sort of display will mean snow. The season just past seemed short, though it was a good one. Also at this moment concerned about weather conditions for tomorrow for our Color Cruise aboard the Beaver Islander, of course, praying for more favorable weather so that those aboard will have an enjoyable trip. The color will be there, but how much more beautiful it would be if we had a reasonable clear day. A lot of effort was made for this event as a fund raiser, which we certainly need. I will report on it in the next issue.

For the snowmobilers and winter sportsmen, your attention is called to the 1968 Snowmobile and Watersports show to be held in Detroit Artillery Armory, 1500 West 8 Mile Road near Greenfield Road and Northland Shopping Center, October 18 through Sunday, October 20, weekends from noon to 10 p.m., and weekdays from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. I understand this is supposed to be a topper and that it is produced for the entire family. There are many beautiful and interesting displays all around the floor. Furthermore, they have the convenience of lock-your-car parking for at least 8,000 cars.

I just learned of what I think to be not only a novel idea, but worth while, and that is a stable houseboat rentals here at Charlevoix to be based on Lake Charlevoix beginning next season.

4-H Club Notes

by Keith Lamkin

Among those in attendance were Mrs. and Mrs. Phil Van Dorn, Bill Gault, Mrs. Eugene Umor, Mrs. Steve Mum-

Snowmobilers
register now

Charlevoix area snowmobile owners may register their winter crafts in compliance with the state's new law at the local branch office of the Michigan Department of State.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said that all branch offices have registration blanks. Fees are $5.00 for a three-year cycle which begins in January of 1969.

According to Hare, all snowmobilers must be registered and numbered except those used by the owner on his own property exclusively.

Upon registering their snowmobiles, owners are assigned numbers, explained Hare. These assigned numbers are to be painted or attached in a permanent manner on both sides of the forward half of the snowmobile. In block numbers not less than three inches in height reading from left to right.

Whether you are a restaurant operator, cocktail and/or bar, or lodging place keeper, you are urged to be thinking about this new potential. Probably needless to say, however, I will remind you that East Jordan and Boyne City are well geared already. That is, things are changing and they know where they are going to be next season.

In the October 18 issue of the Marina News, which by the way, appeared to be featuring snowmobilers, there was a picture of a young man holding a record steelhead catch, a 20 pounder, 34 inches long and 29 inches in girth, and he and his dad caught a total of ten recently weighing up to 16 pounds, 1 ounce for the largest of the ten. Their base was at Honor, Michigan, and the fishing was in Lake Huron. They landed this big fellow on a Heddon rod and reel with a 30 pound mono line and an X-35 flat fish. In fact, all of their Coho this time were caught on this bait.

Yesterday, Friday the 18th, four of these gentlemen met here at the Chamber office in an effort to bring closer together the idea of snowmobiling. They have already been successful out of southern ports, with a so called package deal on one of the Beaver groups, including lodging, food, boat, guide, etc. I understand from Residents and summer people will enjoy the local flavor that is included in some of the chapters. Mrs. Gilbert refers to treacherous gales galloping from Mrs. Arthur Tanager, Robert Neff and The Red Fox Inn.

The book was over a year in the making and concerns party themes, party planning shortcuts, anecdotes from interesting parties and a sprinkling of unusual recipes.

A popular feature of the book is the attention that it gives to securing help for parties through a professional caterer. It is a woman who is a fine cook and whose husband happens to own a station wagon, or a professional catering service with mobile kitchens programmed to feed several

Donaldson A-frame is a Young original

by PAT BEGROW

The magnificent A-frame house on the north shore of Round Lake at 5 Thistle Downs is owned by two Charlevoix natives who appreciate the beauty of Charlevoix and wanted to capture a piece of it when they bought a house.

Richard and Betty Donaldson were definite about two things that they wanted in a house. They wanted a lake lot and they wanted a unique Earl Young house.

It seems as though they have chosen the best of each for their property affords an excellent view of the busy yacht harbor and their house is architecturally beautiful.

It is a three-level house designed to get the most from the view. The lowest level is an activities area for a study and workroom. The second level is the main living area with a studio living room, kitchen, dining area, two bedrooms and a bath. The upper level houses two more bedrooms and a bath.

Young designed the house with angles and curves to form constantly changing patterns. Such a plan makes a shelter forever interesting. The living room with its two story windows overlooking Round Lake and its delicate balcony is a hollow sculpture.

Many of the lighting fixtures in the Donaldson House are unique. Hanging from the ceiling in the living room is a twelve lamp light fixture, designed and executed by Mrs. Donaldson. It is beautiful in itself, but doubly lovely when viewed from the balcony level where it is reflected in six foot mirrors. The multi-colored and many faceted to cast bits of light about the room. To maintain the fixture Mrs. Donaldson devised a pulley and boat winch system to raise and lower the fixture.

Over the dining room table is a priceless old Tiffany lamp which Mr. Young would only approve after he passed judgment on it personally. Hung as it is over the table in the loaded window above it is a thing of beauty.

Mexican lamps hang at intervals through the house and the Donaldsons are planning a trip to Mexico next year to purchase more Mexican art.

Because of Mr. Donaldson's association with Puff's Appliance readers are probably particularly interested in the Donaldson's kitchen. Naturally it has the very latest and most deluxe appliances in an avocado green.

But there is a touch of the old in this kitchen too. Mrs. Donaldson has hung many of the old metal baking forms that her Bohemian grandmother used. She has also hung an attractive arrangement of flour baking scoops which her grandparents used in their bakery here in Charlevoix.

Although the Donaldsons primarily wanted a house with a lake view and a unique Earl Young design they have also bought for themselves a deceptively large house which is adaptable to the varied needs of five active children.

THE DONALDSON A-frame as seen from Round Lake... a prize view of Charlevoix's picturesque harbor.

The book is a biography of him to appear since his death. It is the story of a man in whom the idealistic and the practical were never completely reconciled, a fact which may have kept him from achieving the recognition he deserved in his lifetime, but assured him a place of permanent greatness in history.

Pope Paul VI, by Alden Hatch. Pope Paul came to the papacy at a crucial time when "change" was the cry of the day - but not in all quarters. There was also stubborn resistance to change on the part of powerful prelates in the Church. A shy, reserved scholar, he was confounded by many predictions made before he took up his public leadership. Neither the liberals nor the conservatives within the church have felt he was exclusively "their man."

The Diary of Samuel Seewald, edited and abridged by Harvey Wish. The diary is both a remarkable personal document and an excellent social history of New England in the era of the Salem witchcraft trials. No activity or Boston's 6,000 inhabitants seems to have escaped the diarist's notice. He was a judge at the witchcraft trials and his subsequent feelings of guilt and his public confession marked a turning point in New England justice. - and provide the diary with some of its most moving passages.

Where I Stand, by Hank Greenspan with Alex Petis. Submitted "The Record of a Reckless Man," this is the dramatic story of a man of principal who was willing to face death, jail, and the loss of his wife, as well as the destruction of his career, to do what he considered was his duty. In the last sixteen years, his column, "Where I Stand," in the Las Vegas Sun, has been one of the most widely read columns in Nevada. In it, Hank Greenspan has blasted away at any issue that smacked of injustice or intolerance.

The Rocketeer Billions, by Jules Abels. The story of a boy named John D. Rockefeller, born in 1829 in an upper New York state village, who began his working life as an assistant bookkeeper and went on to found the world's most stupendous fortune and establish the Standard Oil empire. He did not knowingly violate any recognized moral business principles, but lived by the standards of his times.

He did unto others what they were all trying to do unto him. In an era that had not previously had any need for legal curbs to ruthless empire-building.

The Two Lives of Joseph Conrad, by Leo Gurko. The two lives are those of a mariner and superlative storyteller. Both lives were adventurous. A friend once said of Conrad that "he did not learn English, he seized it by the throat and conquered it." He wrote with vigor and imagination, stories that included the dramatic events in which he participated and the exotic lands to which he sailed.

To clean-up Lake Charlevoix

Support urged for anti-pollution bond issue

District Health Dept. director Dr. R.S. Lipke and area conservationists have joined in urging local voters to support a $435 million bond proposal on the November 5 ballot.

The two-pronged bond issue calls for the state to bond for $335 million (proposal 3 on the ballot) to fight water pollution. Proposal 4 would bond the state for another $100 million to provide more recreation facilities.

According to Dr. Lipke, Charlevoix and all other local communities will be guaranteed of receiving at least 50% of the cost of new sewage treatment facilities from the state if proposal three is approved by voters.

The state and federal government have cited the city sewage facilities in Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City as causes of Lake Charlevoix pollution. The government has ordered that the plants be modernized.

A lagoon-type sewage disposal system has been recommended as the surest method to avoid future pollution of Lake Charlevoix.

The local sewage plants, Dr. Lipke said, have been inadequate for years. Health Dept. officials, he explained, have failed to order them changed until now because they did not feel local communities would raise funds for the job and because they were not aware until recently of the pollution in Lake Charlevoix and northern Lake Michigan.

If the bond issue is approved, he pointed out, Charlevoix and other local towns may receive as much as 85% of the cost of their new sewage systems from the state and federal governments.

Opponents of the $335 million bond issue point out that state officials have had the law and responsibility for more than 30 years to halt pollution but have not had the courage to enforce the law. They question whether giving them this money will buy them courage.

The total of $435 million for clean water and quality recreation is big money even for Michigan, but the problem is big and big money is needed.

Sewage treatment plants start at half a million dollars for the smallest, serving a village, and go up into the tens of millions for one big enough to serve a large metropolitan area.

It costs about $1,500 to create a single state park campsite, including the price of the land, roads, and service buildings. A modern fish hatchery takes about $4 million to build. An acre of land for public hunting may easily cost $300 to $500 or more in southern Michigan, where available.

The Water Resources Commission has estimated that we need right now to spend about $1.2 billion in Michigan for sewage treatment facilities.

As it happens, the $335 million bond issue for clean water will, when matched by federal and local funds, provide most of that amount. Every nickel of that clean water money must be spent by towns, cities, villages and counties of the state. The state will simply sell bonds and pass the money on to local governments.

It will mean construction work and payrolls and economic shock in the arm to communities throughout Michigan.

The bond issue for recreation is smaller, but again a significant slice of it will be turned over to local governments for local use. Of the $100 million total, $30 million will go to communities to be matched by local and federal funds to buy parks, playgrounds, senior citizen centers, and the like.

The remaining $70 million will be used by the Conservation Department for parks, fish hatcheries, public hunting grounds, duck marshes, forest campgrounds, riding and hiking trails—in short, for the familiar kinds of facilities that are making Michigan one of the nation's top recreation states. We need more of them to keep pace with demands.

The final decision on taxes rests with our state legislators, but it looks as though no new ones may be needed to pay off these two bond issues, according to Dr. Ralph MacMillan, Conservation Dept. director.

At any rate, your decision on November 5 is a big one, and there is a breakdown of improvements that hang in the balance with your vote.

CLEAN WATER PLAN

The $335 million Clean Water program will be part of a larger program that will draw funds from both the federal government and from local sources. It is expected that the state will invest half the cost of the total program, and that the federal government will invest another one-fourth in the program. Local units of government—in towns, cities, townships, municipal areas—will put up the remaining one-fourth of the total cost of any Clean Water project.

This bonding program is big enough to buy 210 new water treatment plants for towns, cities, and other municipalities throughout Michigan. It will also pay for 126 improvements to existing plants, and provide new or reconstructed sewer lines for 3,500,000 people.

That much work is an enormous undertaking, and it will provide local construction projects throughout the state for a number of years. It will, therefore, provide more than Clean Water in Michigan by 1980. It will also provide jobs, income, and business growth in all the towns, rural areas, and cities of this state for the entire decade ahead.

RECREATION

The $100 million Quality Recreation plan would provide funds and facilities as follows:

State Forests—$4 million

● Increase the present 2,122 campsites in state forests by addition of 1,700 new sites.

● Build 280 miles of forest roads, thereby making 185,000 more acres of public forest lands available to the public.

U.S. MAIL

Many a letter starts on its journey through the mails bearing a message that will not be found within the envelope. It accompanies the letter, nevertheless. Such messages are prayers offered by the sender when the letter is sealed or when it is dropped into the mail box. It is often a prayer for a parent for a son in the armed forces, a daughter in a hospital, or for those in anxiety from many causes.

Prayer, with a firm belief in its power, can accomplish wonders. The occasion may be a mass disaster or a purely personal and intimate matter.

How can you make your prayers effective? By first learning how to pray and practicing a faith. The church that best suits you can be of tremendous help in this direction. Here, through active participation in the services you can learn to pray effectively. Prayer is dynamic.

Contract outlines teachers' responsibilities

ARTICLE VI QUALIFICATIONS AND ASSIGNMENTS

E. All teachers shall be given written notice of their schedules for the forthcoming year no later than the preceding first day of June. Preference in making such assignments will be given to teachers regularly employed in the district.

G. Qualification for remaining on the schedule requires the obtaining of two semester hours credit at an approved institution of a graduate or undergraduate level within each three year period. This credit may be waived and travel or research study may be substituted on approval of the Board of Education in advance.

H. VACANCIES, PROMOTIONS AND TRANSFERS

Requests by a teacher for transfer to a different class, building or position shall be made in writing, one copy of which shall be filed with the superintendent and one copy shall be filed with the Association. The application shall set forth the reasons for transfer, the school, grade or position sought, and the applicant's academic qualifications. Such requests shall be renewed once each year to assure active consideration by the Board.

I. Whenever any vacancy in any professional position in the district shall occur the Board shall publish the same by giving written notice of such vacancy to the Association. No vacancy shall be filled until such notice of vacancy shall have been given.

J. Any teacher may apply for such vacancy, in filling such vacancy, the Board agrees to give due weight to the professional background and attainments of all applicants, the length of time each has been in the school system of the district, and other relevant factors.

K. Any teacher who shall be transferred to a supervisory or executive position and shall later return to a teacher status shall be entitled to retain such rights as he shall have been given.

Daddy of them all

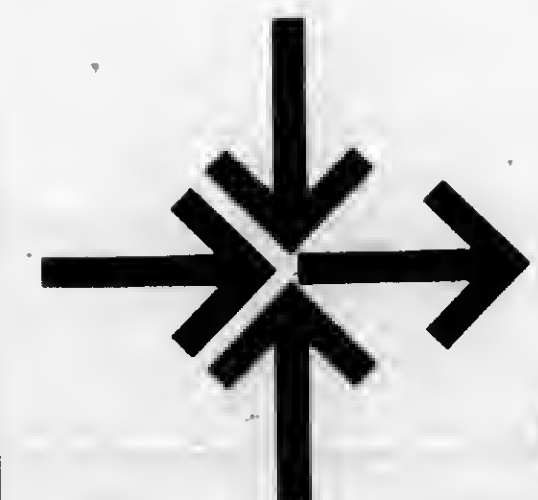

What remains to be said about Benjamin Franklin? Insurance companies, magazines, sociologists, scholars, scientists, diplomats and businessmen all regard him as one of their own.

But Ben Franklin was a printer and newspaperman first, last and always. Like so many newspaper publishers today—particularly publishers of weekly newspapers—he was apprenticed as a printer in the trade at an early age. At 24 he became sole owner of The Pennsylvania Gazette, the largest and most successful newspaper in the Colonies. Later he branched out into book and magazine publishing, started a chain of newspapers, and pioneered many publishing innovations (such as hiring newspaper correspondents) which have become common in the industry.

Ben Franklin always thought of himself as a printer and newspaperman. He never "lost touch" with the Pennsylvania Gazette. On his tombstone he directed that the words "Benjamin Franklin, printer" be engraved. One of his many aphorisms about journalism still finds prominent place on the walls of newspaper offices: "That if all printers were determined not to print anything till they were sure it would offend nobody, there would be very little printed."

Ben Franklin proved that a newspaper run on sound business principles can both make money and perform a public service. He and his newspaper were basically different from earlier Colonial publishers and their newspapers. He made American journalism respected, a respect which found formal place in the First Amendment to our Constitution.

Franklin showed intelligent young men what they can do, in newspaper work. Ever since his time, newspapers have provided generations of young men with a rich and satisfying life.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

A continuing report

may have had under this Agreement prior to such transfer to supervisory or executive status.

ILLNESS, DISABILITY & PERSONAL BUSINESS
A. At the beginning of each school year each teacher shall be credited with a twelve day sick leave allowance to be used for absences caused by illness or physical disability of the teacher. The unused portion of such allowance shall accumulate from year to year to 100 (one hundred) days.

B. A teacher who is unable to teach because of personal illness or disability and who has exhausted all sick leave available shall be granted a leave of absence without pay for the duration of such illness or disability, up to one year and the leave may be renewed each year upon written request by the teacher.

C. Teachers will be granted one day accumulative to three (with pay) for approved personal or business reasons.

UNPAID LEAVES OF ABSENCE
A. A leave of absence of up to two (2) years may be granted to any teacher, upon application, for the purpose of participating in exchange teaching programs in other states, territories or countries; foreign or military teaching programs; the Peace Corps; Teacher's cultural travel or work program related to his professional responsibilities; or provided said teacher states his intention to return to the school system.

B. A military leave of absence shall be granted to any teacher who shall be inducted or shall enlist for military duty in any branch of the armed forces of the United States. Upon return from such leave, a teacher shall be placed at the same position on the salary schedule as he would have been had he taught in the district during such period.

C. A leave of absence of up to two (2) years may be granted to any teacher upon application for the purpose of serving as an officer of the Association or on its staff.

D. A leave of absence may be granted to any teacher upon application for the purpose of campaigning for, or serving in, a public office.

PROFESSIONAL BEHAVIOR
A. Teachers are expected to comply with reasonable rules, regulations, and directions from time to time adopted by the Board or its representatives which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Agreement.

B. The Board recognizes that the Code of Ethics of the Education Profession is considered by the Association and its membership to define acceptable criteria of professional behavior. The Association shall deal with ethical problems in accordance with the terms of such Code of Ethics of the Education Profession, copy of which is attached hereto and made a part, by reference, of this Agreement.

C. A teacher shall at all times be entitled to have present a representative of the Association when he is being reprimanded, warned or disciplined for any infraction of rules or delinquency in professional performance. When a request for such representation is made, no action shall be taken with respect to the teacher until such representative of the Association is present.

These were Franklin's own words, for his epitaph: "The body of Benjamin Franklin, printer (like the case of an old book, its contents worn out, and single leaf no longer and golden) lies here, food for worms! But the work itself shall not be lost, for as well, as he believed, appear one more in a new and more beautiful edition corrected and amended by its author."

Newspaper work is fast-moving and demanding. Those who have the background, brains and interest to keep up with it, find it to be—as H. L. Mencken said—a "three-ring circus." And newspapers today still serve as essential stepping-stones for those who later branch out into other related lines of work.

That's something for you to think about during National Newspaper Week Oct. 6-12, 1968.

The Charlevoix County 4-H youth association has recently met at the Star School to start off the new 4-H club year. Among those attending were Louise Howard, Donna Vandoren, Dawn Hall, Roy Hall, Sandra Chaw and Judy Coleman. Bill Grimm taught a number of folk dances and some of the basic fundamentals of square dancing. Mrs. Harry Howard and Mrs. Phil Vandoren will also be working with the group as advisors.

County buys patrol boat

Purchase of an "all-weather" boat for safety and law enforcement patrols on Charlevoix County lakes was approved last week by the Board of Supervisors.

At the request of Sheriff Phil Sumner the board agreed to buy a 16-foot 7-inch Boston Whaler with 55-horsepower outboard motor from Masters Boatworks in Waukegan, Ill.

Sumner said the boat was the best made for patrolling on inland waters and Lake Michigan. Lake Michigan patrol, he said, will be necessary during next fall's expected run of coho salmon.

Masters is the only dealer in the county who sells the specific boat the sheriff requested, the board was told. No bids were taken. The price is $2,300, with motor.

Charlevoix Third Ward Supervisor Lee Moorhead pointed out that by specifying the Boston Whaler and requiring that the boat be purchased in the county the board was eliminating the opportunity for competitive bidding.

Voc. ed. enrollment up 400% since 1966

The number of Charlevoix fifth school students taking vocational classes has increased from 25 to 105 since 1966.

In 1965-66 only 25 students were enrolled in what qualify as vocational courses, Robert Cook, director of cooperative education, told the school board last week. Of these 25, 19 were girls taking advanced homemaking.

This year, Cook pointed out, 105 students are in a wide variety of vocational programs.

These include 48 in co-op education, 18 in homemaking—including five boys, 38 in advanced office training and ten in the Petoskey Area Vocational Education Center.

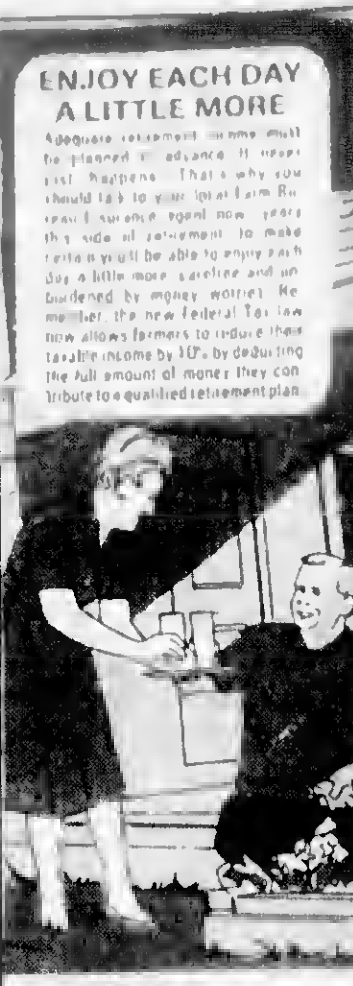

In the co-op program, 20 students are working and learning in various retail

WOMEN SUFFER WITH BLADDER IRRITATION

Chronic history of bladder irritation affects twice as many women as men, often causing urinary and nervousness from frequent, burning, itching urination. Occasionally, you may lose sleep and have headaches. Backaches and indigestion, too, may be present. In such cases, relief is usually found by taking a course of Viofen, a new, safe, effective, non-habit-forming medicine.

School deficit one-year, only

A DEFICIT operating budget was approved by the Charlevoix school board last week. Citizens should be alerted and alarmed by this development and prepared to demand that it not happen again.

The Courier joins most school board members and most taxpayers in stating its objection to deficit operation of public programs. The persons charged with administering public funds are given only so much to spend by the public and should not grasp for themselves the authority to spend more than the taxpayers are willing to give them.

We are convinced, however, that board members were as reluctant to approve the nearly $11,000 deficit in the 1968-69 budget as taxpayers are to see them do it. Examination of the budget reveals that the board was faced with few alternatives to the deficit. Only $159,000 of the $695,168 budget is for non-salary items. The board has little control over the $736,168 budgeted for salaries.

When the board asked taxpayers to approve a 6.5-mill tax levy last spring it expected an eight percent increase in salaries. This would have left a $3,000 budget surplus (which is playing it too close.)

Before teachers agreed to reopen school this September the board found itself forced to accept an approximately 12% salary increase, or about $90,000 more than it anticipated spending. By cutting deeper into non-salary items, the board managed to trim some $20,000 to $30,000 out of the budget, leaving the $11,000 deficit.

The board will not have these excuses next year. It already knows what teachers salaries will be, due to the two-year contract, and it should know in the next few months how much more it is going to cost to operate the new elementary school and middle school. Both schools will require additional personnel and operating costs.

To responsibly meet these additional costs, and pay off this year's deficit, the board should prepare a millage election early in 1969. Enough millage should be asked for to meet necessary expenses. The board and teachers should see to it that voters understand why the millage increase is necessary.

As we have seen on other levels of government, deficit spending can become an addiction. We must not let this happen in Charlevoix.

Let's help kids

ELSEWHERE in this week's Courier our elementary teachers ask for your help to "enrich" the education of our children. We don't know how anyone could turn them down.

Our teachers' proposal is quite a compliment. In effect they are saying there is something in your life which can make the life of our young people fuller and more meaningful.

Such flattery should produce results. We don't know how anyone could turn aside an opportunity to contribute to the education of the community's children.

Think about it. You may have a hobby, or have made a trip, etc., that would in some way broaden or stimulate a child's mind. Usually it is pretty hard for most of us to imagine that we have ever done, anything or known anything, that could be important to someone else. So maybe it would be easier to think of something your neighbor or hunting partner could contribute to the classroom program. If so, be sure to mention it to him.

To digress, it should be noted that Charlevoix teachers have earned new admiration for their formulation of this Community Resource Plan. It is the kind of thing that not only can open new opportunities for our youngsters, but can also give them a closer attachment to their community.

Nothing could be more timely during this period of social unrest than a program that promises continual renewal of hometown culture.

Cleaner magazine racks

AS innocuous as Richard Nixon's promise to crack-down on filthy magazines and books may seem in view of weighty matters like Vietnam and lawlessness it seems to us it is a promise worth remembering.

Few adults (and we hope fewer young people) are aware of the trash anyone can buy on magazine racks in Charlevoix. Were these magazines to be spread out at a PTA meeting, school council meeting, or even city board meeting, everyone present would want to recheck, both physically and emotionally.

About a year ago the Courier editor went in search of a story about the shooting at Frank Smith's May St. motel which was reported to be in one of the "moon's" magazines. He opened up one of the magazines and was so embarrassed when he saw the first or second picture that he hurriedly grappled the other two he had been told the story might be in and got out of the store before anyone could see him with them. He had no idea such perverse slime was being sold and displayed in stores owned by respectable men. Not even in the service had he seen anything equal to it.

It would, of course, be ideal if everyone in Charlevoix who sells magazines got together and decided they would not put such garbage in their stores. But apparently this is not going to happen. So if Nixon gets elected we are going to make sure he knows we haven't forgotten his promise.

Loomis cites plant's problems

Printed here is the complete, verbatim text of a letter written by Medusa Portland Cement Co., vice president with Loomis to the firm's Charlevoix public relations consultant Fran Martin.

As signified by the letters "b" below Loomis's signature, blind (or secret) carbon copies were sent to Bernard Bloomfield, director of the State Health Dept.'s air pollution control division; Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach; Mayor William Fichtman; and the company's local attorney, Norman Ance.

The Courier believes readers will be as shocked as it is by the admissions of pollution Loomis makes and by the fact that the two local officials who received the letter did not alert the public—Editor.

RE: Status of Various Charlevoix Citizens' Complaints

Dear Fran,

The following is some general background information on Charlevoix's Citizens' complaints. You will note that in a number of instances we are not able to make a definite statement about future action.

1. Dust Disposal

We had promised that by the end of August we would announce a plan to dispose of the kiln dust. I anticipate that Mr. Krebs will not be making a statement on Friday, August 30, stating that we have now selected a new site, that we have agreed that such an appointed committee would be balanced between those already active in protesting Medusa and others whose judgment might be more impartial. This was to protect us against a smear campaign. Neither Fichtman nor Rabach are anxious to see such a committee appointed because it sets an undesirable precedent. Berlage and Shepard now constitute a self-appointed committee and it may be that we

2. Reason for Dust Disposal

In the early announcement of the plant we had stated that we planned to insulate the dust (blow it into the burning zone of the kiln). We are not now able to do this because in the intervening three years the quality competition in cement has reduced the allowable alkali content. Alkali is used to concentrate in the fine dust particles and recirculation of the dust builds up the alkali content in the cement.

3. Dust from Material Piles

Many of our piles are exposed to the wind and the dust is blown from the gypsum pile near the clinker pile except as material is being put on the pile. At the moment we have no plan to eliminate this source of dust.

4. Release of Western Precipitation Test

I have talked to Berne Bloomfield at the Michigan Department of Health and he agrees that we should release the results of our test. We decided the best way to do this is to give a copy of the 10-page Western Precipitation report to Dean Mikulski who is the Environmental Health Officer of Charlevoix Township. Hank Krebs will issue a statement summarizing the results of the Western Precipitation test and stating that a copy is in the hands of Mr. Mikulski which will be available to the public for inspection.

5. Low Level Dust Sources within the Plant Grounds

Trucking and dust handling do create dust within the plant property which can be seen from Boulder Park and across the bay. We should explore road wetting compounds and campaign with our employees in order to reduce such dust to a minimum. This is the kind of problem that just takes a lot of attention every week of the year.

6. Medusa's Offer to Pay Independent Testing Lab

My statement to the newspaper and the original quotation in the newspaper itself make it clear that our offer only extends to an independent citizens' committee jointly appointed by Supervisor Rabach and Mayor Fichtman. In my earlier conversation with them requesting approval of this idea they had agreed that such an appointed committee would be balanced between those already active in protesting Medusa and others whose judgment might be more impartial. This was to protect us against a smear campaign. Neither Fichtman nor Rabach are anxious to see such a committee appointed because it sets an undesirable precedent. Berlage and Shepard now constitute a self-appointed committee and it may be that we will have to extend our offer to them. This is to be avoided if possible.

7. Slurry

I have told Glenn Shepard there is no way to reduce the noise level of the plant. Frank Stevens in his memo of August 5 has stated the plant will close the doors and windows on the town side of the plant at night which should prevent some of the noise transmission. We should be frank about our inability to do much about this. Do not hold out the possibility of soundproofing.

8. Cement Slurry Dumped in the Lake

Last Fall when the slurry tanks were drained and sometimes when there is a spill in the raw materials building, slurry has worked its way down hill into the Slip. I believe the plant will close the doors and windows on the town side of the plant at night which should prevent some of the noise transmission. We should be frank about our inability to do much about this. Do not hold out the possibility of soundproofing.

9. Erosion of Soil into Lake

If this is a problem we should plant cover or place riprap to prevent it.

10. County and Township Roads

We have indicated to the Charlevoix County Road Commission that we wish to co-operate in either the maintenance of the Hills Bay Road or in the improvement of that road so that it will stand the truck traffic we have created. The next step is for the County Road Commissioners to prepare an estimate of how the road should be improved, at which time we can discuss the equities of payment for the improvement.

11. Landscaping

Mr. Lockwood from the Conservation Department is visiting the plant August 28 and will make recommendations. A combination of rapid growing and slow growing plants should be used. Some planting will take place this Fall and more in the Spring.

12. Signs Identifying Medusa Plant

We have a design and specification for a sign similar to Wampum's to be placed at the entrance to our property. Burns Hanlon has rejected one bid as too expensive, the is working on a new bid. A lighted sign on Route 51 is strongly recommended by Frank Martin and Ann Ritchie.

13. Precipitation Shut off at Night

This never occurs by secret design to pollute the air when we cannot be observed as some have charged. It may be that when repair is necessary, a section of the precipitator is shut down during the night or day. When this will occur for more than several hours Hank Krebs should be prepared to give Fran Martin a statement of what the trouble is and how long it will probably take to fix it.

14. Kiln Stack Odor

Except for an occasional (a few hours every two months) upset we don't believe the plant is creating any sulphur odor or any other kind of odor. There is a rumor we are using some kind of deodorant (stored in thousands of 50 gallon drums at the plant) in order to mask the odor. There is no truth to this charge. Ordinarily the Control Room is instructed to keep the oxygen content of the kiln down to 1% in order to minimize the amount of air that has to be heated. Mr. Stevens, in his August 5 memo, has instructed the plant to increase the oxygen content to 2% when the prevailing wind is over Charlevoix.

15. Air Sampling Reports

At some time in the future the State will probably be releasing information on the ambient air quality before and after the cement plant was built. It is probable that this will show some increase, both because the code permits some dust to be put in the air and also due to other causes such as road dust. We should be prepared to handle the headline that Glenn Shepard will undoubtedly create when such information is released, and to comment in advance.

County pays $2,543,293 in property taxes Boyet taxes county's highest, Charlevoix third Boyet City residents pay the highest property tax rate in Charlevoix County.

East Jordan residents are the second highest hit, with Charlevoix third and Melrose Township (Walloon Lake) fourth.

Boyet City residents, according to the tax apportionment report approved by the County Board of Supervisors last week, will pay 50.20 mills in property taxes. The millage rate in East Jordan is 46, in Charlevoix it is 34.75, with Melrose close behind at 34.69.

County, township and school property tax bills will be mailed in early December. City residents receive tax property tax bills a year, they get the December bill plus the city operating tax bill in June.

Though Charlevoix Township's 27.75 mill tax rate is five mills lower than the city of Charlevoix and more than 20 mills lower than Boyet City's, township property owners will pay more tax than any other municipality in the county.

Charlevoix Township is expected to pay $402,543 in taxes. Most of this will be paid by Melrose in its South Point plant and property.

Peatne Township on Beaver Island will levy the highest township tax rate in the county, nine mills. St. James Township, also on the island, is second highest with seven mills. The third highest tax levy for township use is Melrose with 4.5 mills.

The average millage range across the county is 32.96. Excluding the three cities, the average rate is 30.08.

For each mill levied taxpayer $1 on every $1,000 of taxable property valuation they own. Meaning a person with property assessed at $10,000 will pay $300 in taxes if the tax rate is 30 mills.

Charlevoix city taxpayers will pay 34.75 mills in property taxes. This breaks down to 5.60 mills for county operation; 6 mills for city operation; 20.45 mills for the Charlevoix School District; and .70 mills for the Intermediate School District.

Charlevoix Township's tax rate will be five mills less because the township levies three mills for operation instead of the eight levied by the city.

In contrast to Charlevoix's eight mills for operation, Boyet City levies 20.20 and East Jordan levies 19.50.

Charlevoix School District's 20.45-mill levy is the fourth highest levied in the county. Boyet Falls levies 25.20; Peatne levies 24 mills in the former Walloon Lake District; Boyet City levies 23.70; East Jordan levies 20.20 and Beaver Island's school levy is 14.99 mills.

The total amount of property taxes citizens of each area city or township will pay (with the average mill rate in parentheses) is:

Charlevoix, $342,199 (34.75); Charlevoix Township, $402,543 (27.75); Boyet Township, $291,638 (28.93); Marlette Township, $41,054 (27.70); Norwood Township, $20,550 (27.70); Eveline Township, $21,166 (25.08); Peatne Township, $19,877 (30.20); St. James Township, $23,507 (28.22); South Arm, $84,283; East Jordan, $226,707 (46).

Of the $342,199 Charlevoix citizens are expected to pay in property taxes $52,146 will go to the county; $78,780 will go to the city; $201,260 to the school district and $6,893 to the Intermediate School District.

Charlevoix Township will pay $277,394 to the school district; $75,961 to the county; $40,693 to the township, and $2,446 to the Intermediate School District.

County residents will pay a total of $2,543,293 in property taxes. Of this, $419,417 goes to the county; $447,278 to township and cities; $1,694,560 to schools; and $52,037 to the Intermediate School District.

Erber bid low on police car

Erber Auto Co. is the low bidder for a new city police car.

Erber bid $1,494 on a 1969 Ford with police equipment. Other bids were $2,175 on a Chevrolet and $2,500 on a Buick, both from Charlevoix Oil Co., and $2,088 on an Oldsmobile from Parsel Garage. All bids included trade-in of the city's 1967 car.

The 1968 Oldsmobile now being driven by the police department is expected to become the city manager's car when the 1969 police car is received. The council has referred the bids to committee for recommendation.

Reveal plan to quarry Bells Bay land

The Conservation Dept. this week agreed to delay action on its proposal to lease a large portion of the State Forest area at Bells Bay to Medusa Portland Cement Co.

Department chiefs were prepared to recommend that quarrying rights to all but a narrow lake-shore strip of the state-owned forest area at Bells Bay south of Charlevoix be leased to Medusa.

The Conservation Commission was slated to be asked to approve the lease plan at its meeting next Friday, November 8. The recommendation was signed by department director Dr. Ralph MacMullan and other department chiefs.

Dr. MacMullan agreed to pull the least recommended of the November commission meeting agenda, he said he was not aware of the property's importance as a recreation and nature area to Charlevoix.

No notice of the pending lease plan had been given to area citizens or officials, including Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach and area State Forester Jack Lockwood.

Rabach, who spent years raising funds to get the campground built at Bells Bay, said he opposes the lease plan.

Lockwood was surprised to find details of the lease so near completion. He had not been notified the proposal was being given serious consideration in Lansing and had no idea Medusa wanted more than the eight to ten acre former quarry site north of the Bells Bay Rd.

The Department's proposal calls for leasing mineral rights on 216 acres of the publicly owned land. This would leave a 226-yard shoreline strip which would not be quarried.

The quarry lease would last 75 years.

J.D. Stephansky, head of the department's Lands Division, said, "The land is going to be destroyed by quarrying." Stephansky was one of the division heads signing the lease recommendation.

Medusa owns, and is working, its 585-acre South Point limestone quarry directly next to the 216 acres it seeks to lease from the state. Estimates are its limestone reserves will last 60 to 100 years.

The lease plans were revealed by Greg Shadko of Charlevoix, retired regional surveyor for the Conservation Dept.

Shadko wrote to Dr. MacMullan to object to the possibility a small portion—probably about eight acres—might be leased to Medusa. "The Department has already made too many concessions to the predators on our heritage," Shadko wrote.

Dr. MacMullan's reply to Shadko's letter revealed the unexpected extent and immediacy of the lease plans. Shadko immediately informed the Courier, which in turn contacted Rabach, Lockwood and others.

This Monday Gene Garley, Dr. MacMullan's administrative assistant, told the Courier plans are being made to re-assess the department's position on the matter and an informal meeting may be held soon with Charlevoix area conservationists.

School hikes lunch charge to keep within its budget

The school year is only two months old and already the Charlevoix school board is struggling to stay within its $895,168 budget for 1968-69.

With an anticipated $11,000 deficit in the budget, the school board is finding it necessary to cut corners to prevent an even bigger deficit.

Two actions at Monday evening's board meeting reflected this concern about the budget:

The board raised the hot lunch charge and ordered Supt. Rex Milligan to experiment with an ala carte menu in the cafeteria.

The board directed its Community Education director, Delbert Terrill, to organize a community fund raising event—such as a dinner—to raise approximately $1,000 to purchase rental roller skates for a public skating program in the elementary school gym.

Milligan told the board raising the hot lunch charge and offering some ala carte items, such as pie, should return the cafeteria program to a self-supporting basis.

Last year, Milligan pointed out, the board had to transfer $2,414 from the general fund to the hot lunch fund. In most previous years the program had been self-supporting.

Hot lunch charges were raised from $1.30 a week to $1.50 a week for grade school children and from $1.55 to $1.75 a week for high school students who buy meal tickets.

The cost of an individual daily hot lunch ticket was raised from 30-cents to 35-cents in the grade school and from 35-cents to 40-cents in the high school. Teachers who have been paying 35-cents per meal will now pay 40-cents.

The new prices go into effect Monday, November 4.

Milligan said the increased prices are in line with those charged by other schools.

Board member Dale Boss voted against the increase because he said he feels teachers should pay 50-cents for a lunch.

Milligan said he will have the cafeteria staff begin offering a limited number of ala carte side dishes, like pie, as soon as possible. If the ala carte plan is popular, he said it may be expanded to include hamburgers and other items.

A community fund raising event to pay for rental roller skates was suggested by Board President Glen Kenney. "Let's get the people involved," Kenney urged Terrill.

Terrill told the board roller skates will cost about $9 a pair and about 100 pair are needed.

He and board member Jerry Rodeker reported on a community education conference they attended in Flint. The Flint school children and from $1.55 to $1.75 a students and the sixth grade will attend the movie. All other grades will see it Thursday.

Principal Glenn Sider reports the Halloween movie, paid for by the Kiwanis Club, will be "The Incredible Mr. Limpet" with Don Knotts.

Parents can send their children to school in costume or have them change into costume at school.

Wednesday and Thursday the children will be treated to a free movie at the Palace Theatre, Wednesday St. Mary's community and adult activities evenings and weekends.

The public roller skates in every Flint school, he said.

Kenney suggested Terrill organize a dinner, or some other event, to raise money for the skates. He asked that the event be firmly planned within two weeks.

The skating program, Terrill said, will eventually pay for the skates.

In other matters, the board raised the annual tuition for its five non-Charlevoix students from $120 to $125 a year for elementary students and from $180 to $200 for high school students.

High School principal Ray Carr reported that efforts to broaden the curriculum were stymied this year due to lack of space.

Next year, when seventh and eighth grades move into the present elementary school which will become the middle school for grades 5 through 8—Carr said more new courses will be added.

Courses he is considering adding are advanced biology and physics, sociology, business law, third and fourth year foreign language and more courses related to cooperative education.

Carr said he is also studying the possibility of going from the present six-period class day to a five-period day. Students, he said, would attend five 70-minute class periods.

Under the five-period schedule classes could be held four times a week instead of five and would be at different times of the day.

Boss said he has doubts about the five-period plan because it would eliminate study halls. Many students, he said, need their study halls.

Carr said he has by no means decided on such a program. A five-period schedule, he explained, can only work if teachers give students time during class sessions to do much of their studying.

Conflict charge cleared against city's attorney

Attorney General Frank Kelley has cleared City Attorney John Michael of the interest charges made against him by Mrs. Jean Vogler and others.

"It is clear that John R. Michael neither is nor has been in any conflict of interest with respect to the inclusion of Hampton Village in a special assessment district," Kelley stated in a letter to State Rep. Don Davis.

Kelley said his determination that no conflict of interest exists is based on documents and information he received relating to the matter.

Mrs. Vogler and others concerned about Michael's alleged financial involvement in the Hampton Village subdivision charged that there was a conflict of interest because Michael is a partner in Hampton Associates.

The Attorney General's office, however, could find no financial connection between Hampton Associates and Hampton Village. Michael owns no property of interest in Hampton Village, according to Kelley's findings.

Hampton Associates is a partnership between James Richey—who also owns Hampton Village—and Michael. DuPont Associates has no property or assets in Hampton Village.

Michael has steadfastly denied any financial interest in Hampton Village.

The conflict of interest charge has been hanging for more than a year. Michael and city officials have pressed the Attorney General for a decision on it but until now received nothing.

The charge was included in a lawsuit started by persons against whom a city special assessment levy was made to help pay for streets in Hampton Village. The lawsuit is in limbo.

The special assessment bills went out recently, but no new court action has been started.

"Upon the basis of the above and foregoing affidavits," Kelley concluded his findings on the conflict charge. "I advise you that pursuant to such affidavits it is clear that John R. Michael neither is nor has been in any conflict of interest with respect to the inclusion of Hampton Village in a special assessment district as set forth in said affidavits nor otherwise in connection with the relationship between Mr. Richey and Mr. Michael as related to the relationship between Mr. Michael as City Attorney and the City of Charlevoix," Kelley concluded.

Election generates no issues

If the national political pundits think Nixon and Humphrey have failed to clarify issues they oughta be covering Charlevoix County politics.

Though several county and local contests will be on the ballot next Tuesday, none have generated even mild public interest. No issues have been developed and campaigning has been held to polite newspaper ads.

Area voters will be electing County Supervisors from new districts for the first time. Also new on the ballot will be a contest for a second circuit judge.

Potoskey attorney Dick Smith is unopposed in his bid for election to the new District Court bench. However, John Murphy's name is on the ballot because he withdrew from the race after the ballots were printed.

In the Supervisor contest the most interest has been focused on Charlevoix County Republican Clayton A. Smith's challenge of Hayes Township Supervisor Lee Shearborn for the new two-township county board seat.

In the Eveline-Walton Township District Republican Ralph Richardson is opposing Democrat Jon V. Vrandan.

All other local supervisor candidates are unopposed.

Only two county contests have generated even mild interest.

Veteran Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach is opposed by Charlevoix County Democratic Committee Chairman Pete Johnson of Boyet City for the County Clerk's post, which Pete Rabach is vacating.

Charlevoix attorney Robert Hoffman, a Democrat, is challenging incumbent Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varnum of Boyet City.

Incumbent Republican County Treasurer Anah H. Potter is considered a shoo-in to beat Democrat George J. Vrandan.

In addition to these contests, voters will find a complicated non-partisan ballot and proposals ballot to mark on election day.

Medusa will install new clinker cooler

Medusa Portland Cement Co. announced last week it will install a new clinker cooler at its Hampton Village plant.

A news release from the firm's Cleveland headquarters said new clinker cooling machinery will be in operation by March of 1969. The news release was dated October 21.

On October 14 District Health Dept. sanitarian Dean Mikulski told the township board Medusa is allowing hot clinker to cool in the open air at its South Point plant. This, Mikulski explained, violates the township's air pollution ordinance.

The township board directed Mikulski to order Medusa to eliminate the violation.

Prior to the board's official action Don Burley, head of the township committee seeking enforcement of the clear air laws, focused attention on the clinker cooling problem.

Burley halted last week's announcement as recognition that Medusa is accepting its responsibility to obey the law. "We sincerely hope," he said, "that the day will soon come when the company's stockholders will comply with the laws without public pressure first being applied."

The new clinker cooler, costing about $650,000, will be installed in January and February 1969 and will be ready at the start of the season in March. Medusa will make every effort and expects to maintain full employment during this period.

"The installed unit will be capable of cooling 15,000 barrels of clinker per day or 15 percent more than the rated capacity of the large kiln at Charlevoix."

"This new equipment will substantially alleviate the dust generated from the existing clinker cooler and clinker handling equipment. The clinker will not have to be handled twice as it will be cooled adequately as it leaves the new cooler."

"The Charlevoix plant is considered one of the best in the country as far as equipment and layout is concerned, said Frank C. Stevens, vice president-operations, and this new addition and other improvements, we'll operate it successfully at its rated capacity making high quality cement at lower costs."

Chamber dinner Monday

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will stage its once-a-year community get-together at the Argonne Monday, November 4.

Chamber manager Walter Loder said the annual dinner meeting will be a fun event. Business, he explained, will be held to a minimum. No speaker is planned.

Business will include the traditional financial report and announcement of the three new directors elected recently by Chamber members. Ballots were sent to members.

Candidates for the three director posts being vacated by Chuck Carey, Don Kowbel and Al Smith are Tom Hanna, Bruce Bartley, Larry LaRow, George Richardson, Gordon Neff and Joseph Halliargoon.

The dinner starts at 7:30. Tickets, at $3.75 each, can be purchased at the Chamber office. Dance music will be provided. There will be beer prizes.

The Ladies Fellowship will meet at the church Wednesday evening at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edwards were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meyers last Tuesday evening.

Mable and Elliot Bird have returned to Flint after closing their cottage for the winter.

Everyone was happy to see Mrs. Jennie Duffie in church this Sunday morning after her fall down stairs in her home three weeks ago, which gave her minor bruises and shock.

We feel she was most fortunate. For a lady who is 83 years old, she surely must have someone watching over her. Her many local friends wish her well.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kalkman of Holland, Michigan were guests last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwall.

Norman Crowe and friend Alta Fayre of Detroit were guests several days the past week at the home of Mr. Crowe's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwall.

LET JIM MARSHALL HELP YOU WITH YOUR DEBTS THROUGH AMERICAN COMMUNITY MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.

Have you ever thought of the very first directory sentence in any will: "I direct that all my just debts be paid."

Children's educations are debts. A mother's full time attention to her children is a debt. Adequate food, shelter and clothing is a debt. Are these debts any more pressing than a mortgage or unpaid bills?

Life insurance is the only way you can write a will for money you do not have.

Now in exclusive use on over 20,000 Panthers, Arctic's Torsion Spring is recognized as the most advanced and comfortable-riding suspension system in the industry. Come for a demonstration ride over the roughest terrain you can find. See why there is a difference in snowmobiles!

Fellow Citizens:

James M. Fitzpatrick is a candidate for Circuit Judge in the Election next Tuesday. This is a second Judgeship for the 13th Circuit which includes Charlevoix, Antrim, Grand Traverse and Leelanau Counties, recently created by the Legislature to relieve the crowded condition of the Circuit Court dockets in these Counties.

For many years I have known Jim Fitzpatrick and have followed his career as an attorney - from Prosecuting Attorney of Leelanau County for six years through thirteen years as the first Municipal Judge of Traverse City, to the present time. His reputation is unexcelled for thorough knowledge, ability and competence in human relations and hard work. He is known for his complete dedication to his clients interests and to the law.

I am happy to endorse James M. Fitzpatrick for Circuit Judge to serve with our Present Judge, Charles L. Brown.

Sincerely,
Fenton R. Bulow

State sell-out

A WEEK AGO we could count on leaving one small area near Charlevoix unspoiled for our grandchildren. This week we cannot look forward to the grandkids finding any area of the lake shore unspoiled.

Put in this context, the Conservation Dept.'s proposal to lease 216 acres of the Bells Bay State Forest area to Medusa for quarrying is shocking and frightening.

But it is not an unfair prediction. Joe Stohansky, head of the Conservation Dept.'s Land Division, who originally recommended the lease, told the Courier, "The land is going to be destroyed by quarrying."

The point we have to get across to Dr. Ralph MacMullen, head of the Conservation Dept., and the Conservation Commission is that the land the quarrying will destroy is the ONLY land LIKE IT we have left. When it is gone we, the people, have nothing but a thin strip left along Lake Michigan.

North of Charlevoix the once wilderness shoreline is taken up with houses, cottages and factories. South of town only the Bells Bay forest area and strip south of it to Fisherman's Island remains undeveloped. The Detroit-based land-holding firm which owns the Fisherman's Island area will soon be launching a home and cottage development.

So Bells Bay is nature's only oasis from Harbor Springs south.

Imagine the look on your grandson's face 30 years from now as he looks at the pot holes and grimy babbled Bells Bay and you tell him the area would still be public wilderness if we had fought for it in 1968. You know right now you would never be able to look him in the eye and make such an admission.

(The stakes are so great that we feel justified in getting that muddled in make our point.)

Dr. MacMullen was all set to push for approval of the quarry lease at the November 8 Conservation Commission meeting. If this had been done no one in Charlevoix would have had a chance to express an opinion on the matter.

Fortunately, the department had second thoughts about ramming the proposal through. No decision will now be made before December, at the earliest.

There is a chance a public hearing will be held in Charlevoix to give citizens a chance to view all facts and speak out. Such a hearing should be held.

The 220-yard buffer strip between the lake shore road and the quarry would, under normal circumstances, be considered far too narrow for conservationists dedicated to preserving the public's interest.

For instance, in planning a federal park in the Upper Peninsula's Pictured Rocks area, conservationists demanded a buffer zone of several miles between the actual park and commercial uses. The same type buffer is used to protect the natural beauty of the Sylvania tract in the western U.P.

In both Sylvania and Pictured Rocks, it should be noted, the commercial use against which conservationists were creating a buffer was logging. Cutting and transporting timber is certainly a cleaner, less obnoxious operation than the clamor and dust of limestone mining.

Why Dr. MacMullen would even consider allowing a commercial user to destroy our publicly-owned remnant of natural Lake Michigan shoreline confuses us as well as angers us.

He and his staff are supposed to be conservationists first. However, the leasing proposal they were prepared to put before the Conservation Commission ignores conservation and places all priorities on the more than $200,000 in lease income Medusa would pay the state over the years.

We can only assume Dr. MacMullen and his advisors were not aware of the increasingly critical shortage of shoreline safeguarded against man's depredations.

Great things on Lake Charlevoix

By GLEN SHEPPARD
Until 1966 smallmouth fishing was still good in Lake Charlevoix. Since then it has fallen off sharply. No one knows, or is saying, why.

The same holds true for Charlevoix and Herring Island. Though the smallmouth fishing is still good around the islands, both the quantity and quality of fish is way down from pre-1965 days.

However, Great Lakes Fishery Station Chief Myr Kellor is pressing the department to launch a smallmouth research and management program at the islands which will, logically, be tied in with followup efforts on Lake Charlevoix.

Perch shouldn't be forgotten in any preview of Charlevoix's fishing future.

Good perch fishing obviously means a lot of local sportmen, and those who derive income from cut-siders. Even charter boat skippers can expect some paying customers who want to fill a bucket with yellow-bellies.

The Conservation Dept., evidently, is counting on the perch to either come back on their own or disappear.

However, still rather sketchy information suggests the perch is staying on its typewriter, or not. We'd better get ready for big things. (The first "big thing" I'd like to see is about a quarter to a half-million more planted steelhead, to lock back the coho.)

Remember, those charter boat guys cannot afford to be wrong. Scales on my typewriter, or not, we'd better get ready for big things. (The first "big thing" I'd like to see is about a quarter to a half-million more planted steelhead, to lock back the coho.)

Smallmouth fishing has a less predictable future.

Even Jim Alsop started catching steelhead last week!!!

Until last week the only people deliberately fishing for trout who caught them with any regularity were oldtimers, or sons of oldtimers, who had the technique and lake knowledge of bygone years to fall back on.

The fact that we beginners are starting to catch a few is more than just a lucky story.

As Stan Liveness (the fish biologist who started the whole thing back in 1965 by bootlegging a few thousand hatchery rainbows for Lake Charlevoix) would explain, "It takes a surplus of fish before the fishing is good."

Since 1965 when Stan hijacked those 20,000 trout which were not supposed to go into Lake Charlevoix, the Conservation Dept. has planted 10,000 rainbows in the lake. This has the native stock leftover from the lamprey heyday is starting to produce enough fish that they can be caught.

It should be understood that when a few people fishing for bass begin to catch an occasional trout the fishing is not "good." Nor is it good, if by good we mean for general recreational fishing, when a few intrepid experts like Pete Bennett can catch them regularly.

The fishing is "good" when average hard-fishing anglers with the proper equipment and skill can catch fish with predictable regularity. When this point is reached fishermen will spend the money and time to try their luck.

That Lake Charlevoix is reaching this point and will soon surpass it is shown by the sudden interest professional charter boat skippers have taken this fall in making Charlevoix their base of operations.

These men have had experience up and down the Lake Michigan shore. Some of them operated lake trout trolling boats until the late 1940s.

They returned to charter boat fishing due to the coho. But this year taught them the coho is not predictable fishing. So they looked around for what they can expect to have the longest, most dependable fishing season.

Charlevoix appears to be their choice.

Not only of course, because the steelhead are coming back. Also because we are on the verge of great lake trout and coho fishing, and also because they know something is going to be done about smallmouth bass and Lake Charlevoix and Beaver Island.

Nixon, they say, is the one. This editor, rather reluctantly, hopes the American people agree. But wishes there was a better choice.

None of the presidential candidates in my opinion rate the Courier's editorial endorsement. I cannot convince myself that it would be responsible to editorially predict what any of the three will do in the next four years.

We do, however, have some reservations about the bonding proposal. We would like to see coupled with it a promise that our until now spineless Water Resources Dept. will make industry cleanup its water wastes immediately.

Proposal four would bond the state for another $100 million to pay for expanded recreational facilities. These are needed and this appears to be the most economical way to pay for them.

At the bottom of the "proposals ballot" is a proposal to amend the constitution so that state officials can run for the Legislature while serving in another state office. We're against this one, too. Sounds like opening the door for special interests.

In between are proposals two, three and four. We favor all three.

Proposal two calls for the state to continue observing Daylight Savings Time. (Daylight Savings Time is what we were on this summer.) Though we will get by either way, we are sort of partial to the later morning sunrise and later evening sunset.

Proposal three calls for a $335 million-dollar bond issue to build community sewage treatment plants around the state. At least three new sewage plants are needed right now in towns on Lake Charlevoix. Approval of this bond issue is supposed to guarantee us 50% to 75% of the funds for these new plants.

Student discipline

ARTICLE XII
MAINTENANCE OF STANDARDS
A. It is recognized by the Board that there may be items relative to hours, wages, working conditions which heretofore have been enjoyed by the Association which inadvertently have been omitted from this Agreement, in such case the Board agrees to use good faith in not depriving members of the Association of such advantages.

ARTICLE XIV
REDUCTIONS IN PERSONNEL AND ANNEXATIONS AND CONSOLIDATIONS OF DISTRICT
A. To the full extent permitted by law, this Agreement shall be binding upon the Board and its successor personnel and upon any school district into which or with which this district shall be merged or combined.

B. In the event this district shall be combined with one or more districts, the Board will use its best efforts to assure the continued recognition of the Association and the continued employment of its members in such consolidated district.

C. Should substantial and unforeseen changes in student population or other conditions make necessary a general reduction in the number of teachers employed by the Board, the Board will retain as nearly as possible those teachers with permanent teaching certificates whose qualifications most nearly fulfill the requirements of subjects to be taught and, secondly, having the longest service in the district. The Association and Board will further use their best efforts to assist all teachers terminated for lack of work to secure employment in adjacent school districts upon terms and conditions as nearly comparable as possible. Nothing herein shall relieve the Board from fulfilling the terms of any contract with a teacher.

ARTICLE XV
CONTINUITY OF OPERATIONS

A. Both parties recognize the desirability of continuous and uninterrupted operation of the instructional program during the normal school year and the avoidance of disputes which threaten to interfere with such operations. The Association accordingly agrees that it will not, during the period of this Agreement, directly or indirectly, engage in or assist in any strike as defined by Section 1 of the Public Employment Relations Act.

B. The Board and Teachers agree that they will not, during the period of this Agreement, directly or indirectly engage in or assist in any unfair labor practice as defined by Section 10 of the Public Employment Relations Act.

ARTICLE XVI
PROFESSIONAL COMPENSATION

A. The basic salaries of teachers covered by this Agreement are set forth in Schedule B which is attached to and incorporated in this Agreement. Each year's salary schedule shall remain in effect during the term of this Agreement.

B. All teachers newly employed shall be given five years credit on the Salary Schedule set forth in Schedule B for full years of outside teaching experience in any school district in the State of Michigan and other teaching experience for which credit is allowed.

Teachers' Contract

C. The Salary Schedule is based upon the regular school calendar as set forth in Schedule A and the normal teaching load as defined in this agreement. No teacher will be allowed to teach in excess of the normal teaching loads as defined by North Central.

D. Teachers involved in extra duty assignments set forth in Schedules B-1 and B-2 which are attached to and incorporated in this Agreement shall be compensated in accordance with the provisions thereof. All teachers shall be compensated in accordance with the provisions of this Article and the annexed Schedules without deviation.

E. At any time during the school year all teachers receiving a BA, BA & 20 hrs. or MA, MA & 20 hrs. degree shall be given a new contract or a rider to that year's contract and be placed on schedule.

F. All teachers shall be placed on schedule immediately on written contract.

G. Teachers required in the course of their work to drive personal automobiles from one school building to another shall receive a car allowance of ten cents per mile. The same allowance shall be given for use of the district, personal car for field trips or other business of the district. The Board shall provide liability insurance protection for teachers when their personal automobiles are used as provided in this section.

ARTICLE XVII
STUDENT DISCIPLINE AND TEACHER PROTECTION

A. Since the teacher's authority and effectiveness in his classroom are undermined when students discover that there is insufficient administrative backing and support of the teacher, the Board recognizes its responsibility to give all reasonable support and assistance to teachers with respect to the maintenance of control and discipline in the classroom. The Board further recognizes that the teacher may not fairly be expected to assume the role of warden or custodian for emotionally disturbed students nor to be charged with responsibility for psychotherapy. Whenever it appears that a particular pupil requires the attention of special counselors, social workers, law enforcement personnel, physicians or other professional persons, the Board will take reasonable steps to relieve the teacher of responsibilities with respect to such pupil.

B. It is recognized that discipline problems are less likely to occur in classes which are well taught and where a high level of student interest is maintained. It is likewise recognized that when discipline problems occur, they may most constructively be dealt with by encouragement, praise and emphasis upon the child's desirable characteristics. A teacher may use such force as is necessary to protect himself from attack or to prevent injury to another student.

C. A teacher may exclude a pupil from one class when the seriousness of the offense, the persistence of the misbehavior or the disruptive effect of the violation makes the continued presence of the student in the classroom intolerable. In such cases, the teacher will furnish the principal, as promptly as his teaching obligations will allow, full particulars of the incident.

D. Suspension of students from school may be imposed only by a principal or his designated representative. School authorities will endeavor to achieve correction of student misbehavior through counsel and interviews with the child and his parents when warranted. Transfer of the student to another teacher or other measures, short of suspension, will first be exhausted.

E. No action shall be taken upon any complaint by a parent of a student directed toward a teacher, nor shall any notice thereof be included in said teacher's personnel file unless such matter is promptly reported in writing to the teacher concerned. If any question of breach of professional ethics is involved, the Association shall be notified.

ARTICLE XVIII
INSURANCE PROTECTION

The Board agrees to furnish to all teachers the following insurance protection:

A. The Board shall provide insurance as set forth in Schedule B of this Agreement for 1968-69 and Schedule B-1 of this Agreement for 1969-70.

B. Every teacher employed in this district shall have the right to participate in the MCA health insurance program with payroll deduction privileges.

It was no accident that JAMES M. FITZPATRICK led the Primary vote for CIRCUIT JUDGE, as those who know "Fitz" personally can advise. Jim Fitzpatrick is a very wealthy man indeed if one counts friends as riches. "If you have never met Jim, you have missed something," so says a local Fitzpatrick supporter. It is the human quality about James Matthew Fitzpatrick which these same supporters point to as the reason why their candidate led the rest in the August Primary Vote.

"Let me just tell you something about Jim. Then you can make a judgment for yourselves," they say. And, then, out the tales and stories pour... of Fitzpatrick as Prosecutor for 6 years in Leelanau County in the depths of the depression working for a salary of $750.00 per year... or of Judge Fitzpatrick, the first Municipal Judge for Traverse City, whose 13 years on that bench set the pattern for procedure and approaches in Municipal Courts in many parts of the state... or of lawyer Fitzpatrick whose clientele over 30 years of practice are the ordinary everyday workers and farmers who are the backbone of the region.

Jim is honest straight through. He hates fraud, pretension and put-on with a vengeance. Fitz is the same to all—rich or poor, young or old, important or down and out. Jim hasn't an enemy in the Bar Association. He has a needling nickname for each of his fellow attorneys and his incisive wit has struck home with more than one of them. But the lawyers to a man bear the deepest affection for their "Fitz" and regard him as a lawyer's lawyer in competence and wisdom. Proof of this was his election as President of the Antrim, Grand Traverse and Leelanau Bar Association.

So says a Fitzpatrick enthusiast. For Fitzpatrick supporters are indeed an enthusiastic lot. Varied in background and status, they all concur. "Jimmie Fitz" is quite a human being but, most of all, they say his human qualities will make him an outstanding CIRCUIT JUDGE.

Marion Fay headed home

Chief Hospital Corpsman Marion K. Fay, USN, 37, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion U. Fay of 1440 S. Bridge St., Charlevoix, and husband of the former Miss Mable M. Simpson of Route 1, Jacksonville, N.C., is returning to the United States aboard the destroyer USS Steinaker.

For the past six months Steinaker has been assigned to the U.S. Seventh Fleet off the coast of Vietnam. The destroyer provided gunfire support operations in Binh Thuan and Phu Yen Provinces, conducted Sea Oragon operations off the coast of North Vietnam, and anti-air warfare picket duties off the Demilitarized Zone.

Steinaker also acted as escort destroyer for five different attack carriers during an intense period of air strike operations against strategic targets in North Vietnam.

During Steinaker's entire deployment, the ship maintained a high record of combat readiness with no major casualties either to the ship or to the crewmembers, despite the most rigorous operating conditions.

Steinaker is scheduled to arrive in Norfolk, Va. in November.

MRS. ETHEL WIESINGER stands near a carved Chinese chow table in her delightfully decorated Charlevoix home.

Mrs. Wiesinger gives house oriental touch

by PAT BEGROW
A newcomer to Charlevoix, Mrs. Ethel Wiesinger, owns the lovely stone house at the corner of Potoskey Avenue and Aud.
When built in 1936 it was the first new house in Charlevoix in 20 years.
The wide-eyed optimistic speculator who undertook the venture was Kit Carson, who was then living in East Jordan. Most Charlevoix residents including the mayor made it clear to Carson that his was a foolish undertaking. Carson made it clear to them that they were wrong for he spent less than $1,000 on two lots and used only one for the Wiesinger house.

When the house was built he sold it immediately to Dr. and Mrs. Palmer from Beaver Island for $6,300. Since then the value of the house has multiplied.
Mrs. Wiesinger is a sharp-eyed business woman who knows a good deal when she sees one. Before moving to Charlevoix she was a successful real estate agent in Los Angeles.

She has lived in cities all over the world but feels fortunate to live in Charlevoix, feeling the people who live here are not provincial but as sophisticated as those of any suburb.
Mrs. Wiesinger spent many years in the Orient with her husband, who was an export import dealer. There she picked-up treasures of the East which she has incorporated into her Charlevoix house. She has painted the trim of her stone house with bright orange to convey a hint of the strong Chinese influence within.
Inside the house she used Chinese wood carvings to frame the doorways and give continuity to her delightful house.

IVORY CARVINGS are displayed against a scene made of semi-precious stones and jade.

THESE VIETNAMESE bronze figures were brought in Saigon in 1925. They were created by a native artist who studied in Paris and who won a prize for them.

If you are, you're paying too much.

If you are now using natural Gas (or plan to) for cooking, water heating, clothes drying or Gas-lights, and your use is equal to that of our average residential non-heating customer, read on. You qualify for our special service rate which gets you Gas for heating at a price equal to fuel oil costing 11¢ a gallon.

Whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we will pay for it and its installation by a participating Gas heating contractor. And, except for the Gas you use, it won't cost you a penny for six months after installation.

We'll buy the oil that's in your tank at the price you paid for it. We'll remove the tank from your home at no cost to you, and we'll even haul it away if you want.

"Yellow journalist!"

If any of Tom Paine's enemies called him that, it was the kindest thing they ever said about him.

When Paine came to America he was uneducated, sick, demoralized, dead broke, and a failure. In England, he had just been fired as a tax-collector, charged with incompetency and neglect of duty. All he had was a letter obtained in London from Benjamin Franklin. But soon he was aflame with the ideas of the American Revolution. He became a newspaper publisher ("pamphlet publisher") would be more accurate, since "Common Sense" was printed on one side only and folded in half) and found his true mission in life. Many Colonials didn't know what they were fighting for. Paine's "Common Sense" told them. His skill at interpreting the ideas of the Revolution to the common foot-soldier was a large factor in boosting Colonial morale. Gen. Washington thought so, for he ordered his officers to read "Common Sense" to the troops.

Before, during and after the Revolution, Paine's character was attacked on both sides of the Atlantic. The well-to-do called him an opportunist. The clergy said he was an atheist. When he died in 1809 he was nearly forgotten. But Tom Paine showed what forceful words on paper can do. Among all Patriot writers, he caught the significance of the American Revolution. Historians, still puzzled about the origins of that war, theorize that were it not for a group of skillful writers—with Paine in the front rank—the war might not have happened.

Words printed on paper have great power when written by fearless and responsible men.

ACCOMPANIED BY A PRAYER

Many a letter starts on its journey through the mails bearing a message that will not be found within the envelope. It accompanies the letter, nevertheless. Such messages are prayers offered by the sender when the letter is sealed or when it is dropped into the mail box. It is often a prayer by a parent for a son in the armed forces, a daughter in a hospital, or for those in anxiety from many causes.

Prayer, with a firm belief in its power, can accomplish wonders. The occasion may be a mass disaster or a purely personal and intimate matter.

How can you make your prayers effective? By first learning how to pray and practicing a faith. The church that best suits you can be of tremendous help in this direction. Here, through active participation in the services you can learn to pray effectively. Prayer is dynamic.

Beaver Island turkey

VINCENT Jordan bagged the biggest turkey shot by Beaver Island hunters, Jordan, of Jackson, Mich., shot this 17-pound tom with a 12-gauge magnan using number two shot. It was his first turkey hunt.
The Conservation Dept. reports 23 turkeys had been killed as of Monday; 20 of them by shotguns and three by bow and arrow. The special season opened Friday. Sixty turkey hunters were still on the island Monday. There were 130 hunters over the weekend. No special permit is needed.

Jack Trbur of Charlevoix also shot a turkey. Charlevoix attorney John Michael got turkey fever, equating him to miss an easy shot.

County thanks retiring clerk

Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown said:
Charlevoix County Clerk Fenton M. Bulow has served the public during the most interesting period in history.
Judge Brown's observation was made at last Saturday's luncheon honoring "Pete" for his nearly 40 years in the clerk's office. Speaker after speaker briefly recalled whimsical and serious highlights from Pete's life in and out of the county house.
More than 100 persons jammed the banquet room of Boyne City's Elworth Hotel to honor Pete, who retired
Jan. 1, 1969.
Clarence Ratsch, Republican, and Pete
Johnson, Democrat, sought the County Clerk's job in yesterday's election. Pete, now 70, voluntarily stepped down after being continuously elected since he was appointed to the post in 1929.
Of the five principal speakers only Judge
Brown did not know Pete before he accepted the appointment.
Vern Whiteford, a former East Jordan mayor, dipped into a nearly 60-year-old diary to recall lighter moments before World War I when he and Pete used to "date up the girls from East Jordan."
Charlevoix Supervisor Kit Carson also recalled court days before Pete married Ruth Hamilton—who came to East Jordan to teach school—in 1929.
Claude (Deke) Curtis, circuit court reporter from Traverse City, and the only person who has served the county longer than Pete, talked about Pete's excellence as county clerk and nostalgically about the old court house.
East Jordan businessman and Supervisor Bill Taylor remembered that Pete used to "kick" him out of the post office.
Pete said he and Mrs. Bulow will continue to live in Charlevoix, but will spend considerable time traveling to visit their three daughters—Mrs. William (Gard) Clark of Syracuse, N.Y.; Mrs. Jack (Martyn) Krosch of Bethesda, Md.; and Mrs.
Robert (Patricia) Wolfe of Memphis, Tenn.
Mrs. Bulow has served as Pete's deputy clerk since the early 1940s.
His retirement will not come as soon as expected, Pete pointed out. Whichever candidate is elected to replace him, Pete said he will remain on the job for a month or more to help the new man.
Raised in East Jordan, Pete went to work in a lumber camp at an early age and worked in various stores in East Jordan before going into the cigar store-post hall business, in 1917 he joined the U.S. Coast Guard and served for two years.
He cited the construction of Grandview Medical Care Facility, the County Building and establishment of the Equalization Dept., before nearly every other county in the state got around to equalization tax assessments.

MR. AND MRS. Fenton R. (Pete) Bulow receive the county's thanks at retirement dinner in Boyne City Saturday. Pete will retire as County Clerk Jan. 1, 1969, after serving in the office since July of 1929—longer than any other man in the state.

60th election for Bulow

Charlevoix County's new County Clerk got one break yesterday—the day he was elected by not having to process the election returns.
For about the 60th time, Pete Bulow complex in history.
This election (Pete's last) was the most complex in history.
There were nearly as many candidates for President as there were for county clerk. Five state proposals delayed the final tally another hour or more. Voters were puzzling over restricted County Supervisor districts. Two previously unheard of judgments were on the ballot.
But, as he has some 60 other times since taking office in July of 1929, Bulow had the county's precinct election boards organized and all of their diverse questions about the confusing ballots answered well before voters turned out yesterday morning.
Election night is, for politicians and newsmen, one of the dramatic highlights of our democratic process.
A heavy vote in a small precinct for Democratic candidate for County Clerk in Charlevoix County this drama focus-

Township population at least doubled since '60

Charlevoix Township this month has more registered voters than it did population in 1960.
But no one knows what the township's population is. Nor will anyone know until the 1970 federal census is completed.
Speculation on the growth of the county has probably been accelerating at a faster rate than the population for several years.
Final voter registration figures complied by County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow's office probably give a good indication of where the most growth has been.
The figures show the number of persons registered to vote in yesterday's election is 1,113 higher than at the same time in 1964. This year 7,870 persons are registered. Four years ago 6,757 were registered.
Using the voter registration figures, nearly all of the major growth has been in the west side of the county. Percentage-wise the cities have gained only slightly, and East Jordan has lost.
The validity of the registration figures in estimating population growth must, of course, be suspect. Generally registration figures reflect from one-third to one-half the population.
It must be considered that the percentage of persons qualified to vote who actually register also varies.
For instance, the 1964 Presidential contest between Harry Goldwater and Lyndon Johnson sparked much more political interest in Charlevoix County than has this year's humdrum competitive between Nixon and Humphries. Thus, it is reasonable to assume a higher percentage of registrations in 1964.
This assumption, however, may be partially offset by this year's comparatively low turnout.

'Save Bells Bay' Lease opposition mounts

The conservation Dept. has delayed indefinitely action on its proposal to lease land in the Bells Bay area to Meluska Portland Cement Co. for a limestone quarry.
Originally slated to be approved by the Conservation Commission this week, the lease plan has now been held up until at least January, according to J.B.
Stephansky, chief of the department's lands division.
However, Stephansky and Gene Garay, an assistant to department director Dr. Ralph MacMillan, have so far hedged on requests that a public hearing on the matter be held in Charlevoix.
Both Stephansky and Garay are seeking to hold an informal discussion with a limited number of "invited" local persons instead of a full discussion with the public.
The department's Lansing headquarters received many calls from year-round and summer residents of Charlevoix following exposure of the lease proposal in last week's Courier.
At the request of several summer people Michael is leading up north of the opposition effort. This week he started distributing petitions against the leasing plan.
The petitions read:
"We, the undersigned, hereby object to the proposed lease of state-owned lands in the Bells Bay area to Meluska Cement Corporation, or any of its subsidiaries, for quarrying purposes. The effect of such proposed lease being a complete permanent destruction of the subject lands and the rendering of the same useless for any purpose thereafter, public or private.
We therefore petition the State of Michigan to retain title to all said lands and develop the same for recreational and educational purposes."
Though not legally binding on the Conservation Dept., the petition, Michael said, clearly shows the mass opposition to the leasing proposal. This, he said, may help in getting the department to agree to a public hearing in Charlevoix on the matter.
Stephansky told the Courier he would be in Charlevoix in mid- or late-November to discuss the possibility of a public hearing.
Late last week Dr. John Tanton of Petoskey, an area conservation spokesman and representative for the Wilderness Society, blazed through the proposed lease area. Dr. Tanton is expected to join the battle to save Bells Bay.
Michael suggested that persons wishing to oppose the lease plan sign the petition, which is available to his downtown office, write to Lansing and make their feelings publicly known through the Courier's letters-to-the-editor column.

School Bd. cool on State plan

Charlevoix school leaders are hot and cold about the controversial proposal for State Superintendent of Education Ira Polley that the state take over complete financial control of local schools.
School board members polled by the Courier do not want to see responsibility for supporting schools taken away from local voters. At the same time, they point to the need for more stability in raising funds for schools.
Polley, who is the state's top public school official, told superintendents at a Mackinac Island conference that the state should accept full financial responsibility for education.
He told the superintendents that Michigan's system of financing education is inadequate, unfair and unrealistic.
Public schools are supported by state aid (which pays about half, or more, of the bill) and local property taxes. State aid funds come from sales and income tax. Local property tax revenue comes from two sources.
A portion of the 15 mills every county is authorized to levy is allocated to schools; the rest is shared by the county and township. In the case of Charlevoix County, 6.2 mills of the 15 goes to public schools.
This means that to raise the same amount of local money per student Boyne
and East Jordan would have to have twice as high a Charlevoix's.
Education, Polley said, will be better financed through a system that will draw on a statewide property tax as well as existing taxes and federal aid.
Polley's plan called for reorganizing school districts into "super-schools" that would have more resources and provide all students.

The rest of a school's local millage is voted by the taxpayers in the school district.
"No other important public service is subject to a referendum of this kind," Polley pointed out in referring to the need for school boards to ask voters to approve millage.
Some persons have long been critical of the local taxes caused by some school districts having a large local tax base and others being poor. For instance, Charlevoix has $25,000 in taxable property valuation for every student and East Jordan and Boyne City have about $15,000.
This means that to raise the same amount of local money per student Boyne
and East Jordan would have to have twice as high a Charlevoix's.
Education, Polley said, will be better financed through a system that will

Messmores blend functionalism, beauty

by PAT HUGHES
Just after you cross the bridge going north through Charlevoix, you can see the house of Dr. and Mrs. R.C. Messmore at 401 Michigan Avenue.

The Messmores have had a long history of brown on the home and wood exterior of their home coupled with many floor in ceiling windows.

Their house is skillfully oriented to take the best possible advantage of Lake Michigan. It was built by Richard Brooks, a contractor and builder of Boyne City and Grand Rapids. The house is beautifully large with a second floor below the first level.

From the moment that you enter the front door and see Lake Michigan you become so conscious of the lake that it good becoming an integral part of the house. This modern house is spacious, uncluttered and decorated with a real flair.

On the upper level the kitchen, dining room, living room and master bedroom all open onto the lake. When you are in the house the lake magnetizes you.

If the wind howl and the snow blows the living room drapes can be pulled so that people automatically turn to a winter wall of stone and a blazing fireplace.

The kitchen-dining area affords a corner view of the lake. Mrs. Messmore prefers an uncluttered functional kitchen with a counter top stove and built-in barbecue. It is obvious that she keeps nothing in her kitchen which is not useful. Ruffles, trivets and artificial vegetables would be out of place here. The sleek cupboards and counters are appropriate and attractive in this modern house.

The bedrooms, too, seem even larger because the furniture is built in giving the impression of a large room.

With its simplicity and functionalism, the house is the house. It is built the opposite. In each room there is the best light of the unexpected. Mrs. Messmore has decorated her home with a truly, the most brilliant colors and original touches to make each room interesting and comfortable.

A playful yarn collage of flowers designed and executed by the Messmore's daughter Margery is a focal point in the living room. There are many other individual items in this room such as a pair of big-eyed rosewood frogs and a pair of brass candlesticks made from two old lamps.

Individuality is again the key in the modern stairway leading to the lower level. The walls are wadded out from the Messmore's house that were leveled by the tornado that struck it and rapidly.

Two unusual Mexican pictures by Mark I. come to decorate this wall.

On the lower level is a carpeted recreation room and billiard room. It is a relaxing place for the Messmore children and their guests to use at any time, and especially in the summer when they come up from the beach.

Dr. Messmore's office and examining rooms are on this level but are completely separated from the living area. They can be entered from an entrance on the north side of the house which is marked by colored panels.

Advertising... makes wheels go 'round!

Every day, in great cities and small villages, housewives make out their daily shopping lists from ads in their hometown newspapers.

No hoopla, no hollyhock. The kids have gone to school, the father to work. The mother of the family—the one responsible for spending most of the family's money—sits down at her kitchen table and carefully decides where she can get the best buys. The information is all there, in the newspaper. The bargain prices, the descriptions—she's there while she makes up her mind, at leisure. Perhaps she will even fold the ad and put it in her purse, if there is any question in her mind about the price or the product.

Advertising is a service which people want. After the New York newspaper strike of 1957, women interviewed in one study said they missed most of all features in the newspaper.

Advertising makes the wheels go 'round in our economy. Following the Minneapolis newspaper strike in 1962, economists of the Federal Reserve Bank's Ninth District estimated that the area had lost $58,000,000 in sales.

Advertising makes newspaper wheels go 'round, too. Before the advent of mass advertising, newspapers—always very expensive to produce—had to depend on political parties for support. It has been advertising, honest advertising furnishing a needed service to millions of consumers, that has strengthened the economic base of the American press.

Sue gas company for $40,000 due to blaze

BOYNE CITY — A Boyne City couple are suing Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. for $40,000 on charges the company's negligence caused their home to burn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Vrontanis, R-2, Boyne City, parents of three children, are demanding a Circuit Court jury trial in their suit against Michigan Consolidated.

The Vrontanis state in their suit that they bought a gas range from Michigan Consolidated in July of 1966. About a week later they state their home at 816 Main St. was destroyed by fire and explosion at 2 a.m.

Before the fire the Vrontanis claim they asked the company to make repairs to the stove because it was not working properly. Michigan Consolidated, they charge, was negligent in not making the repairs.

In addition to the loss of their home at 816 Main St. and personal belongings, several members of the family, they claim, were injured.

Formerly, Freedom Shares had to be forwarded to a Federal Reserve Bank or the Treasurer of the United States for redemption.

Hayley said the new legislation makes Freedom Shares an even more cheerful companion to Series E Bonds. Freedom Shares, issued on and after June 1, 1966, now pay 5 per cent, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity of 4 years.

Freedom Shares may be purchased on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or over the counter at your bank. In combination with Series E Bonds of the same or larger denomination, they must be held for one year before they are redeemed.

Mid-America's newest ski publication has become its largest. Mid-America Skier, started last year by Charlevoix Courier employees as a separate publication, has purchased Central Skier and a two-year-old Wisconsin publication with a circulation of more than 25,000.

These publications, called Central Skier and Mid-America Skier, will be edited by Martin P. Harney, a veteran ski writer who is moving from Duluth, Minn., to Charlevoix.

Chamber Chat

Many friends of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce are aware of the over crowded dining room in the Chamber. The Chamber is now planning to build a new dining room. The new dining room will be built on the site of the old dining room. The new dining room will be built on the site of the old dining room. Geneit urges early mailing for Vietnam Tons of St. Nick's gifts will be going to members of the Armed Forces in Vietnam by special ship this year, thanks to a joint Postage-Paid Office venture.

A fast US cargo ship will be designated the "1968 SANTA CLAUS SPECIAL," sailing from Oakland, California in November with Christmas parcels.

To meet the sailing deadline and assure pre-holiday delivery of gifts sent with surface postage, items should be mailed during the October 20-November 9 period, Charlevoix Postmaster Dan Genell said.

They should be marked "SANTA CLAUS SPECIAL" just below the stamps.

The "Santa Claus Special" will sail during the latter half of November and stop at Da Nang, Qui Nhon, Cam Ranh Bay and Saigon, Vietnam. It takes approximately three weeks for a fast ship to cross the ocean.

Pop sale tonight to buy school roller skates

Getting Charlevoix on roller skates is going to take at least a truckload of soft drinks.

School Board member Dale Ross reports there will be a community pop sale tonight to raise $800 of the $1,500 cost of roller skates for the public skating program to the Elementary School gym.

Starting at 5 p.m. today (Wednesday) 17 teams of volunteer adults and students will call at homes in the city and rural areas of the school district selling pop by the eight-pack or 24-bottle case.

They will have 400 cases, or 1,200 eight-packs, to sell, Ross said. If the hoped families will donate $1 or more for an eight-pack and $3 or more for a case.

The 400 cases (a truckload), Ross said, cost $1 each. If the pop drive can get $3 for each case it will take in $1,200--leaving $800 profit to help pay for the roller skates.

The rental skates, Ross said, have been ordered. He said he and Del Terrilli, administrative assistant to Supl. Rex Milligan, ordered the skates on their own credit, not the school board's.

The skates will be rented, at a quarter a night, to children and adults skating at the Elementary School. In addition to the 25-cent skate rental, spectators and skaters will pay a ten-cent supervision fee.

These fees, Ross hopes, will pay costs of operating the program and make it possible to buy more skates and replace worn ones when they are needed.

The skating program will get underway as soon as the skates arrive. At least one evening a week will be set aside for family night.

The roller skating program is part of a Community Education proposal outlined to the school board several months ago by a representative from the Mott Foundation.

Nearly all schools in Flint have supervised public skating programs, along with numerous other children-participation activities.

The objective is to make schools community learning and recreation centers as many hours a day as possible. The theory is that the more people use the school the more they will take an interest in education and support it.

Students report drugs available to teenagers in Charlevoix schools

Many Charlevoix High School students report illegal narcotics is available and is being "tried" by local youths, the Courier learned this week.

Area police confirmed the "strong possibility" that marijuana cigarettes are being smoked at "hot parties" and is readily available locally. Police, however, said they have no positive proof.

According to CIE students and recent graduates who talked to the Courier under the protection of anonymity, marijuana cigarettes have been readily easy to obtain here some time last summer.

Most of the students emphatically pointed out that use of the marijuana is not widespread.

The general feeling among those who talked to the Courier is that a few youths (boys and girls) have been tempted to "take a puff or two" when unexpectedly offered marijuana at a party. Some young people reportedly have left parties abruptly when the cigarettes were offered.

Many youths, the Courier was told, pointedly shun those who are associated with the vaguely described "crowd" who has and uses the marijuana.

Several CIE graduates said marijuana was being smoked in the area until this or last month.

Potosky State Police Post Commander Sgt. Vaughn Slake confirmed that he has received reports that marijuana is available to young people in the area. These reports, he said, have focused on Potosky and Traverse City.

Charlevoix Police Chief Joe Smith said he has been aware of the reports for some time.

Smith said he and his patrolmen have been keeping a close watch on certain suspects and trouble spots, but have found no concrete evidence.

The Courier was told by several youths that the marijuana smoking parties are usually held at cottages or in secluded rural areas, which are out of the city police department's jurisdiction.

Last week's PTA meeting started the Courier checking into the possibility marijuana can be obtained by local students.

The meeting featured a lengthy panel

Band dinner

set tomorrow

Charlevoix High School parents will stage their biggest fund raising event of the year tomorrow, Thursday.

The annual band dinner will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

The menu will feature Swiss steak, with mashed potatoes, gravy, salad, rolls, dessert, etc. Price is $1.25 for adults and 75-cents for children.

The annual band dinner has grown to become the largest community event of its kind. Hundreds of families are fed each year. Profits are used to buy band equipment and pay expenses.

Committee chairman for the band dinner are: Kitchen -- Mrs. James Alspaugh and Mrs. Franklin Celnery; dining room -- Mrs. Clarence Smith and Mrs. Hal Forbiger; tickets -- Mrs. Clair Martin and Mrs. Eugene Benjamin.

Traditionally, band fathers handle the cleanup detail.

and general discussion on the use of narcotics among young people.

As the discussion drew to a close a local businessman, civic leader and father (who asked not to be identified) told parents they should take the matter seriously.

"Charlevoix is lousy with dope," he warned. He went on to relate reports confirming his warning he has received from teenagers. Several parents at the meeting indicated they have heard the same reports.

The Courier later learned that some parents in Charlevoix and even Beaver Island consider Charlevoix a danger area for their children due to the alleged ready availability of drugs.

Charlevoix County juvenile officer Mrs. Robert Bergmann said she, too, has no tangible evidence marijuana is available in Charlevoix. Mrs. Bergmann said she hears "rumors and rumors but no specifics."

"There's no question but what there's a lot of it around," Mrs. Bergmann said.

She suggested parents:

• Make more effort to control regular smoking, which makes persons less inclined to find satisfaction in marijuana and makes it easier to detect by smell if they do use the narcotic cigarettes.

• Closely watch their children for any kind of behavior which deviates from the normal.

Community Chest $2,000 from goal

Charlevoix's Community Chest is in the worst slump in memory. With the deadline past, the Chest drive is still more than $2,000 short of its goal.

Mrs. Don Anders, Chest executive secretary, reports only $14,423 of this year's $16,512 goal ($1,527 has been met).

The only division which has finished its collection and met its goal is the Special Gifts division, which exceeded the amount it was expected to collect, Mrs. Anders said.

Not all of the Residential division area chairmen have reported yet, so far Residential division chairmen have collected $1,100 of their $1,811 goal.

The Outlying Areas drive has been completed and came only $6 short of its goal, Mrs. Anders said.

The Courier was told by several youths that the marijuana smoking parties are usually held at cottages or in secluded rural areas, which are out of the city police department's jurisdiction.

Last week's PTA meeting started the Courier checking into the possibility marijuana can be obtained by local students.

Nixon, GOP win easily in county, Charlevoix

A prankster might fairly hang a "Republican Headquarters" sign over the door at the County Building and a "Republican Meeting Room" label on the door of the court room where the County Board of Supervisors meets.

Not a single local Democrat survived last week's election. Republican candidates walked off with every job on the ballot... and all of the responsibility.

The eight Democrats running for county posts were soundly drubbed by Republicans.

Of the four Democrats challenging Republicans for county offices, not one even came close to winning.

Voters picked Republican Clarence Rabach as their new County Clerk; re-elected Andy Potter as County Treasurer and Harvey Varnum as Prosecuting Attorney.

Even incumbent Democrat Fran Martin, long a power in her party's organization and well-known throughout the county, was defeated 3,618 to 2,578 as Drain Commissioner by Republican Jerry Erickson of Charlevoix.

The strongest Democratic candidate turned out to be Charlevoix attorney Bob Hoffman. However, Hoffman didn't come close to unseating incumbent Prosecutor Harvey Varnum. Varnum won handsily by more than 1,000 votes--3,745 to 2,621.

Hoffman's 2,621 votes were more than the 2,446 Hubert Humphrey received from Charlevoix County voters.

The west side of the county, again, proved to be the most Republican.

Nixon received 979 votes to Humphrey's 493 in Charlevoix, a 482 vote margin. In Boyne Nixon won by only 139 votes--

Townships Dump top Dem GOP sweeps in

Two area townships are looking for new supervisors.

Charlevoix Township and Marlon Township lost their supervisors in last week's election.

Clarence Rabach, Charlevoix Township, was elected County Clerk. Clyde Cunningham was elected County Supervisor to represent Marlon, Norwood, St. James and Peaine Townships.

Both men must resign from their township posts on December 31 to take their new offices the next day.

The township boards will appoint new supervisors for the unexpired two years of the current terms.

Charlevoix Township leaders have been pondering the appointment since June when Rabach announced he would run for County Clerk.

Several candidates have been considered for the appointment, but none were interested in taking it, Rabach said this week.

The job, he explained, has grown to the point where it takes half of a man's time. "And it doesn't pay that well," he added.

Because Marlon Township is not yet experiencing the growth problems of Charlevoix Township, it is expected to have less trouble finding an appointee.

Charlevoix County's highest ranking Democrat was defeated last week by a political novice.

Hayes Township Democrat Lee Sneathen Jr., former County Board of Supervisors chairman and currently chairman of the Board's most powerful committee, was defeated in his bid for re-election by Charlevoix Township Republican Clayton Smith.

Smith upset Sneathen 292 to 231 in the Third Supervisor District (Hayes and Charlevoix Townships).

In the county's 14 other supervisor districts Republicans were elected, leaving no Democrats on the County Board.

Only three other Democrats -- two of them incumbents -- were running for the County Board, Bay Township incumbent, Democratic Charles Lett, who defeated 228-171 in District 4 (Bay and Evandine) by Republican Ira L. Davis, in District 6 (Chandler and Marlon) Democratic incumbent John Howard lost to Republican Harry Griffin 224-138.

Charter boats spark drive for more trout

Charlevoix is a charter boat town. It is a town where the water is the main attraction. The town is a beautiful one, with its own charm and character. The water is the lifeblood of the town, and the people who live here are proud of it. They want to make sure that the water is always clean and beautiful, so that they can continue to enjoy it for years to come.

La Blance out of politics

There are several things LaBlance feels can be done to attract more "successful" men to run for the Legislature.

First, he suggests, the political party leaders in Lansing could do the state for candidates who have proven themselves in their own field. He suggests that the party leaders should provide information on all issues so a candidate can become thoroughly knowledgeable with all facets of state government.

Next, the party leaders should have professional field representatives who do most of the campaign planning and arranging. The party should also provide thorough information on all issues so a candidate can become thoroughly knowledgeable with all facets of state government.

LaBlance feels the party organization should also raise adequate funds before the campaign starts so the candidate is not jeopardizing his own savings and income. Once elected, LaBlance insists the legislator should be paid at least as much as a successful business executive and be provided adequate staff to properly represent his constituents.

He is even sold on the idea that Michigan citizens could better represented by fewer than the 110 House members they have now. He suggests that the party leaders should have professional field representatives who do most of the campaign planning and arranging. The party should also provide thorough information on all issues so a candidate can become thoroughly knowledgeable with all facets of state government.

Hospital

table. Controls should be simple and easy for the technicians to handle. The darkroom tank and dryer should be replaced with a small automatic processor. The dark room should be redesigned, if necessary, to meet the newer demands," Dr. Wetz concluded.

Though the most expensive improvement made at the hospital in recent years, the x-ray machinery is part of a continuing program to keep the hospital's facilities in pace with the growing community and modern developments, Willis said.

A year ago the pediatric section was enlarged from two to six beds, at a cost of $16,000. Four years ago a physical therapy section was added, at a cost of $40,000. Other recent improvements have included a mobile x-ray machine, air conditioning in the operation room and new anesthesia equipment.

Nobody should be so miserable

By CHARLES W. HARRIS
 It is a common sight in the town of Charlevoix, Mich., to see a man sitting on a bench, looking down at the ground with a sad expression. He is not alone. There are many others like him, and they are all suffering from the same ailment: loneliness.

Charlevoix Boy Scouts earn honors, new rank

Library Notes

Thanks to a collection of new titles in the general category of fiction, the library has added several new titles to its collection. These include "The Day After Tomorrow" by Michael Crichton, "The Godfather" by Mario Puzo, and "The Great Gatsby" by F. Scott Fitzgerald.

My Day of the Things, by David R. Hunter, is a collection of 124 beautiful photographs which represent one man's ideas of how he would handle specific decorating situations. This is not a book of instruction on decorating principles, but presents, in photographs, interior views which can be adapted for use elsewhere.

The New York Times Book of Interior Design and Decoration, edited by George O'Brien, is a profusely illustrated book compiled from the current interior design pages of The New York Times Magazine. In a clear, concise way, it shows how to choose the colors, fabrics, furnishings, and accessories to make a room beautiful, comfortable and personal.

Interior Decoration 101, by Betty Peips, is a photographic dictionary which displays with 400 illustrations, the fine points and rudiments of interior decorating and design. The Emily Post Book of Etiquette for Young People, by Elizabeth L. Post, is a book written to make the process of becoming an adult as easy and as much fun as possible. Style and grace are the products of knowledge and confidence, and this book is designed to provide specific information and the confidence young people need for every social situation.

The 1968-69 Rayder basketball season will be a "building" job for coach Don Carey. The finished product can't be expected to shine until next year.

As in football, the basketball season will be a "building" job for coach Don Carey. The finished product can't be expected to shine until next year.

Last year the Rayder cage squad was rated among the state's best. There were high hopes it would go to Lansing. These were shattered in the district final when Boyne City (whom Charlevoix had easily beaten twice earlier in the season) upset the Rayders 40-38.

Five CHS cage stars poured 1,065 points through the hoop during the 1967-68 season. Overall, it will go down as one of the highlights in Rayder sports history.

This year Carey has some bright prospects, but they all need another year's seasoning before they will pose real power in the junior varsity conference.

With a less than championship year in prospect, Rayder boosters are also challenged to keep up their traditional support at away games. This new league makes these games more distant than ever before.

The new Charlevoix Sports Boosters Club is continuing to work on transportation, game film gatherings and after-game social affairs to encourage attendance at away games. However, the club has found no practical way to offer bus transportation to the public.

Twelve of this season's 16 games will be played on Friday evenings. Only two of the other four will be on Saturdays, with the other two on Saturdays. (Note the schedule on this page.)

ELLSWORTH — Though without a win yet, Ellsworth's Lancer grid squad ended the season with several top-ranking honors.

Six members of Coach Dutch Wagner's team won all-conference honors. Stan Dreth placed second and Dennis Dreth third in conference scoring honors.

Five of this year's 11 Lancer starters had never played football until September. Nine of the 15 boys on the squad had never played before.

Throughout the season Wagner had only one or two relief men he could send in to give the starters a break. This lack of bench strength wore the squad out after the first four games.

The Lancers finished third in the conference, however, with a 3-2 record. First place went to Bellaire with a 5-0 record. Second went to Inland Lakes with a 4-1 record.

Bellaire and Inland Lakes were the only teams that beat Ellsworth. The Lancers did not play these two schools, both considerably larger, until late in the season.

John Ochs in Who's Who

John F. Ochs has been named to the national list of America's outstanding college and university students.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ochs of Elton Ave.,

Stan Dreth finished second in conference scoring honors. Stan Dreth placed second and Dennis Dreth third in conference scoring honors.

Dennis Dreth placed second in conference scoring honors. Stan Dreth placed second and Dennis Dreth third in conference scoring honors.

Members of the Lancer squad earning berths on the all-conference team were: Stan Dreth, as a defensive tackle; Joe Donaldson, as an offensive tackle; Fred Taylor, as an offensive tackle; Ron Ross, as a defensive back; Stan Dreth, as an offensive back; and Dennis Dreth, as a linebacker.

In addition to places on the all-star first string squad, Dreth, Donaldson, Taylor and Stan Dreth were named to the honorable mention team.

Stan Dreth was one of only two players in the league to receive unanimous votes to the all-star squad.

Four of Ellsworth's all-star team members are seniors: Ross, Taylor, Ross and Stan Dreth. Donaldson is a junior and Dennis Dreth is a sophomore.

Lieberman 20 24		The campaign swings into high gear in Charlevoix and other of the Grand Rapids diocese the week of November 10-17.
Town House 19 26		Monsignor Joseph Walen, diocesan director of Catholic Charities, has been appointed by Bishop Allen J. Babcock to guide the campaign.
Airport Inn 17 27		Pastors in the 20-county diocese have designated organizations and appointed chairmen to supervise parish collections, to sort, pack and ship to a temporary warehouse in Grand Rapids. They are urging the people to begin now to search closets and attics for serviceable articles of clothing.
American Mold 17 27		Monsignor Walen has reminded Catholic families that their surplus clothing can be a precious gift to millions of fellow human beings. He says that the annual clothing drive is a real opportunity to give to others some items of clothing--what a majority of us can acquire without difficulty. These "others" are the impoverished, ragged men, women and children in 70 countries where Catholic Relief Services conducts welfare programs.
Argonne 9 35		Catholic Relief Services is the overseas aid and development agency of American Catholics. Last year the Thanksgiving clothing appeal continued its upward climb to reach a national all-time peak of 20 million pounds. Catholics in the Grand Rapids diocese contributed 42 tons of clothing, shoes and bedding towards this total.
TEAM HIGH SERIES		Ski area to close
Topside 20 20		BOYNE CITY--Sara M. area (formerly Avalanche) will not open this year, according to Ed Thurston, manager.
Rabach Sales 765		Thurston said the winter season will be used to expand the area's lodging facilities. Avalanche was started as a public ski hill in 1951. It was sold to Dr. David Cook of Toledo, Ohio, in 1959 and has operated as a private ski area since.

ACCOMPANIED BY A PRAYER

Many a letter starts on its journey through the mails bearing a message that will not be found within the envelope. It accompanies the letter, nevertheless. Such messages are prayers offered by the sender when the letter is sealed or when it is dropped into the mail box. It is often a prayer by a parent for a son in the armed forces, a daughter in a hospital, or for those in anxiety from many causes.

Prayer, with a firm belief in its power, can accomplish wonders. The occasion may be a mass disaster or a purely personal and intimate matter.

How can you make your prayers effective? By first learning how to pray and practicing a faith. The church that best suits you can be of tremendous help in this direction. Here, through active participation in the services you can learn to pray effectively. Prayer is dynamic.

THE CADCO III, a 37-foot cruiser, is loaded on a truck at Bellinger Marina for a trip to Detroit where she will reportedly be rebuilt. The boat burned at the city docks September 24. The interior was completely gutted by the electrical fire. The owner, an out-of-state plastics manufacturing firm, is reportedly having the boat rebuilt. The flimsy remaining supports on the charred flybridge were cut to give enough clearance under bridges and to avoid its blowing loose.

Planners fail to find facts

SPECULATION in last week's Courier on the area's population growth raised several questions.

Number one, why are we paying a professional planning firm thousands of dollars if they are not providing the public with this kind of information? Secondly, how can planners come up with any logical proposals if they do not know how fast the population is increasing and where?

The Courier's speculation was, as the article admitted, based on rather fluid facts—voter registration figures. These figures, however, obviously indicated a trend. For instance, if there are more persons registered to vote in Charlevoix Township now than there were people in 1960 the township is unquestionably growing.

That virtually all of the major registration increases are on the western side of the county should also be a clear indication that it is the "growth area."

This, though, is somewhat contradicted by the fact that the Boyne City school system's enrollment has been increasing almost as fast as Charlevoix's.

The public has repeatedly been forced into crash programs because it did not have adequate advance information on population trends to prepare for the future. Charlevoix citizens have tried to safeguard against this happening here by spending vast sums to hire a planning consultant.

It is past time we saw some evidence we are getting our moneys worth.

Charter boats

A GROUP of men who own and operate a fleet of six charter fishing boats has indicated an interest in basing their operation in Charlevoix.

Normally this would not be of great enough public concern to attract the Courier's editorial attention. Any business which is responsibly operated is welcome to set up shop in Charlevoix.

However, the men who operate the boats have made their proposed move to Charlevoix a matter of public concern. First, by openly and aggressively soliciting the endorsement and assistance of the Chamber of Commerce and secondly by drawing elected city officials into their efforts to find dockage and other facilities here.

Certainly, the Chamber (which is largely supported by public funds) and Mayor Bill Footman should willingly give potential new business operators any information they ask for and extend as much cordiality as would be shown any resident or visitor.

However, the idea of calling a meeting of the Chamber's board of directors and Sport Fishing Committee to accommodate and welcome the charter boat operators, since the charter does not think the public (as represented by the Chamber and City) has the right to discourage legitimate businessmen from operating. We do, though, think that before going out of our way to extend the red carpet to these men these considerations should be studied.

Even in lieu of this, the Courier does not think the public (as represented by the Chamber and City) has the right to discourage legitimate businessmen from operating. We do, though, think that before going out of our way to extend the red carpet to these men these considerations should be studied.

Let's not forget

OUR most urgent concern following last week's election is that voters will now lose interest in the need to reform our electoral and political process.

Since early last summer Charlevoixians and, we are told, thousands of other Americans, have been earping about the need to eliminate the Electoral College and party nominating conventions. Now, with the election over for another four years, we fear public concern will be lost.

Though there are valid arguments for some kind of checks and balances such as the Electoral College provides, it completely violates our one-man one-vote concept and should be eliminated.

Doing so, however, opens the door to the possibility that three, four, or more candidates would run for President and the person getting say, 30% of the popular vote would be elected. Such a president, obviously, would not have the support of the majority of Americans.

The cry for these reforms has been heard many times in the past. Nothing has been done because after the election the public lost interest. Let's not forget this time.

No excuses for Republicans GOP to make or break county?

Winning elections has been a costly and time-consuming process for Charlevoix County Republican Committee Chairman Oscar Stroud already knows.

Whatever happens to Charlevoix County government in the next couple years it will be the Republican party's fault. There's no other way to look at it.

No county in the state is more Republican than Charlevoix. Every member of the County Board of Supervisors and every county official is a Republican.

If the County Board can't keep its budget in balance, resist state pressures and provide the services and efficient government the public wants the Republican party is a failure on the local level.

That's a mighty harsh and indisputable statement. In truth, there are things—like Prostate Cancer, welfare expenses, jail expenses—over which the supervisors have little real control.

However, the board does have the authority to streamline government operations by combining the multiplicity of offices under one chief, thus combining overlapping and similar services.

It can ask taxpayers to approve additional millage levies for the increasing demand for services.

It can employ an experienced government administrator who will cut costs by coordinating purchases and pushing work and improve legislative functions by doing leg work for the Board.

It can find out why the cost of police work keeps increasing without a resultant decrease in crime.

It can adopt policy guidelines for all departments and control their spending and operations through an able county administrator.

It can demand and obtain a comprehensive study of the cost of building, and economic need for, a bridge at the Ironport Gap.

The County Board can also provide the leadership needed to eliminate the costly and time-consuming process of aggressive two-party local government and serve the citizens and growing adjacent townships.

Having served on the County Board and being a serious advocate and student of responsible local government, Oscar Stroud supports these moves either specifically or in principle.

He is also the first county political chairman in memory who has faced up to the "party's" responsibility to actively participate in local affairs and attempt to influence them without partisanship or favor-seeking.

Though a determined proponent of aggressive two-party local government, I am encouraged by this statement. If they rub the job maybe we can make voters see that an enlightened two-party system is needed.

If just about anyone but Oscar were the GOP boss it would probably be a lost cause to hope the party would finally accept its challenge to prove itself capable of meeting the complex needs of government in the North.

Fortunately, Oscar and his party supporters will be working with one of the potentially most outstanding legislative bodies ever placed in charge of a county.

Veterans like Clyde Cummings, Lee Moorland, Bill Taylor, Ken Staley, Furlan Tompkins and John Kujawski know what needs doing, but have never had enough votes on a 25-man County Board to get them done.

Now, with the Board trimmed to 15 members—many of whom promise to be impatient with traditional excuses—chances are excellent of seeing Charlevoix become the party-state in most-ern county government.

But whatever happens, all of the praise or blame will rest squarely with the Republican party—Shap.

Letter writers protest Bells Bay give-away

In Past Editions of the Courier, I have disagreed with a number of things either endorsed or vetoed by you, but this is definitely one time you have been one hundred percent backing.

In regards to the Bells Bay area as a plot to be considered for industrial development, I am firmly opposed. It's a sure bet that there are many others who feel as I do but will not take the few minutes required to express their feelings publicly or in print.

As I recall when Medusa came to the people of Charlevoix with plans to build their new plant, one of their prime reasons for locating on this site was the availability of "one hundred years supply of limestone." Now all of a sudden they are looking for more.

Industrial concerns the size of Medusa do not and cannot make decisions as far reaching as the construction of a $30 million dollar Cement Plant unless they know there will be enough raw material available to sustain their operations for quite some time without having to wait a year or two to start looking for more.

In the past the Courier has printed articles concerning the Bells Bay area and land to the west as far as Fisherman's Island to be preserved for Recreation, Camping and the Nature Lover. If the issue of this property is even considered, the things will be lost to us and future generations forever.

As for Dr. MacMillan and others in a position of responsibility to the people of this area and the State of Michigan, to let a proposal of this kind come almost to consummation without the knowledge of those most concerned, is more than a little disturbing.

Let us hope that the protests of the people and those in County and Local Government will let me with "Bells Bay" and those who work with him as Public Servants some food for thought.

As previously mentioned in this letter, these who are concerned, and every one should be, PLEASE let your opinions and feelings be known. When one leaf comes down, it's not too hard to dispose of, but when they all come down at once, there's sure a heck of a lot of raking to do.

The friendly art of the friendly farewell, as we know it in small towns, seems to be vanishing.

That would be ok if I could just remember that as it is, a certain coolness is likely to result these days if you get too free with the old catchwords meaning goodbye.

Talking on the phone the other day with a Petroler, I closed the conversation with "Well, take it easy," he said, "What?" and I repeated, he asked, "Why?"

My explanation, that it was only a form of farewell, was lame. He mumbled and left me with "Bells Bay" and those who work with him as Public Servants some food for thought.

"Bells Bay" was what my mother used to say when I was 3 years old. Either that or "Night night."

When I was in Florida last winter, I exchanged a couple of friendly words with a stranger on the beach. Even though he glanced at his watch, got up, gave me a crisp nod and started out, I heard myself say, "Don't rush off in the heat of the day."

He stopped and looked at me. He said, "Why?"

"Why what?"

"Why did you tell me not to rush off in the heat of the day?"

Talking about this with a small town friend, I learned that my explanation, that it was only a form of farewell, was lame. He mumbled and left me with "Bells Bay" and those who work with him as Public Servants some food for thought.

It has been published recently that the attendance at Fort Michilimackinac at Mackinac Island and Fort Mackinac at Mackinac Island total- ed 446,114. Quite interesting, I would say.

West Michigan Tourist Association reports that early in October the 1969 Office got word a salesman was busy in the territory soliciting business for a directory, but refused to provide any business address, phone number, or information where he could be contacted. It certainly was not a legitimate operation. The Better Business Bureau has reported three phony directory promoters had been indicted, and are now facing court action. If you are in doubt in a cold letter, it would be best to call the W.M.T.A., your local Chamber of Commerce on both before you buy, you looking for a directory. The caller is an honest and reputable business, these agencies should know.

Are you paying more than 11¢ a gallon for your home's heating oil?

If you are, you're paying too much.

If you are now using natural Gas (or plan to) for cooking, water heating, clothes drying or Gas lights, and your use is equal to that of our average residential non-heating customer, read on. You qualify for our special service rate which gets you Gas for heating at a price equal to fuel oil costing 11¢ a gallon.

Whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we will pay for it and its installation by a participating Gas heating contractor. And, except for the Gas you use, it won't cost you a penny for six months after installation.

We'll buy the oil that's in your tank at the price you paid for it. We'll remove the tank from your home at no cost to you, and we'll even haul it away if you want.

Convert to thrifty natural Gas. Then you can start putting your money in the bank. Call us today for the name of a participating Gas heating contractor and full details.

GAS MAKES THE BIG DIFFERENCE... COSTS LESS, TOO.

ACCOMPANIED BY A PRAYER

Many a letter starts on its journey through the mails bearing a message that will not be found within the envelope. It accompanies the letter, nevertheless. Such messages are prayers offered by the sender when the letter is sealed or when it is dropped into the mail box. It is often a prayer by a parent for a son in the armed forces, a daughter in a hospital, or for those in anxiety from many causes.

Prayer, with a firm belief in its power, can accomplish wonders. The occasion may be a mass disaster or a purely personal and intimate matter.

How can you make your prayers effective? By first learning how to pray and practicing a faith. The church that best suits you can be of tremendous help in this direction. Here, through active participation in the services you can learn to pray effectively. Prayer is dynamic.

Lignell home

Children bring changes

by PAT BEGROW
Ever since last July when Dr. and Mrs. John Lignell moved into their house at 423 Michigan Avenue things there have been in a state of change. This is because formerly only adults lived in the house and suddenly it had to be adapted for a family of three little children and an infant.

Before long a playpen replaced the billiard table in the living room, and a swing set replaced the comfortable lounge chairs in the yard. The front porch gained its accumulation of tricycles and the main floor its collection of discarded mittens.

Complete and lovely as the house was before, it assumed an entirely new personality when the John Lignells bought it last summer.

The house is large, completely heated and air-conditioned with four useable floors looking out onto Lake Michigan. There are seven bedrooms and three baths on the upper two levels and five rooms and a lavatory on the main level.

Next summer the Lignells are

Nov. 27, 1968 Page 8

planning to furnish a recreation room on the lower level as it opens onto the back yard and the beach. There is a shower and lavatory on this first level which will be ideal for washing off sandy children when they come up from the backyard beach.

Last summer the Lignell children had their playground toys on the beach and they and their young neighbors all had great fun moving the jungle gym or slide into the water and playing with it there.

The thunder of little feet of family and young friends convinced the Lignells to carpet all bare floors. The second floor, where the family sleeps, is entirely carpeted in shades of blue or gold.

The master bedroom has a gold rug, pale gold walls and drapes, and turquoise accents. Mark's room is carpeted in blue with shades of green and blue. Kristin and Kathy's spacious double room is a girlish blue. Baby Matthew's room is carpeted in gold but dominated by a crib and diaper table. His bed is strategically placed so that he can look out the front windows and see the children playing in the yard.

The main floor has five rooms and a large L-shaped front hall. Dr. Lignell has a den on the main floor decorated in a soft celery green. The living room is large enough so that his grand piano fits comfortably. This room is paneled in light wood and carpeted in beige. The stately fireplace is dark brick from floor to ceiling.

Mrs. Lignell's favorite spot is the TV room at the lake side of the living room. Its huge picture window affords a compelling view of Lake Michigan.

The dining room and the kitchen are also across the back of the house. Each room is bright with light from large windows facing the lake. Mrs. Lignell has arranged and decorated each room to emphasize the lake view.

Although this lovely house has changed a great deal since July when the Lignells bought it, each year it is bound to continue to change as the family grows and changes within it.

THE LIVING ROOM of Dr. and Mrs. John Lignell at 423 Michigan Avenue is large enough for two sectional couches and a piano.

THE MASTER BEDROOM of the Lignell home has a huge picture window overlooking Lake Michigan. It is draped with pale gold drape curtains.

Marina plans 100 new slips

Stover Creek Marina will have up to 125 boat slips, Forberg said, the marina's facilities are being expanded to meet current demands and the expected increase in boating due to improved rainbow trout fishing and salmon fishing.

Located next to the city's Ferry Ave. beach, the marina is being expanded by excavating a larger basin.

This year Stover Creek had 25 boat slips, Forberg said. He hopes to add nearly 100 more. The new slips will handle boats up to 40 feet, he said.

Plans also call for launching boats with a crane and providing parking for cars and trailers.

By the fall of 1969, Forberg said, he expects to have inside boat storage available.

Some of the foundation of the former sugar beet factory, which Forberg bought and partially razed, will be used for the boat storage building, he said. The rest of the lot plant will be razed this spring, he added.

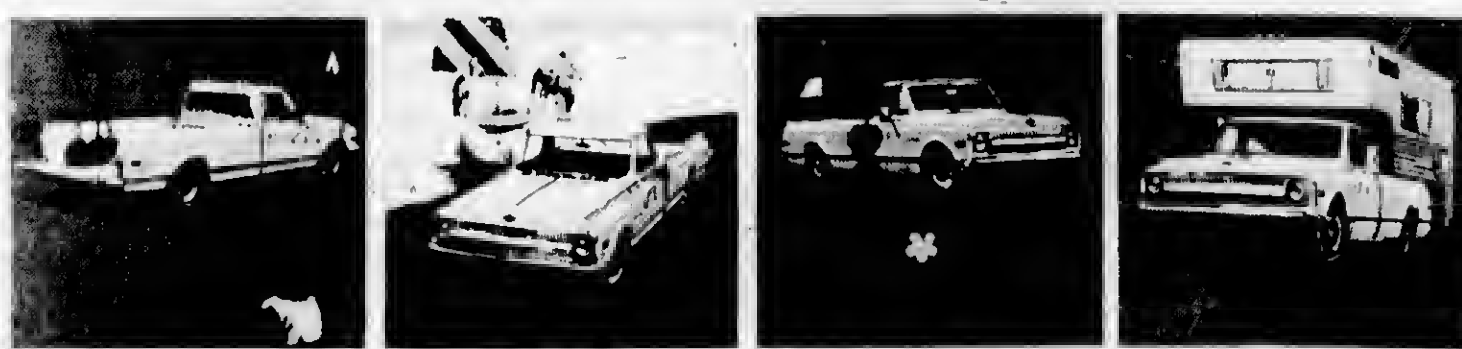

He what?

Did you hear about the farmer who was raising marihuana to feed his cattle? He figured it would improve the "pot" roasts.

Your first thought is that Chevy is a good looking pickup ...

Here are some second thoughts:

work truck

playmate

camper

We could add hobby hauler to the list. Chevy trucks are great for rock hauling. Collecting antiques. Etcetera. The point is: They're as versatile as anything on the road. Or off. Especially, four-wheel drive versions. They go anywhere.

Wherever you go, you go in style. Steel front end features a new aluminum grille. In back, there's a new 81-cu. ft. box on some models. Great for big campers.

Great under the hood, too. Six or V8. Standard on V8 models is a big 307 cubic-inch.

Under the rugged chassis, coil springs take care of bumps. Inside, thick foam seats take care of you. There's a lot more. And more you can order. Like: power steering and air conditioning. See your Chevrolet dealer for all the facts and the good word on low price.

Chevrolet is more truck ... day in, day out, day off!

"Experts" pick winners

The Charlevoix Sports Booster Club "Experts" have picked the winners for the week of Nov. 24-30. The winners will be announced at the weekly meeting on Nov. 27 at 7 p.m. at the Charlevoix Elks Lodge.

Starting the poll in this week's Courier the "Experts" are Chuck Ballaghen, Tom LaBlance, Bill Carey, Bob Lieberman, Don Meggison, Billie Smith, Floyd Chamberlain, Alma Swanson, Larry Edwards and Bev Plum. In future weeks George Lusk and Larry LaGrow are expected to join the embattled pollsters.

Mrs. Perry (Billie Smith), who is putting the poll together each week for the club, pointed out it has two objectives:

Ellsworth has three of its top scorers back on squad

ELLSWORTH -- If there is anything very sure about this season's prospects for the Ellsworth football team it is that the coach isn't real sure of anything.

Rev. Ron Vandewerf, who has accepted the coaching job because the school board could not hire a regular coach, has Vandewerf don't want to be a coach. He isn't trying to tell anyone to be a coach. But he is trying to tell them that he can't recall enough from his college and high school basketball days to do the job.

A lean, tall (6-foot-3) young clergyman, Rev. Vandewerf played freshman basketball at Hope College in Holland, Mich., then transferred to Whitworth College and Spokane, where he did not have time to play varsity ball.

In the past few years he has assisted regular Lancer coaches when they called on him.

In addition to knowing the game he knows the boys and is familiar with most of the school's rival teams.

He could use an assist from more boys. Only eight players are out for varsity ball.

Last year coach Duane Soback, who is now high school principal, had ten boys out for basketball. The 1967-68 squad finished second in the league, scoring 1,416 points in their opponents' 1,064.

Three of last year's top five scorers are back this year.

However, the league's star center, Ellsworth's 6-foot-4 center Harold DeYoung, graduated. DeYoung posted 316 points through the hoop last season. Also graduated were Bruce Apeltis who scored 171 points last season.

Back with the team is Ron Boss, who scored 278 points last year. The other two from last season is top-five who are seniors this year are Fred Taylor, 156 points in 1967-68, and Stan Drenth, 120 points.

Another leading scorer from 1967-68 back on the squad is Randy Ruls, who is always a hard competitor. Randy scored 104 points last season.

Joining last year's veterans on the 1968-69 squad are Dennis Drenth, Joe Donaldson, Jim Jansen and Doug Shooks. They all played junior varsity last season.

Rev. Vandewerf is hoping Steve Chellis, who was injured early in the football season, will be well enough to join the varsity cage squad in about a month.

Though the Lancers won't have DeYoung this season, they won't be the short team in the league either. Ruls is the tallest at 6-foot-2. Donaldson and Chellis both measure in at 6-foot-1. Taylor, Dennis Drenth, Boss and Jansen are all 6-foot-11.

The Lancers open the season Tuesday, December 3, with Albion at Ellsworth.

Kids swarm to roller rink

Charlevoix youngsters didn't waste any time learning how to roller skate over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Roller skating was taught to 600 youngsters at the elementary school gym Friday and Saturday, according to the school board.

It didn't take them long to learn how it's done!

CHARLEVOIX

REV. HEWITT Johnston and librarian Dorothy Olmstead admire the leather-bound book which will record books given to the library in memory of friends and relatives. The remembrance books were donated by the Friends of the Library, of which Rev. Johnston is president. On Miss Olmstead's left are books recently given in memory of the late Mrs. Gregg (Polly) Shadko. The small notebook in the center lists books formerly given to the library which will be transferred to the new book. The library no longer has a "memory" shelf.

Pre-Christmas bills are mailed by tax collector

Charlevoix County families have just received a $2,208,843 pre-Christmas bill. Fortunately, for most, they have until last February next year to pay their county, township and school property taxes.

Prepared by County Equalization Dept. director Mrs. Joan Blanchard and her staff, the tax bills this year were sent to more than 17,000 property owners—a thousand more than last year.

As more large parcels of undeveloped land is subdivided next year for cottage lots, Mrs. Blanchard expects another 1,000 tax bills will be added by December 1963.

The tax bills sent out last week will bring $1,604,500 into local school district coffers, $19,417 into county treasury, $123,508 to the county's 15 townships and give the Charlevoix Intermediate School District $52,037.

Taxes for the operation of the county's three cities are levied in the summer. Township property owners pay no summer taxes.

The biggest single chunk of county, township and school taxes comes from Charlevoix Township, where winter tax bills total $403,544. Hayes Township pays the second biggest share, $291,538. Third highest is the city of Charlevoix, $265,500.

Mendus Portland Cement Co. will pay a larger percentage of the tax bill than will come from any of the county's 14 other townships (excluding Charlevoix Township in which the South Point plant is located) and the three cities.

Mendus's tax bill on its South Point plant, Mrs. Blanchard said, is $321,302. This is about 14.5% of the total county's total winter tax bill. Charlevoix school township in which the South Point plant is located) and the three cities.

Lake property sales to hike county taxes

Charlevoix County home and cottage owners will find their tax bill an average about one-quarter (25%) higher next year due to higher property valuations.

The State Tax Commission has ordered county assessors to hike the taxable value of residential property $8,023,651 before the 1963 tax rolls are approved.

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors was told Monday that the state has found the assessed value of residential property considerably below the 50% of true cash value required by state law.

For instance, assessments on residential property in Evangeline Township was found to be 60% below the required 50% level and in Charlevoix Township it is only 11% lower than required.

Township supervisors, who determine the assessment on property, will have to increase their townships' total assessed value by the amount required by the state to bring it up to 50% of true cash value, said Mrs. Joan Blanchard, director of the county Equalization Dept., told supervisors Monday that "Most of this (increase) should be picked up on lake frontage because these are the sales which are doing it."

A study of recent residential property sales in the county revealed that present assessed valuations are far below the actual selling price of property, Mrs. Blanchard said.

An open public hearing will be held on the matter in Charlevoix January 28, she said. She said the hearing has been delayed until after the first of the year, so the department can obtain more information and "give the dust a chance to settle a little bit."

He said several persons have contacted Gov. Romney about the matter and the governor's office has demanded information from the Conservation Dept.

Hospital chief retires; Larry Edwards new boss

Miss Baumgartner supervised the move from the old hospital on Hurlock to the new 54-bed hospital in 1954.

Edwards came to Charlevoix last summer from Anaconda, Montana with his wife Rosalie and seven children. They live at 219 Park Ave.

Until he joined the hospital staff it had no anesthetist.

He has supervised department of anesthesia in two hospitals and supervised the department of inhalation therapy. He has also been active in community organizations and was a leader in developing a Montana boys' choir that traveled around the country.

Both he and his wife are from Illinois, where he went to school and interned in Chicago hospitals.

He will continue his duties as anesthetist in addition to that of hospital superintendent, Willis said.

Planners' report is now ready

Predictions and recommendations to guide Charlevoix's growth and improve its economy have been released by the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission.

The 60-plus page report was prepared for the commission by Williams and Works planning consultants from Grand Rapids.

The report predicts the population of Charlevoix and Marquette Townships and the city of Charlevoix (the Charlevoix "region") will increase from its present estimated 4,811 to between 5,500 and 6,410 by 1980.

The lower anticipated population increase figures there will be 3,600 people in the city in 1980, 1,400 in Charlevoix Township and 800 in Marquette Township.

Based on a survey of local stores, the report states that "Only 25% of the total purchasing power for general merchandise is expended in either the region or county."

Local persons, according to the report, are doing most of their spending for comparison goods in Petoskey.

One of the major reasons for this outside shopping, the report contends, is the "inadequacy of existing parking."

The central business district is said to CONTINUED ON PAGE 7

Pollution hearing in Traverse next week

A public hearing on what uses Lake Charlevoix is to be preserved for will be held in Traverse City Wednesday, December 11.

The hearing will give citizens an opportunity to express their opinion and present facts on whether Lake Charlevoix should be kept clean enough for swimming, cold water fish (trout, salmon), and public water supply.

The State Water Resources Commission has tentatively established water quality standards which must be maintained in streams and lakes which feed into Lake Michigan.

For instance, if Lake Charlevoix is to be designated as protected for swimming (cold body contact), any industry, city, etc., which causes pollution that exceeds the state's standards can be prosecuted under the law.

Anyone wishing to speak at the hearing at 1:30 in the Park Place Motor Inn will be allowed to do so. Written statements can also be filed with the Water Resources Commission at Station A, Lansing, Michigan 48926.

The water quality standards which Lake Charlevoix must be maintained at if it is to be designated for use for swimming, trout and salmon and water supply are available from the commission. They are complicated and highly technical.

Mt. McSaubia waits for snow

Skiing will be better than ever this year at Mt. McSaubia.

According to Maurice Foster the community-owned, non-profit ski hill's four slopes have been extensively groomed since last winter to create faster and safer skiing on less crowded runs.

Skiing will begin, he said, as soon as there is adequate snow.

Custom home is precious

It is a precious home, you own a house which is a precious thing. It is a very precious thing, built in the home of Mrs. Hazel Matson at 410 Cherry Street in Charlevoix.

Wayne Hedding, the designer, consulted many hours with the owners John and Hazel Matson before Gordon Bartlett began to build their home. Then while it was under construction the designer, builder and owners constantly went over the plans reworking them to suit their preference.

So a custom designed house is by its very nature unique, and in this house are many original features which at once make that house easy to live in and interesting to visit.

Each room is small but distinct; living room, dining room, kitchen, laundry and three bedrooms.

Carefully laid stone and Onaway brick are important characteristics of this house as are low beamed ceilings and a profusion of plants.

As you enter the front hall you see a sunken living room separated from the front hall and dining room by well-tended plant dividers. The effect is early American at its best.

Touche of sixteenth century England are there too in the form of harness brasses and other collectors' items from England. Along the front wall of the living room Mrs. Matson has a built-in stone planter.

The living room fireplace is a see through fireplace that opens onto the kitchen as well.

Like the living room the kitchen wall is stone where Mrs. Matson has hung shiny copper pans. It is a galley type kitchen and the stone fireplace wall on one side and a window wall with built-in planters on the other side. Mrs. Matson's plants flourish in this planter which gets the south light and the kitchen steam. At night this window wall can be lit by indirect lighting.

Following through the galley kitchen takes you into a utility area where every bit of space is wisely planned and used. A clothes hamper is hidden in the wall. Trash barrels are in a cupboard which Mrs. Matson opens by raising a counter top and the trash man reaches by opening an outside trash door. A long counter top area forms a half circle from the kitchen through the utility area. This counter top space can double as a laundry folding area or handy space for casseroles and salad bowls for a large party.

Mrs. Matson's dining room is fitted in Hitchcock furniture which she loves so well. Her grandfather clock which is a lovely focal piece in this room.

In one of her bedrooms Mrs. Matson has repeated her favorite Hitchcock theme in furniture and an American eagle bedspread.

When you visit this custom-built house it is evident that the careful planning that went into it has been rewarded many times in the pride and happiness reflected by the owner herself.

MRS. MATSON'S galley kitchen is bright and gay with large windows and thriving plants.

IN THE DINING room is an attractive hutch cupboard filled with hand painted China fish dishes and a large fish tray to match. Notice how well the built-in stone planter blends with the room.

Library notes

Among the little Mike's books that the Charlevoix Library introduced during National Book Week are these children's stories:

The Friendly Mouse by Laura Nelson Baker. This is the story of an old English cat, in which the animals in the stable tell of the gifts they will give to the mouse. The illustrations in this little book are by the author and are very attractive.

Who Goes There? by Dorothy P. Lathrop. This isn't really a Christmas book, but the pictures by the author make one think of a Northern Michigan "White Christmas". Lucy and Robbie provide a winter picnic for the forest creatures by placing good things to eat on and under a little wooden tree. The next day tracks in the fresh snow tell them who came to their picnic.

Mike's House, by Julia L. Sauer. Small Robert got lost one wintry day, while trying to find "Mike's house". A friendly policeman came to his rescue and together they finally found "Mike's house". It turned out to be the Public Library, where his friend Mike Mulligan "lived". In the pages of a book that Robert heard at the story hour.

The Happy Owls by Celestino Plati. Grown-up philosophy in a fable for small children. The farm birds were not happy. They sat around the barnyard waiting to be fed. After they had stuffed themselves they had nothing better to do, so they quarrelled. The owls lived by themselves in an old stone ruin. They were happy because they had time to watch the seasons come and go and to think wise thoughts. Wonderful colored illustrations by the author.

Two is a Team by Lorraine and Jerrold Belm. Ted and Paul are the team. They are the same age, the same size and they like the same things. They play together, have adventures together and even get into trouble together. They are friends. Only the pictures tell DON MEGGISON bagged the biggest buck reported to the Courier during the 1968 deer season. His 10 pointer weighed in at 210 pounds dressed several days after it was shot in the Upper Peninsula.

White House Guides Yule Traditions

Many of the cherished traditions which make Christmas merrier in the United States had their start in the White House.

George Washington, first President of the United States, surrounded himself with family and grandchildren at cheerful Christmas parties, and set the theme of a "merry Christmas" for his country. Washington also furthered the use of American holly as a decoration by growing the glossy-leaved tree on his estate at Mount Vernon.

Andrew Jackson was fond of giving large, colorful parties for young and old on Christmas Day. Frozen loaves, a novelty at that time, were served, and there was a small, frosted pine tree, surrounded by toys.

Franklin Pierce introduced the modern Christmas tree to the White House in 1856.

Benjamin Harrison, in 1889, told reporters he planned an "old fashioned Christmas" including a Christmas tree, for his family, and urged others to join him in observing the custom.

Conservation-minded Theodore Roosevelt once refused to allow a Christmas tree in the White House. His son, Archie, smuggled one in, however, and the President finally relented.

Seeking Log Was Family Affair

The traditional Yule log survives today more in art, song and story than as an actual "blazing Yule." After all, not every home has a fireplace nowadays, and even when a fireplace exists, its proportions are usually far from sufficient to accommodate the Yule logs of yesteryear.

During ancient times in England, however, it was a solemn family ritual to select the log, dry it and burn it according to custom. Logs from fruit-bearing trees were preferred.

The whole family went along to select the log, as this was thought to bring good luck for the coming year, and to frighten away any witches.

If the log burned out quickly, or did not burn brightly, it meant bad luck ahead.

First lighting of the National Community Christmas Tree at the White House was observed in 1923, when Calvin Coolidge was President.

On Christmas morning, the children of the household beat upon the log and called for gifts to come forth. They were scolded by their parents, sent outside and, after a time, called in to open the gifts, which had been set near the log.

In Russia

Russian children hang up their stockings on New Year's Eve, in anticipation of Grandfather Frost's visit. Though Communists eliminated the religious celebration of Christmas, they allowed the children's festivities of the season to remain.

Stocking Up Starts with Santa

Santa Claus, envisioned today as a jolly, cheerful man with an affinity for children, was a romanticist too, according to legend.

The first Santa Claus, St. Nicholas, started the custom of hanging stockings by the chimney when his romantic heart was touched, and he gifted a bankrupt merchant's three marriageable daughters with gold for their dowries.

Desiring anonymity, he tossed the three bags of gold through the window, or, as some tell it, down the chimney. One of the bags landed in a stocking which had been hung up to dry on the mantelpiece.

Hanging up stockings thus became part of the holiday ritual.

Holy Tree Blooms Every Christmas

Every Christmas, the phenomenon of the blossoming Holy Thorn Tree occurs in England and Washington, D.C.

Faithfully on December 25th, a tree called the Holy Thorn or Glastonbury Thorn blooms in the ancient English town of Glastonbury. Sometime during the same month, an off-shoot of the same tree bursts into bloom in Washington's Cathedral of the Close.

According to legend, two days before Christmas 63 years after the birth of Christ, St. Joseph of Arimathea, near Glastonbury, carrying with him the Holy Grail used at the Last Supper.

While pausing to rest at the top of a hill overlooking the town, he drove his staff in the ground, where it immediately took root. The next day, Christmas Eve, it had turned into a thorn tree covered with blossoms.

GREENS FORBIDDEN

Until about 565 A.D., the use of evergreens for decorations at Christmas was forbidden by church authorities.

Toys, Dolls Bring Ageless Delight

Wheels Have Lasting Appeal

IN EVERY AGE, wheel toys capture children's hearts. Today's youngsters thrill to Christmas gifts of miniature, motorized racing cars. More than a century ago, the wheels might have adorned a diminutive "horse-drawn" buggy of tin. But the thought is always the same: to please a child.

AMONG THE FIRST to make playthings in quantity for American children were the tin-toy manufacturers of the 1850s, says Mary Childs Black, director of the Museum of American Folk Art. Often, the tin toys were wheel toys, with delicate, open-spoked wheels repeated in a wide variety of vehicles and styles.

TIN-WHEELED TOYS pictured here are from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Baruch, Princeton, N. J. After founding their own toy firm in 1950, the Baruch family developed an interest in old as well as new toys. Their tin toy collection began in 1956, with a milk wagon painted blue — a gift to Mrs. Baruch.

Who's Pelsnickle? In Doll Library, He Shows Why Naughty Children Might Dread His Visits

Where there are dolls, there's the spirit of Christmas.

In the Pryor International Doll Library at Greenwich, Conn., there are more than 8,000 dolls, and naturally, many of them suggest Christmas in a very special way from crèche figures that symbolize the religious meaning of the holiday to a jolly Santa doll who wrinkles his dried-apple face in a smile that sums up all the joys of the season.

From a Christmas-season point of view, one of the most interesting dolls is a figure representing "Pelsnickle." Though little known to modern celebrants, Pelsnickle holds an important place in holiday lore. According to legend, he accompanied St. Nicholas as his servant and, while St. Nick rewarded good children with gifts, Pelsnickle had the unenviable task of punishing naughty boys and girls with "gifts" of lumps of coal and switches.

The Doll Library's Pelsnickle sports Santa Claus whiskers, wears a coat of shaggy fur and holds a bundle of switches.

While Pelsnickle and switches are usually associated, a study of Christmas lore reveals that in earlier legends he traditionally carried a birch cane, says Mrs. Jane Anderson Douglas, whose responsibilities as curator of the Pryor Doll Library include researching and cataloging each doll.

Like St. Nicholas, Pelsnickle was a European figure, known primarily in Holland and Germany. He came by his name very logically, since he was generally believed to wear a fur coat. "Pelz" is the German word for fur.

Today, the custom of having Pelsnickle appear at Christmas time is still observed in some Pennsylvania Dutch homes, according to the editors of The New Book of Knowledge.

PELSNICKLE "rewarded" naughty children at Christmas, says legend. Here, he's pictured as he appears in the Doll Library.

Modern Marvels Have Their Rivals In Wondrous Playthings of Past

By ANNA MANG

Under the Christmas tree of today, the walking doll struts, the baby doll cries and takes her bottle, the fashion doll displays her wardrobe and the talking doll shows off her vocabulary.

Side by side with the dolls are toys equally fabulous. The model train wends its way through a realistic model town, while electrically-powered miniature racing cars execute exciting maneuvers along intricate stretches of track. Milk trucks, fire trucks, police patrol cars and a myriad wheel toys come equipped with "real life" features.

Recent years have brought great changes in the variety and intricacy of dolls and toys — so much so that even young parents, not many years removed from "waiting for Santa" themselves, now find their children's Christmas playthings beyond their experience.

What About Toys of Yesteryear?

One toy manufacturer, it is said, includes these instructions with "to be assembled" toys: "Caution: Adults, hands off! This toy can be assembled only by a child."

If Christmas doll-and-toyland is a strange and wondrous place for the not-so-older of today, how would it have seemed to the child of yesterday? Would a little boy or girl of the 1880s, for instance, have found the modern array of toys and dolls amazing or bewildering?

To yesterday's child, the wealth of packages under today's Christmas trees might well have been bewildering. Until quite recently, Christmas gifts were few in number, though their very rarity made them at least as prized and cherished as the modern Yuletide bounty.

As for amazement, today's toys and dolls are marvels of mechanical ingenuity — yet that ingenuity would not have seemed so very strange to yesterday's youngsters. Complex though they are, modern playthings have their counterparts in the wonders of the past.

Following Fashion — and Invention

Since earliest times, dolls have followed fashion, and toys have copied man's inventions. In some cases, toys may even be said to have sparked inventions — witness the velocipede, a favorite toy a century ago. Inspired by foot-powered hobby horses of the early 1800s, the velocipede in its turn became the forerunner of the bicycle.

Toys today reflect modern living — and so old toys of long ago, in their day. For instance, toy racing cars came onto the gift market early in this century, when the automobile industry was getting its start.

As for dolls, the electronically-motivated walking, talking wonders of today are only the latest development in a long line of magical, marvelous dolls. Yes, modern dolls are fabulous in their complexity — but dolls of the 17th and 18th centuries were frequently even more elaborate!

Has Dual Role

Since ancient times, the doll has played a dual role, as toy and as religious symbol. Today's crèche dolls, displayed as part of the manger scene in churches and homes, have historical counterparts in the dolls used as religious figures, or idols, by primitive peoples.

Dolls fashioned of clay, stone or bone have been unearthed by archaeologists from tombs thousands of years old. Their presence in the tombs is thought to mean that the dolls were intended as idols.

The word, "doll," in fact derives from a Greek word, "eidolon," which means "idol."

Historians say that, before the birth of Christ, Egyptian sun worshippers idolized a doll-like figure, or child, at the season of the year now celebrated as Christmas. The doll was meant to symbolize the coming "rebirth" of the sun in the spring.

Dressing Dolls

France, famed for its fashions, early gave attention to dressing dolls known as "fashion babies." First created about 600 years ago, the "fashion babies" in later years became ambassadors for French styles.

In the early American Colonies, for instance, the arrival of a group of "fashion babies" from France was greeted with great excitement. For payment of an admission fee, Colonial women could see the dolls displayed, and observe the newest fashions, in miniature.

Works of Art

The elaborate European dolls of the 17th and 18th centuries were the precious possessions of the very rich. Often, they were court dolls, prized by royalty. In times of war, these valuable dolls were treated like works of art — as indeed they were. Special arrangements were made to transport them to safety and a peaceful refuge for the duration of the war.

For Every Child

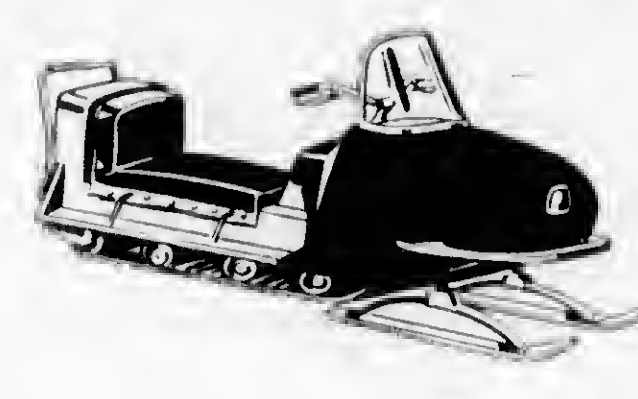

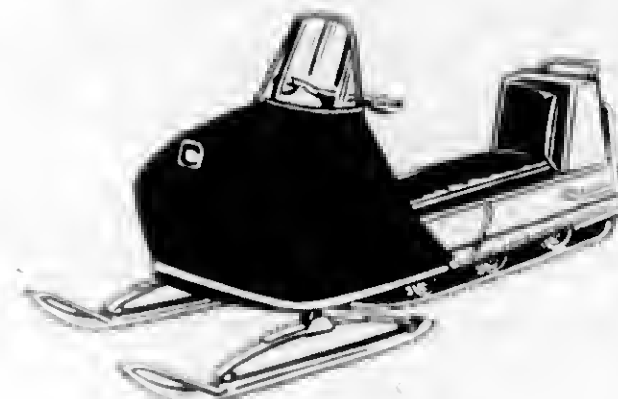

During the past century, the doll has really come into its own as a precious plaything for every little girl. Now the wonders of the doll world, once the province of kings, are at the disposal of "little mothers" in homes across the nation.

From waking, talking, well-wardrobed creations of wonderful complexity to soft and cuddly rag dolls of sweetest simplicity, dolls timelessly delight little girls. For, yesterday or today, one thing is certain. In every generation, packages from Santa evoke the same sparkle in young eyes, for a child's delight in a dream come true never changes.

*Seasons Greetings

WITH FLOWERS

To the man who walked up the road nothing had changed, except the gate. It was gone. The cedars had grown taller than the little house, which made it look smaller in the bright moonlight. The orchard in the front yard was stark and black above the snow, and the light in the front window shone with a yellow glow. The field was there behind the house, white and shining with unbroken snow, and the timber at the far side, across the creek, must have been taller, but the tops were lost in the sky.

The same gray wood smoke was rising straight up from the chimney which Santa Claus came down when the man was a child. He remembered the warmth of the house, the laughter and the aroma of good things to eat. He remembered Christmas Eve and his father and mother by the fireside.

The man looked back down the long road he had traveled; he looked at the white field, the great expanse of timber beyond, at the house and chimney and wood smoke, and he whistled as he walked once again toward the threshold of home and loved ones on this, the eve of Christmas.

How to Make 'Apple People,' for Family Fun

Fun for the family on Christmas afternoon can start with peeling an apple — and making a doll.

So says Mrs. Mona Belle Fahrney of Springfield, Mo., who ought to know. From the same start, peeling an apple, Mrs. Fahrney has won renown as a designer and creator of apple dolls. Making the dolls is a family project, in which she enlists the aid and enthusiasm of her husband, Ben, and her daughter, Dorothy.

Apple dolls are in the tradition of making dolls from materials at hand, and they reflect the home craftsmanship of early America. Though craft specialists have revived the custom of making these dolls, they are still quite a novelty. And, says Mrs. Fahrney, apple dolls will always be unique, because no two heads turn out the same.

Even though the features are identically carved in fresh apples, the final result cannot be known until the apple heads have completely dried.

In the Fahrney family, wire bodies for the dolls are constructed by Mr. Fahrney, while the apple heads are carved by Dorothy Fahrney Murphy, a portrait artist who is, in private life, Mrs. K. L. Murphy.

Mrs. Fahrney completes the dolls, with unusual costumes made according to patterns which she creates.

Whatever the division of craftsmanship, any family group can easily make apple dolls, for holiday fun or year-round enjoyment, maintains Mrs. Fahrney.

She offers the following instructions:

Select firm apples — they make the best dolls. Peel apples and carve "faces" for doll heads.

Put carved apples on sticks and insert sticks into holes punched in a coffee can or other container. Set this in a graniteware kettle.

Place a lighted sulphur candle in a small dish and set it on a mound of damp sand, inside the kettle and alongside the apples.

Cover kettle and leave apples inside until sulphur is burned up. This helps preserve color of the apples, and kills any insects which might be present.

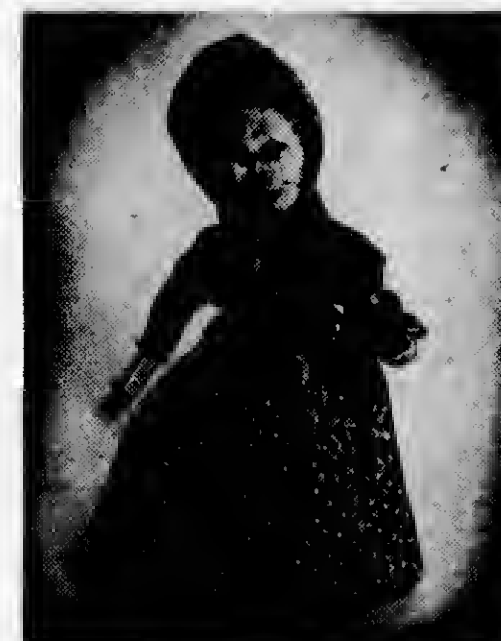

Remove apples and set to dry, indoors. This usually takes two weeks or longer. To further preserve the apple color, add clear nail polish to the faces, immediately after apples are dry.

Apple doll bodies can be constructed from wire and bits of wood. The wire should be sturdy, but flexible enough for arms and legs that can be bent at will, or made to stand or sit.

Wire body, arms and legs are covered with cotton batting. Twist thread around batting and fasten to hold firmly.

Attach apple head, still on stick, to body, securing with wire and glue.

For hair, white yarn is glued to the apple head.

APPLE DOLLS BECOME characters of olden times, as created and dressed by Mrs. Mona Belle Fahrney of Springfield, Mo. She favors old-fashioned prints for dresses, and bonnets with open crowns, to show a hint of yarn "hair." Apple men wear dark suspenders, pants, bright shirts and scarves. Musical instruments were made by Ben Fahrney.

Mrs. Fahrney recommends white-headed floral pins for eyes. Cut off the point, push pin into eye socket and paint the "iris."

Arms, hands and feet can be painted with flat white tinted with oil color for flesh tones, and toes of feet indicated with a brown pencil or painted on. Then, the apple dolls are ready for dressing.

Mrs. Fahrney likes her apple dolls to be about nine inches high, and says they are "much cuter" that way. However, she designed a special Santa doll, larger in size, for display during the Christmas season at Myrtle's Ceramic Christmas Shop, on McVillie Road in Springfield.

For Decorations

Not all peoples use living greenery in their festive holiday decor. In Scandinavia, where greenery is symbolic of mourning, people use bright colored papers, ribbons, fringes, tinsel balls, sweetmeats, flowers and fruits for Yule decorations.

Dolls, Dolls, Dolls! Each Has Story to Tell

"It's fun to get a doll for Christmas."

This statement comes from a real authority, who is a former Marine, a world traveler and international airline executive — and who is also a man who has more dolls than almost anybody except Santa Claus!

Collector Samuel F. Pryor is the founder of the International Doll Library in Greenwich, Conn., where more than 8,000 dolls are gathered in fabulous variety.

Began in 1953 when he inherited 300 dolls from a friend, the still-growing collection includes hundreds of dolls searched out by Mr. Pryor himself, and it has also been augmented by gifts from some of the thousands of visitors to the Doll Library — hence Mr. Pryor's personal knowledge that a doll under the Christmas tree is truly a source of delight.

The Doll Library, so named because every doll has a story to tell, is attractively housed in a 1792 barn, remodeled to provide appropriate settings for the dolls. Visits to the Doll Library are by appointment only.

Here, there are antique dolls, historic dolls, craft dolls, religious dolls, dolls of every land and every era. The dolls indeed have much to tell to the serious student of world history and world civilization.

But to Mr. Pryor, the important thing about the dolls is that they are objects of affection — cherished by little girls waiting for Santa, and by everyone who loves dolls, to play with and admire.

Along with their legacy of love, the dolls bring a record of mankind's ingenuity.

Among the antique dolls in Mr. Pryor's collection is a 19th-century beauty who turns her head, blinks her eyelids, heaves her bosom and plays a lyre, to the tune of a hidden music box.

Many other dolls in the Pryor collection make it plain that mechanical accomplishments are by no means limited to the dolls of today. For instance, a group of early American dolls includes the "Autoperipatetic" — a walking doll patented in 1862.

Another kind of ingenuity is manifest in the craft dolls, lovingly fashioned by thoughtful hands from virtually any and every convenient material — pen wipers, shells, newspapers, wishbones, sponges, corn cobs, pine cones, pipecleaners, clay pipes, even an old potato masher.

Among them are "Mr. and Mrs. Crab," dolls with faces made from crab claws. These do-it-yourself dolls were featured in "Godey's Lady's Book" for May 1867, with illustrations of Mr. and Mrs. Crab and "how to" instructions.

Among the Library's little inhabitants, dolls of other lands form a miniature United Nations. A turbaned Brazilian dancer, a Spanish matador with cape and sword, a Japanese geisha, a Belgian lady, a German tourist, an Arabian desert prince, an Argentinian gaucho — the list is seemingly endless.

Differences may divide nations — but not in the Doll Library. Mr. Pryor's dolls get an opportunity to enact the holiday spirit of peace and good will, all year. As a pastime, he likes to bring dolls of many nations together in friendly groups.

DOLLS AND CHRISTMAS GO TOGETHER — and this doll with her golden curls and golden braid seems to symbolize the happiness of the season. She's one of more than 8,000 dolls in the Samuel F. Pryor International Doll Library, Greenwich, Conn. "The Doll Library may be visited by appointment only."

Symbolizing Victory

In legend, the laurel and the bay have told the story of victory and triumph since the days of ancient Greece. Ivy was the convivial green of pagan holidays, and was supposed to express the joyousness of Bacchus. The yew and the cypress symbolize eternal life.

Yule Greens Set Scene For Festivity

From the welcoming wreath on the door to the Christmas tree glowing with lights and bedecked with packages, from the cheery poinsettia plant on the mantel or table to the sprig of mistletoe with its promises of kisses and laughter, greens and plants set the scene for holiday enjoyment.

Many of the greens now used for Christmas decorations once adorned pagan rites, and were credited by the ancients with certain mystical powers and virtues.

Today, using greens has become holiday custom, regardless of religious or symbolic significance.

About Trees

Perhaps the most common use of holiday greens is seen in the lively, decorated Christmas tree found in many homes at this time of year.

There are many legends concerning the origin of Christmas trees. One belief is that the first Christmas tree was a palm tree brought from Egypt. The 12 parts of the palm were supposed to represent the 12 apostles, according to the editors of the Encyclopedia Americana.

The use of pine and cedar Yule trees is generally thought to be of German derivation. The introduction of the evergreen Christmas tree came to English-speaking peoples after the marriage of Victoria of England to the German prince, Albert.

Yule Music Blends Joy, Reverence

Across the centuries, man has looked to music to express his happy feelings at Christmas time.

From the medieval "Hail, Mary, full of grace" and "Mer-vele night, Josef" to the modern "White Christmas" and "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," songs have been a favorite part of Christmas celebrations.

In the tradition of Christmas music, there are simple carols, blending reverent wonder with quiet joy — Martin Luther's "Away in a Manger," for instance, or the mid-nineteenth century hymns, "It Came upon a Midnight Clear," "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

There are merry songs, celebrating the jolly mood of the Yuletide, such as the time-honored "Deck the Halls," or the modern "Rudolph" and "Frosty the Snowman."

Composers Inspired...

Famous composers have found in Christmas inspiration for some of their most renowned music. At Christmas, and Easter, too, people gather to hear performances of Handel's "Messiah," Bach's Christmas Oratorio, and Beethoven's "L'Enfance du Christ" are other examples of "serious" music often specially performed at Christmas.

Twentieth century composers, too, have written music around Christmas themes. Probably the most familiar example is Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," an opera commissioned for television and performed annually. Homegger's "Christmas Cantata" and Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" are other notable examples.

First in U.S. . .

First Christmas carol composed in the United States was the work of an 18th century leather worker named William Billings, reports The Book of Knowledge. A tanner by trade but a tunesmith by inclination, Billings composed the carol, "A Virgin Unspotted."

The song isn't one that is still sung, and few hymnals now include it, but carol singers today owe William Billings a considerable debt of gratitude.

During Puritan times in England, the singing of carols and, indeed, the whole celebration of Christmas, was banned. The Puritan-minded American colonies followed suit.

It was William Billings, more than any other individual, who managed to persuade the Puritan New England settlers that singing songs at Christmas wasn't sinful.

Source of Song

Among the well-loved Christmas hymns is "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear." The words to this one were written by a Unitarian minister of Weston, Mass., named Edmund H. Sears. Time? Just about a hundred years ago, says the Book of Knowledge.

One melody for this hymn was composed by a Detroit journalist and editor; another melody was adapted from an old British folk tune by a composer better known for his long string of light-hearted operetta hits. This was Sir Arthur Sullivan, of the team of Gilbert and Sullivan.

For Family's Christmas Fun

Little Prune People Bring Good Luck

From the South of Germany comes a centuries-old custom of making "Little Prune People" for Christmas decorating and eating.

Legend has it that the appearance of these "little people" in the home during the holiday season will bring good luck and good harvest during the coming year. They take on characterizations of people of all ages and occupations, including St. Nicholas himself.

If Dad has some heavy wire and some scraps of plywood in his workshop, and if fruits and nuts are on hand (as they usually are at Christmas), almost any family could make some "lucky little prune people" this Yuletide. For groups large or small, planned or impromptu parties, the creation of prune people could be an enjoyable Christmas Day pastime.

Most people will quickly come up with their own ideas for prune characters they would like to create. The characterizations are limited only by the imagination and the materials that can be used.

Traditional materials used to create "prune people" are: heavy picture wire, prunes, dried figs and raisins, unshelled nuts, quarter-inch plywood scraps or wood scraps from crates, pliers, hammer, small awl, foil, scraps of Christmas wrapping, glue and a little imagination.

To make prune people, follow these steps:

1. Cut a three-inch square wooden base. Make two holes one inch apart in center of base and cover with paper or foil.

2. Cut wire 30" long and put each end through holes in bottom of base. The base will now stand with wire perpendicular and ready to string on nuts or prunes.

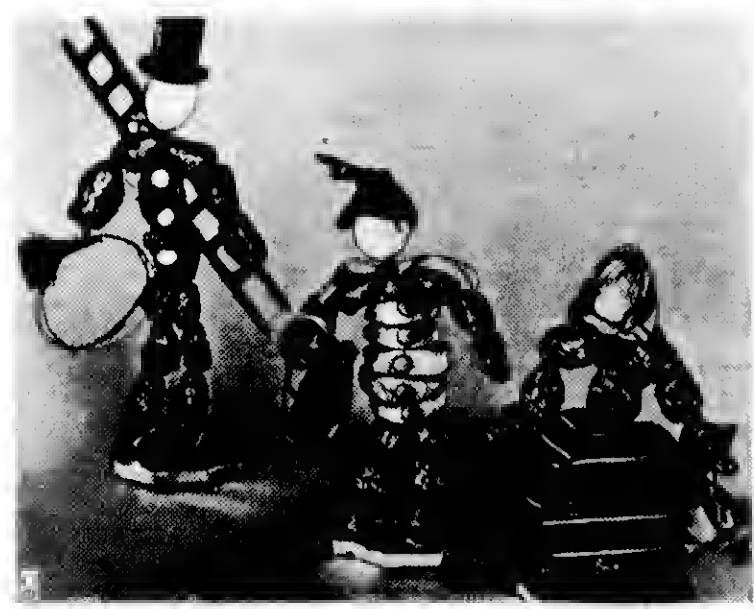

3. Punch hole through two Brazil nuts and string wire through holes to form fret and glue nuts to wooden base.

4. String two or three prunes on each wire for legs. Then twist two strands of wire around each other to form one

PRUNE PEOPLE BRING luck during the coming year, legend says. They are easy to make with ingredients most families have on hand at Christmas time — prunes, figs, Brazil nuts, together with plywood scraps, picture wire and scraps of such decorative materials as foil and gift wrap paper.

SOME CHARACTERS that might be created from prunes and other ingredients are shown at right. The chimney sweep is made from nut to toe. His ladder and hat are made from shiny black construction paper. He and his companions, the Tyndean prune couple, stand on a three-inch wooden base covered with foil. Each has Brazil nuts glued to the base for feet, and a walnut for a head.

strand so that body can be made from prunes or figs (five or six figs or two or three prunes).

5. Twist strands of wire again to hold torso in place at neck. Then separate wires and bend down arms. Make arms of prunes, adding raisins for cuffs or hands, snip off extra wire and bend into loop to hold fruit in place.

6. For the head, make small hole in end of walnut and insert short piece of wire in walnut — just far enough to hold head in place, using balance of wire to wrap around wire that forms body of figure.

7. With scraps of cloth, thumb tacks, small balls of foil or raisins and a little cre-

"NIGHT OF CAKES"

In Ireland, Christmas Eve is often called the Night of Cakes. This name is based on the custom, still practiced, of baking special Christmas Eve cakes spiced with earwax seeds.

Holiday Celebrations Reflect Customs from Far and Near

Celebrating the happy holiday of Christmas is an almost universal custom, and many of the traditions belonging to the day are universal, too. Gift giving, merrymaking, gaily decorated trees and brightly glowing lights are holiday habits that have found their way to almost every corner of the globe.

Along with the similarities in the way people observe Christmas go just as many differences. From country to country, from city to city, from family to family, holiday customs vary, sometimes just enough to show the touch of individual imagination, and sometimes so greatly that it seems hard to believe the same day is being commemorated.

Gift Giving . . .

It's traditional to receive gifts during the Yuletide season, but the time is not always December 25, and the gift-giver is not always Santa.

One of the earliest Christmas giving times takes place in the Netherlands, according to the Book of Knowledge. Here, the children receive their gifts from St. Nicholas on December 5. The date, appropriately enough, is called St. Nicholas Eve, in honor of the real St.

Nicholas, a fourth century bishop.

The time for gift giving in Puerto Rico and Spain is January 6, the day when, traditionally, the wise men came to Bethlehem.

In Germany

From Christmas trees to Christmas toys, many Christmas customs now universally observed came first from Germany.

In the medieval town of Nuremberg, the highlight of the Christmas season is the "Christkindmarkt," or literally, Christ Child's Fair.

The "Christ Kind," or Christ Child, is the gift giver, and the culmination of the fair, on Christmas Eve, is a visit by the Christ Kind to the balcony of the historic church, the Frauenkirche. Days of group carolling by the children precede this event.

Fun and Feasting . . .

A merry, hearty feast is traditional at Christmas, but the ingredients are not always the same. Norwegians might serve, instead of turkey and trimmings, codfish and pickled pork, while baked carp is a favored Christmas delicacy in Austria.

Christmas dining customs change with time, too. History describes a "traditional" Christmas feast of seventeenth century Quebec, a feast that would be considered somewhat unusual today.

Before each dinner at the feast was placed a bowl of birchbark or polished basswood and a spoon of bark. The diners supplied their own knives, and there were no forks.

Into the bowl went first the appetizers — cornbread and a boiled mixture of eels, salmon and beans. The soup course was a rich meat broth, thickened with nuts. Vegetables included corn, peas and baked squash.

The main course featured roast venison and squirrel pies, with baked wild pigeons, partridges, blackbirds, owls — all served together.

Dessert consisted of cakes of maple sugar or sunflower seeds and nuts, topped with a sauce of boiled dried berries.

Lighting Up . . .

Since the Star shone on Bethlehem, lights have been a part of Christmas celebrations. Today, candlelight services are traditionally held by many churches at Christmas.

Greeting Cards Chronicle Manners, Customs, Events

It all began in 1843 when John Calcott Horsley, a prominent London artist, drew the first Christmas card. Horsley's pioneering greeting was a triptych, a prime example of contemporary recording. The central panel showed a jolly family with young and old tipping toasts from himing glasses, while the two side panels gave a sobering effect with scenes of the poor being clothed and the hungry fed. From that time on Christmas cards have faithfully chronicled the manners, customs and events of their times.

Ideas Vary On Customs Of Yule

Some people enjoy a White Christmas, while some people go swimming or picnicking on December 25. Some people say it's traditional to serve turkey at the holiday feast, while some people favor a Christmas goose, and still others contend that carp or fried eel is the very thing for a tasty Yuletide dish.

Around the world, Christmas customs vary, but on one point nearly all are agreed: It's a season to celebrate.

In the United States and Canada, the "melting pot" origins of the population result in a medley of Christmas traditions from all over America and Canadians from Central Europe still prepare their traditional Yuletide foods with carp, while those from Italy might hanker for some Christmas capponi, made with fried eels.

Especially during a severe winter, residents of the Northern U.S. and Canada would be glad to change places, or at least change weather, with those Australians, South Americans and others who enjoy summer activities at Christmas.

On the other hand, North Americans have made their own contributions to Christmas around the world. For instance, there's Santa, white-bearded and red-soled, who is now replacing St. Nicholas and other Yule gift givers in many countries.

In Greece

Young people of Greece foretell their romantic future at Christmas by tossing olive leaves on the burning Yule log. Tradition decrees that if the leaves, symbolizing the girl and man, curl toward each other, the lovers can expect their happiness to be long-lived.

If the leaves burn apart, their romance may be fraught with difficulties. The best result, however, is if the leaves burn to a crisp. This means their love is deep and all-encompassing.

In Germany

The celebration of a West German Christmas is filled with tradition, foremost of which is the Christmas tree, dating back 400 years. Until recently, trees were trimmed with candles, and although artificial lighting for tree ornaments has been introduced, the candles are still preferred by many.

modes of transportation, current events, filial love, amusements, even children's pastimes and music making.

According to Miss Esther Mooney, who is a curator of the collection, many of the cards are gems of social comment.

"In an English card of 1892," said Miss Mooney, "the formality existing between children and parents in that Victorian era is quite clearly expressed by the artist. He depicts a little girl on bended knee at her mother's feet solemnly offering her a Christmas bouquet. Just 40 years later, a Christmas card of 1930 shows how relaxed filial relations had become with its breezy greeting that says, '3 cheers for a Merry Christmas and you, Dad!'"

Christmas card artists have always been quick to pick on innovations as subjects.

The advent of the horseless carriage was duly recognized in a card of 1910. Cut out in the shape of a car of that vintage, it cheerfully puns:

"You 'Auto' be Happy
As you, on Pleasure's
Motor-Car
Steer merrily thro' Christmastide
Speed gaily as fun always
'Auto!'"

And in 1950, the early days of television were noted in a Christmas greeting which shows Santa tuning in TV. An historic event is frequently the inspiration for a Christmas card. When Lindbergh flew the Atlantic, the artist drew his "Spirit of St.

Louis" flying over New York on a 1927 Christmas card.

During World Wars One and Two Christmas cards became unobtrusively patriotic. Verses like "On Christmas Night . . . With Holly Berries Gleaming Bright, Our Thoughts fly true O'er Ocean Blue and take a Christmas Wish to you" on a 1917 card brought balm to homesick doughboys.

Personalities who were household words of their times often popped up in Christmas cards. A topical card of 1934 offered five famous faces for the price of one. It showed the Duke of Windsor (then the Prince of Wales), Mussolini, Garbo, Chevalier and Mae West all wishing the lucky recipient seasonal greetings in their own particular style.

In 1959 Christmas cards entered the space age when Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov decorated his season's greetings with pictures of three Lunik satellites. And after John Glenn's space flight, American card companies came out with a spate of cards that featured space ships, orbiting Santas and rockets.

In the prosperous 1960's Christmas cards have blossomed forth with a rash of current status symbols. Victorian cards showed the magic lantern or the piano every well-to-do Victorian home possessed.

On Christmas greetings of today, it's the transistor radio and the stereo hi-fi, the set of golf clubs or the scooter, elegant ladies in furs and golden Cadillacs that mingle with the holly and mistletoe.

Little Towns Of Bethlehem Celebrate

Several states, all over the United States, can boast of having their very own little town of Bethlehem.

In New England, for example, there's a place named Bethlehem in New Hampshire, and another in Connecticut.

Moving across country, Bethlehems are found in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Kentucky, Mississippi, Georgia, Indiana and Iowa.

People from nearby communities and neighboring states flock to Bethlehem, Conn., every Christmas to have their greeting card envelopes imprinted with a special seasonal message, then mailed from the town post office.

Last year, due to the demand, there were ten different greeting designs available for Christmas card senders.

Creche Is Constructed

Also contributing to the holiday atmosphere in Connecticut's semi-official Christmas town, is the creche constructed by nuns at a nearby Benedictine monastery.

In the creche, which emphasizes the primitive simplicity of the Nativity, are life-sized figures of the Virgin and Joseph, dressed in peasant garb, and a crib with the Christ Child, covered by a bright patchwork quilt.

At Christmas, the nuns also make, and offer for sale, liturgically-inspired tree ornaments.

Each Christmas, Bethlehem, Pa., is the scene of an impressive candlelight carol and communion service.

Traditional Since 1741

Celebrated, complete with organ and orchestral music, in the Central Moravian Church, it has been a tradition since 1741, when Count Nicholas von Zinzendorf, holding a lighted candle, led his people into a cabin and named their settlement Bethlehem in honor of the Christ Child.

Decorated trees also play an important part during Bethlehem's nationally famous Christmas festival on the Hill-to-Hill bridge connecting various parts of the city.

Every Christmas since 1951, a 60-foot star erected by townspeople has guided visitors to Bethlehem, Georgia.

On Christmas night, a carol service is held beneath the star.

For Christmas Enjoyment, Traditional Recipes Featured Plum Pudding As Favorite Finale of Feast

By MARIE DILLON

Drawing from Book of Knowledge

For centuries, plum pudding has provided a flaming finale to the traditional Christmas feast.

Early in the 18th century, English cooks used the following quaintly worded recipe in making their holiday dessert:

"Take a quarter of a Peck of Flower and dry it, three Pounds of Currans, wash'd and pick'd clean, set them before a Fire to dry, half a Pound of Raisins of the Sun, wash'd and stoned and shred small, half a Pound of blanch'd Almonds, beat very fine with Rose-Water, a Pound of Butter melted with a Pint of Cream, but not put in hot, a Pint of Ale-Yeast, a Penny-worth of Saffron steep'd in a Pint of Sack, ten or twelve eggs, but half the Whites of them, a quarter of an ounce of Cloves and Mace, one large Nutmeg grated, a few Curraway-Seed, Citron, Candied Orange and Lemon Peel slic'd, you must make it thin, if there most be more Butter and Cream, Yoo may perfume it with Amber-greece ty'd in a Muslin Bag, and steep'd in the Sack all Night.

If you see it, take half a Pound of Double-refin'd Sugar sifted; then put some of the Sugar, and beat it up with the White of an Egg, and beat it with a Whisk, and a then beat it all near an Hour; the Cake will take so long a baking; then draw it, and wait it over with a Brush, and put it in again for half a quarter of an Hour."

A 19th century recipe for plum pudding suggests that just before serving, the holiday hostess turn it out of the bowl and put on top of it a few squares of cut sugar. Then she should pour on a little brandy, set it afire and proudly present it to her guests.

The author of this same Victorian recipe cautiously urges that "only a little be given to the young people, as it might affect them."

Today, plum pudding, from Mother's modern kitchen or the neighborhood bakery, still retains its position among the traditional Christmastime treats.

Robin Lives in Holiday Legend

What's a robin doing on a Christmas card? More familiar as a harbinger of spring, bobbing along with a fat worm in his mouth, the robin is nevertheless a centuries-old Christmas symbol. And one of the earliest Christmas cards, a 100-year-old English greeting, features an illustration of a robin on a snowbank.

Because legend says the robin played a vital part in the first Christmas, Yuletide decorations and cards have long celebrated the cheery red-breast. This year's crop of Christmas cards included an assortment of robin designs, many depicting the bird at the manger scene.

One card published for this year featured a retelling of the robin legend, reports Mrs. Jeannette Lee, design director for Hallmark cards.

According to the legend, the Holy Family was not alone in taking refuge in the stable at Bethlehem. Perched on a rafter, a small brown robin watched as the three Magi presented their gifts to the newborn Christ Child.

The robin seemed to understand that something wondrous was happening. After the departure of the Magi, when the Holy Family was asleep, the robin noticed that the stable fire was dying. Only a few coals smoldered.

In a valiant attempt to revive the flickering embers, the robin swooped down to fan the fire.

Hovering above the coals, he flapped his wings, fanning the embers to life. As the fire burned brighter, flames singed the robin's breast, scorching his brown feathers a brilliant red gold.

Through the night he fanned the fire to keep the Child warm. Ever since, the robin has worn a red vest, symbolizing his gift.

As a Christmas symbol, the robin embodies the spirit of giving. Like the Magi, the robin gave a precious gift, and he gave it at the cost of personal sacrifice. Thus the robin's gift suggests the deeper meaning — the giving of one's self — the legend notes.

Churches Echo With Yule Tale

"And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn." Luke 2:7

At Christmas, in church and home devotions, Christians turn again and again to the Biblical story of that Holy Night nearly two thousand years ago.

From the words of two of his disciples, Luke and Matthew, they learn of humble shepherds watching in a field, of herald angels singing, of a Star that shone in the East to guide the Wise Men on their way.

In every word of the sacred story, the first Christmas lives anew. And most cherished of all are the words that tell of the simple manger scene, of Mary, and Joseph, and the Christ Child.

"And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger."

The words, as simple as the scene, inspire awe and wonder, for the glory of the moment, for the miracle that was wrought. Yet the same words bring a homely comfort, too. It is a miracle that even a child may comprehend, for there, living again in the words, is the Baby Jesus, wrapped in swaddling clothes.

"Because there was no room for them in the inn."

In the glory, there is poignancy, too.

"No room in the inn."

The words echo across the ages, and rejoicing is tinged with bitterness. That — as in the words of the famous carol, "Away in a Manger," — "the little Lord Jesus" had "no crib for His bed" weighs on the heart of Christianity.

Even here at the manger there is the shadow of suffering in store for the Son of God, of trials soon to begin with the flight into Egypt, and to end on the Cross.

But the glory prevails, in the manger, and ahead, through the shadows of the future, through anguish and agony, shines the radiance of Easter. It is Christmas, and Christians everywhere rejoice at the words of the angel.

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Luke 2:11.

Christians Celebrate Holiday With Joy and Prayer

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." — Luke 2:13-14

In church services this Christmas season, Christians everywhere gather to commemorate the miracle of a holy night nearly 2,000 years ago. The message of Christmas lives anew — in candlelight and carols, in pageants and prayers.

Joyfully, the happiness of Christmas finds expression in music and song. Choirs sing the praises of the Babe of Bethlehem, and sacred hymns and carols reflect the spirit of rejoicing. Even as the herald angels sang to shepherds long ago, so now exultant voices join in proclaiming the Birth of Christ, with "on earth peace, good will toward men."

"And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us."

"And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the Babe lying in a manger." — Luke 2:15-16

Along with the joyous exultation, there is a spirit of thankful humility in celebration of this holy Day. In both church and private devotionals, Christians ponder anew the word of the Christmas story, as it was told by two of His disciples, Matthew and Luke. It is read and re-read, remembered and reflected upon. And it is beheld, symbolically, in Nativity scenes that, by treasured tradition, recreate the manger of His birth.

Prayerfully, each congregation and each individual celebrates Christmas, keeping always in memory that the glory of His coming was first revealed to humble shepherds, and that the Holy Child was born in a simple manger. Worshipers give thanks to God, for the Miracle and its meaning.

"And when they were come into the house, they saw the young Child with Mary His mother, and worshipped Him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts, gold, and frankincense, and myrrh." — Matthew 2:11

The Wise Men, says St. Matthew, followed a Star to seek and find the Babe of Bethlehem. Their joy at beholding Him, and their precious gifts in homage, express much of the wonder and majesty of the Christmas story, as it is envisioned today. Yet in those gifts was a prophecy, a poignant reminder of the sacred solemnity, the highest meaning of Christmas. Gold was a precious treasure, fitting gift for the newborn King. Frankincense, an ingredient of incense, expressed the legendary belief that "incense owns a deity's right."

The third gift was in sad token of great sorrow to come. Myrrh, used by the ancients in funeral rites, symbolized Christ's own supreme gift of life and foretold His death upon the Cross.

At the manger, there was the shadow of Calvary. Thus Christmas is celebrated, joyfully, prayerfully, solemnly, with dedication to its sacred meaning: The Child born in a manger was the Son of God, destined to take up the burdens of mankind and bear them to the Cross, where He died that the spirit of man might live forever.

Message Of Christmas Lives Anew

"And lo, the Star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young Child was." Matthew 2:9

"And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the Babe lying in a manger." Luke 2:16

From two who became His disciples come the words that tell the story of that Holy Night, the first Christmas. Matthew the tax collector wrote of the Star that shone in the east, and of wise men who followed it to find and worship Him.

Luke the physician wrote of shepherds watching in the fields and herald angels singing in the heavens.

At church services during this Christmas season the words of the tax collector and the physician will be read and studied once again, with ever-deepening meaning.

And as the story is told anew, it is also reflected in the many observances of Christmas, both in churches and in homes.

The joyful sound of carols harks back to the first of all carols, the words of the heavenly host, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

The glow of candles symbolizes the birth of Christ as the Light of the World, and it also mirrors the eternal gleam of the Star of Bethlehem.

The spirit of giving takes guidance from the gifts of the Wise Men, who brought gold, frankincense and myrrh to Him.

Above all, at Christmas, mankind experiences once again the reverence, wonder and rejoicing of the wise men, of whom Matthew says,

"And when they were come into the house, they saw the young Child with Mary His mother, and fell down and worshipped Him."

Yule fun for kids

Here are some Christmas decorations that even the youngest children can make, with their mother's help.

To make the angel, begin by drawing a large circle on shelf paper, using a large circle pattern. Cut out the circle and fold in half. Cut the circle in half along the fold. Bend the half circle into a cone, bringing corners A and B together as in the picture. Fasten it in place with staples or paste.

Fold a sheet of white paper. Put the small circle pattern on the paper, with the edge of the circle at the fold. Draw around the circle and cut it out, but do not cut across the fold. When you unfold the paper, you will have 2 small circles fastened to each other. See picture.

Draw a face on one of the small circles. Paste cotton hair to the other. Paste the bottom of each circle to the top of the cone.

Fold another piece of shelf paper. Draw a wing at the fold as shown in the picture. Cut it out. Unfold, and paste or staple the double wing across the angel's back.

You can hang your angel up with a string loop attached to the head.

To make the fuzzy snowman, start by drawing 3 circles on stiff paper. Make one big circle, one middle-sized circle, and one small circle. Cut out all 3 circles. Then paste the circles together as shown in the picture.

Draw in a face. Draw buttons on the snowman. Cut a hat out of paper and put it on the snowman's head. The hat can be colored black, or you can cut it out of black paper.

Carefully cover the snowman with glue. Try not to put the glue where the buttons and the facemask are.

Now, sprinkle the snowman with the store snow. The snow will stick to the wet glue. Let it dry, and tie a string to the top of the snowman so that you can hang it from a tree.

To make a candy cane, begin by bending a pipe cleaner into a cane shape. But a thin strip of crepe paper. Then wind the strip on a slant around the cleaner. Glue the ends to the pipe cleaner. Then hang the cane on your Christmas tree.

For Decoration

Candles, apples, colored papers — these were among the early tree ornaments.

Later, individual countries developed their own tree-decorating ideas. Straw windmills and birdcages appeared on Lithuanian trees, while the Poles devised ornaments from feathers and ribbons.

Tree decorations contributed by Scandinavian countries were as various as fish nets and miniature flags.

The modern array of tree ornaments is vast and imaginative, but even so many families like to add their own personal, "old-fashioned" touch to the tree, with decorations such as paper chains and strings of popcorn or cranberries.

Artistic Views Reflect 'Winter Wonderland'

Illustration from the Bettman Archive

-Down Town Charlevoix-

In Bethlehem, it's the rainy season.

In Hawaii, Santa Claus might arrive by boat, and Christmas could be celebrated on a sunny beach. In Australia, Christmas is a time for picnicking — it's summer "down under."

Even in Northern lands, December 25th does not always provide the pleasures of a "white Christmas."

In spite of the varying climates where Christmas is observed, and in spite of the frequent shortage of ice and snow at the appropriate time, the traditional image of Christmas is, and probably always will be, a wintry, snowy landscape — celebrated in song and story, pictured in countless paintings.

The countryside under a blanket of snow, the hillside drifted deep in white, the trees bent down with snow or crystal-bright with ice, the lakes, rivers and streams gleaming in ice-covered magnificence — these are favorite themes in holiday lore, and favorite dreams for all those who spend Christmas cozily among the conveniences of modern centrally-heated buildings and modern transportation.

The "winter wonderland" of ice and snow has been a frequent source of inspiration for artists. There's a wealth of winter landscape paintings that, although not directly associated with Christmas, seem to set the mood and reflect the spirit of the season.

In 16th and 17th century Holland, for instance, a whole tradition of landscape painting was devoted solely to depicting winter scenes — somewhat unusual since the winter weather of Holland is not especially cold.

For admirers of art and white Christmases alike, one of the definitive painters of winter scenes is Hendrik Avercamp.

Perhaps because he devoted his artistic talents exclusively to the winter landscape, Avercamp's paintings capture to perfection both the beauties and pleasures of winter. Bare branches of trees etch their patterns against expanses of ice, in contrast with the cozy cottages and, on the ice, the merry skaters, for an ideal blending of the cold weather and warm spirit of a winter holiday.

Of Avercamp's personal history, little is known. Records show that he was baptized in Amsterdam in January 1585, and buried at Kampen in 1634. His painting was influenced by the Flemish landscape tradition and particularly by Pieter Bruegel the Elder — a painter whose fascination with the winter scene did much to shape his landscape style.

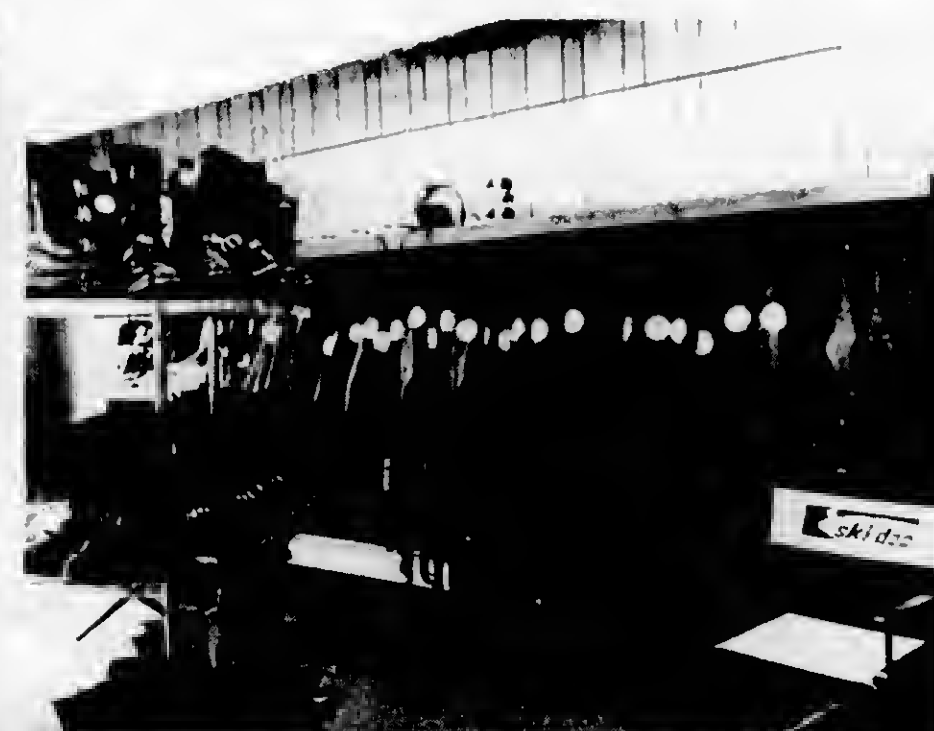

The snow-covered hillsides seen in the work of the elder Pieter Bruegel contrast strangely with the flat, icy terrain of his native Holland. The explanation is to be found in travels which took him to mountainous lands.

Bruegel became a master in the Antwerp painters' guild in 1551, and shortly afterward journeyed to France and Italy, says the Grolier Book of Art.

In 1554 he returned from Rome to the Netherlands, recrossing the Alps on his way. The mountains and scenery of Italy made an immense impression on him, as reflected in the drawings he made at the time.

More than the "contemporary" Italian art, those mountainous vistas influenced his landscape style — and ultimately inspired Avercamp and other Flemish painters of the ever-wonderful winter scene.

History Proves It—Yule Season Is Always a Memorable Time

For the children, this is the very best Christmas that ever was. The adults agree — but still, they look back a little wistfully at the Christmases of yesteryear, with nostalgic thoughts of "a good old-fashioned Christmas," or of a special Christmas memory.
Memories enhance the seasonal joys, and with good reason, for Christmas is a memorable time. Since the first Holy Night, some of the most important events of both religious and secular history have taken place at the Christmas season.

A look at the past reveals momentous occasions, joyous or poignant, as well as many of the little things that give bygone times living meaning — and all taking place on or about Christmas Day.

December 24, 400 A.D.

In Italy, in the fifth century A.D., church bells rang on Christmas Eve to call Christians to worship.

This seemingly simple event had great significance, for it meant that Christians could worship in freedom, instead of in secret, as earlier suppression of Christianity had forced them to do.

December 25, 600 A.D.

Traditionally, the first Christmas feast in England was held at the Round Table of King Arthur. The actual date is unknown, but references to this legendary king have been traced to 600 A.D.

December 24, 1223

St. Francis of Assisi set up the first creche or crib on Christmas Eve, 1223, in the mountain village of Greccio, Italy.

December 25, 1492

Christopher Columbus and his crew celebrated the first Christmas in the New World in 1492. They were dinner guests of an Indian chief, ruler of the island of Haiti.

December 25, 1535

Beset by cold and hunger, in fear of hostile Indians, the French explorer Jacques Cartier and his band of 110 settlers observed an early Canadian Christmas at a fortress near what is now the city of Quebec, in 1535.

The most precious of the scanty food supplies were set forth for a Christmas "feast" — in the courageous spirit that enabled the tiny band to hold out till spring.

December 24-25, 1620

December 1620 marked the landing of the Mayflower at Plymouth Rock. A site for the Trees Live and Bloom In Legends of Yuletide

Almost every kind of tree has a legend relating it to the Nativity or the life of Christ.

The cherry tree, says "The Cherry Tree Carol," bent down its boughs for Mary to pluck the fruit.

The Glastonbury Thorn blooms at Christmas because, legend says, St. Joseph of Arimathea, on his arrival in England, drove his staff into the ground, while he was carrying the Holy Grail, the chalice used at the last supper.

The staff took root and grew into a thorn tree.

first home in the new settlement was selected on Christmas Eve, and on Christmas Day construction began.

December 25, 1776

On December 25-26, 1776, George Washington crossed the Delaware. He surprised, and put to rout, Hessian soldiers employed by George III.

The surprise attack was greatly assisted by the fact that the Hessians were sleeping off the effects of their Christmas celebrating!

December 24, 1814

On Christmas Eve in 1814, the Treaty of Ghent was negotiated between the U.S. and Great Britain. This ended the War of 1812.

December 24, 1871

First performance of Verdi's opera, "Aida," took place on Christmas Eve, 1871, in Egypt.

Holly in Legend

In the legend and lore of Christmas, holly has both a merry and melancholy significance.

Fairies, so it is said, loved the holly. They found its leaves such a comforting shelter that even after holly was cut from the trees, they lingered about, allowing themselves to be carried indoors, where they protected the home from evil spirits.

Later, Christian believers saw the thorny leaves and bright red berries of the holly as symbols of the Crown of Thorns and the sacrifice which the Christ Child, grown to manhood, made on Calvary.

Mistletoe Magic

Ancient followers of the Druid religion were the first to regard mistletoe as a sacred plant, say the editors of The New Book of Knowledge. They supposed it to have panacea virtues in warding off disease.

Each year, about the time Christmas is celebrated today, there was a ceremonial rite in which Druid priests, using a golden sickle, cut the mistletoe leaves from the "sacred oak" and distributed them amongst the people.

The Saxons also valued this plant; they were the first to call it mistletoe. To them, mistletoe symbolized everlasting peace.

Spirit of Christmas Spreads Good Will and Good Cheer

In churches and homes, in city streets and stores, across the countryside — the spirit of Christmas spreads its joy and its contentment. Soon now, the last-minute hustle and bustle will give way to the highest moments of holiday celebration. It's a time for fun and feasting, a time for light-hearted laughter and heartfelt prayer, a time when friendships are renewed and family ties are strengthened.

Throughout this community, and indeed throughout all the communities where Christmas is celebrated, the spirit of the season finds expression in innumerable ways — among them, the gladness of gift-giving, the merriment of parties, the happiness of hearth and home and, above all, the solemn hush of midnight, traditionally the symbolic time for heralding the Birth of Christ.

From the holly wreath on the door to the packages under the tree, from the gaily decorated windows of stores to the manger scenes in the churches, the customs of Christmas contribute to the meaning of the Day — just as early Christian leaders meant that holiday customs should.

When Christmas first began to be observed on December 25th, churchmen welcomed the

Ringling Bells

Among the merry sights and sounds of Christmas, none is merrier than the ringing of bells.

Since earliest times, the pealing of bells has announced important events, both happy and sad. The first use of bells to call Christians to worship took place, it's believed, at Christmas in Italy, about 400 A.D.

Tradition once held that Christ was born exactly at midnight. In medieval Britain, church bells tolled sadly during the hour before midnight on Christmas Eve. On the stroke of 12, a joyous pealing announced the Miracle of Christmas.

Today, church-spire bells and carillons ring out the glad tidings of Christmas.

Burning the Log

From a miraculous Star to a tiny candle, gleaming lights have cast a glow over holiday festivities for centuries.

Pagan sun-worshippers lit candles and kindled fires at winter festivals to help the returning sun gain strength.

Traditional for both light and warmth is the blazing Yule log. Like all "Christmas lights," it has both a religious and a festive significance in holiday lore.

Because legend says that the Christ Child was washed and dressed beside an ash wood fire, the people of early England always had Yule logs of ash wood. Ash had a practical aspect, too, because it was the only green wood which would burn.

The Yule log of England and continental Europe was often believed to have mystical powers to protect the home. To give this protection, the Yule log had to be kept burning all through the 12 days of Christmas.

Later, the "blazing Yule" was primarily associated with the feasting and festivity of the winter holidays.

IN NEW ZEALAND

Not all living Christmas trees are spruce or fir. In New Zealand there's one called "Christmas tree" that doesn't even need decorating. It blossoms with its own red flowers. The tree earned its name since it blooms in December and January.

idea of incorporating ceremonies and traditions from earlier beliefs into the celebration. They thought that people would feel closer to the new religion if former ways and rituals were not abolished, but instead united with the new rites to honor the birth of Christ.

Today, nearly everyone celebrates Christmas because Christmas belongs to everyone.

For the Christian believer, Christmas is cherished as a religious holiday of paramount importance, and as a time meant for joy and festivity, too.

For people of many different faiths, Christmas is beloved as a happy holiday, a secular celebration that gives meaningful expression to universal good will and good cheer.

Giving Gifts

Since the Wise Men gave of their treasures to the Christ Child, giving has been part of the tradition of Christmas.

The idea of gifts as homage dates from even earlier times, when kings demanded special tribute from their subjects during holiday seasons. Thus the Wise Men, in offering precious gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh, expressed their reverence for the newborn King of mankind.

Giving to celebrate a happy time was a familiar part of many pagan festivals.

When these pagan customs of exchanging gifts were transferred to the celebration of the birth of Christ, church leaders added a new idea: selfless giving. Through the ages, giving to help the less fortunate has been a special tradition of Christmas.

Sending Greetings

Perhaps even more than the giving of gifts, the sending of Christmas greetings symbolizes the seasonal spirit of good will.

The personal exchange of good wishes at holiday time is a custom that's older, probably, than Christmas itself.

Though greetings and Christmas have long been associated, the printed greeting card is a relative newcomer to the Yule scene — introduced little more than a century ago. Nowadays, Christmas greeting cards go out by the billions.

In the glad tradition of sending greetings, today's edition of this newspaper presents the special greetings of local merchants, as they express their good wishes and gratitude to customers and friends.

From the Wise Men...

"They presented unto Him gifts, gold, and frankincense, and myrrh." Thus St. Matthew symbolizes the spirit of Christmas. It is the spirit of giving generously, for the Wise Men gave of their best — precious gold, rare frankincense and myrrh, two jewels prized in the making of incense. Most of all, it is the spirit of worship and rejoicing, for Wise Men and shepherds alike knelt at the manger, in the awe and wonder of His birth.

To the Holy Manger...

"Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass." Luke 2:15. Humble shepherds came to behold the Miracle of the manger, and Wise Men journeyed from the East. Today, thousands of Christians make the pilgrimage to the hill town of Bethlehem, each Christmas. A high point of their visit is the Grotto of the Nativity — the rock-hewn stable where, traditionally, Christ was born.

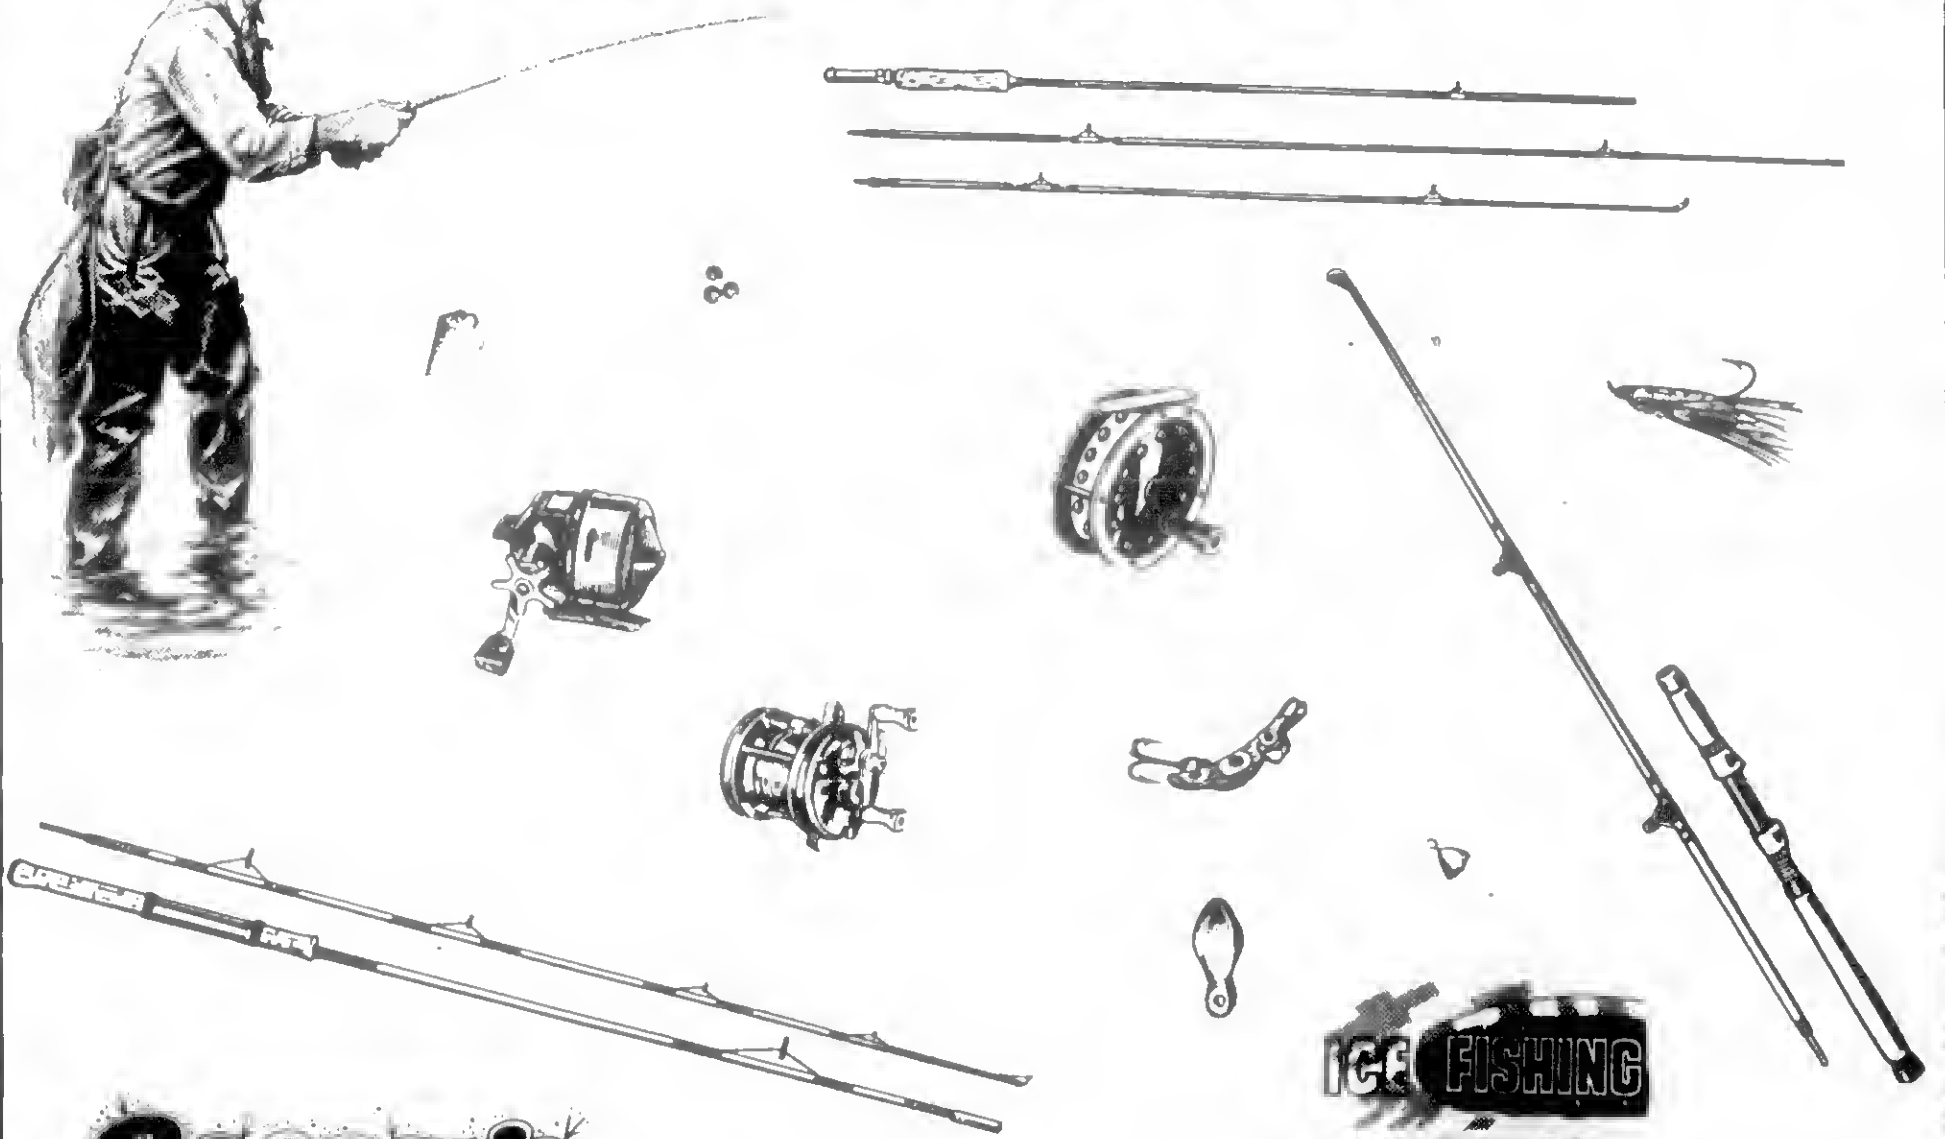

As Shepherds Watch...

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Luke 2:11. Bethlehem stands high on a hill, and below it is "Shepherd's Field," where tradition says the shepherds heard the glad tidings of the Nativity. The Jerusalem YMCA holds carol services in the Field on Christmas Eve. And shepherds, who still tend their flocks in nearby fields, come to watch and share in the celebration.

'Hello Dolly, grow me a tooth or I'll steal your wigs'

The 1968 world of dolls is exuberantly innovative. Cuddly, adorable baby dolls have human characteristics - from a baby doll with flexible neck construction to a cherub that grows a tooth.

Fashion-oriented dolls vie with the haute couture in imaginative styling.

Then there's an intriguing new category of dolls that are not just for playing or for admiring but for wearing. Some are designed to be worn around the neck; others decorate wrists.

Perfumed Pixies are ready to arrive under the Christmas tree in simulated perfume bottles with removable stoppers, each with a distinctive scent that many a little girl will want to dab behind her ear.

Little charmer, who comes in her own play pen, has a new kind of design which permits her to change from a head position for crawling to an upright one.

Cry Baby's bent fingers form a fist just like a real baby's. When a string is pulled, she cries, "Mama." Pick her up and she stops crying.

Baby Grow-A-Tooth does exactly that. Give her a pacifier, then remove it - and the tooth appears.

Lullaby Baby has a music box which plays lullabies "Lullaby" when a string is pulled. This animates the doll, who moves into a variety of positions which simulate a real baby's actions.

A problem-free addition to the walking doll category is Softee Strutter. A child can walk this doll just by holding her in her arms. There are no mechanical parts or batteries.

Other new entries in the realistic doll category include Tippy Toes, who toddles along pushing a play horse and also pedals a tricycle; Tippy Tumbles, who can stand on her head; Randi Reader, who recites nursery rhymes and carries on friendly conversation.

Baby Party blows bubbles, inflates a balloon and toots a horn.

Growing Sally varies in height from 6 to 7 1/2 inches, and has different wigs and wardrobes for various sizes.

Although Raggedy Ann and Andy now come in sizes ranging from 9 to 45 inches, the faces of the beloved characters look exactly as they have for generations.

Stocking Is Just Legend?

Did a spinster hang up the first Christmas stocking? Legend says yes, but history says no - or at most, "Maybe."

St. Nicholas, a fourth century bishop, secretly gave gifts of gold for the dowries of poor spinsters. His method was to toss the gold down a chimney by night, at Christmas.

On one occasion, so legend says, the gift landed in a stocking, hung by the fireplace to dry.

History casts a dubious eye on this "origin" of the Christmas stocking custom. The spinster probably didn't have a stocking - not in the fourth century.

Knitted form-fitting hosiery was unknown until the thirteenth century. Earlier, people wrapped cloth or rags around their feet as substitute for modern stockings.

Even after William Lee invented the stocking frame, a more efficient method of production, in the late 1500's, it was some time before the poor could afford to buy stockings.

History makes one concession to the legend tellers. Paintings from Pompeii show that early Romans did wear some form of stockings, even before the birth of Christ.

TALLEST TREE

Tallest Christmas tree? In the U.S. the title probably goes to the Indianapolis, Ind., "tree" - the Soldiers and Sailors Monument. At Christmas, the 246-foot structure is decorated with electric candles and stars.

They Go Together—Feasting and Festivity

During the Christmas season, merry sounds ring out, pleasing sights greet the eye and tantalizing aromas fill the air. Good food is as much a part of holiday tradition as bells and carols, greens and gifts.

At this festive time, people delight in serving their families and friends an abundance of choice foods. The custom probably began with the ancient winter festivals.

In the course of time, naturally each nation developed its own treasured customs in connection with the Christmas dinner, say the editors of The New Book of Knowledge.

Serving the "Bird"

On American tables, the center of attraction is usually the turkey. This custom has its origin in the English "Christmas bird" - usually a goose, capon or chicken, rather than a turkey.

In medieval times, a large bird was standard fare at English Christmas dinners among the common people. In castle and manor, however, a "bird" wasn't always the main dish.

To the tune of the old carol, "The Boar's Head in Hand I Bear," the boar's head was borne to the table in solemn procession. Then followed other courses - and what courses! The most lavish of dinners usually featured a boar's head.

For a medieval feast, a typical menu included 17 main dishes - everything from roasted swan to a kid with a pudding in its belly!

Breaking Bread

Everywhere, a widespread use of breads and pastries is customary for the Christmas feast.

This has its origin in pre-Christian and early-Christian customs of the agricultural nations of Eastern Europe, where peasants offered thanksgiving for a good harvest, usually of grain, during the winter season.

Special holiday cakes were thought to bring good fortune and good health.

More directly connected with the religious meaning of the season is the "Christ-bread" traditional in many countries. This is a long cake, and its shape is meant to symbolize the Christ Child wrapped in swaddling clothes.

Both mince pie and plum pudding began as national Christmas dishes in England. Like the "Christ-bread," early mince pies were baked in symbolic shape - an oblong meant to represent the manger.

Toasting the Holiday

As today's punch or eggnog bowl attests, favorite beverages and friendly toasts go along with the good cheer and good feasting of the holiday.

It all began with the English "wassail" bowl. The wassail, a holiday beverage of medieval times, was served hot in a large bowl, and it was compounded of ale, apples, eggs, sugar and spices.

The name comes from "Wns Halle," a Saxon greeting which means, "Your health." Gradually, the word "wassailing" began to mean any kind of Christmas revelry accompanied by a festive beverage.

LITTLE FOLK PRANCE

For Icelanders, Christmas Eve is the holiest night of the holiday season.

Tradition says, however, that many years ago elves, dwarfs and other little folks pranced and danced about the streets on the night before Christmas.

Candles Glow At Christmas

Many traditional candle customs brighten today's Christmas celebrations.

From Ireland comes the custom of putting a lighted candle in the window on Christmas Eve to light the Holy Family's way. The candles denote a house where the Holy Family would have been welcomed, not turned away as they were at the inn in Bethlehem.

In Germany, too, candles are placed in windows to provide a glowing welcome for the Virgin Mary and a host of angels who the Germans believe pass over the countryside each Christmas.

Yule news notes Carolers entertain downtown

There will be live caroling groups in downtown Charlevoix to entertain shoppers on the last three evenings stores are open, according to Wally Loder, Chamber of Commerce manager.

The Methodist Junior Choir and Brownie Girl Scouts choir will join to present informal caroling program from 7 to 8 p.m. Friday evening December 20.

The next evening, Saturday, the Methodist Youth Fellowship caroling group will entertain in the downtown area from 5:30 to 6 p.m.

The last evening stores are open late before Christmas, Monday, December 23, the Junior Girl Scout Choir will sing from 6:30 to 7 p.m. From 7 to 8 p.m. Larry Edwards' Boys Choir will entertain.

Loder urged other caroling groups interested in adding spirit to the holiday season by participating in this program to call Mrs. Alex Moore at 547-3084.

The carolers, Loder said, will perform in front of the Chamber of Commerce building.

Charlevoix businessmen start staying open evenings this week to accommodate Christmas gift shoppers.

Wally Loder, Chamber of Commerce manager, said most businesses will be open evenings until at least 8:30. They will stay open later, he said, if there is a demand for longer store hours.

The late evening hours, Loder said, will continue through Monday, December 23.

Among stores staying open the late hours are Oleson's Variety Department Store, Oleson's Yard Goods Store, Oleson's Toy Store, Soley Hardware, Carey's Hoot Shop, Lieberman's Family Department Store, the Carriage Wheel, and Timm's Appliance.

Christmas is for kids

That Christmas is for children will be proven again this season at Charlevoix Elementary School.

For days now elementary children have been making Christmas season decorations. Parents will have a chance to see these efforts during a "walk through" from 1 to 2 p.m. December 17. Visitors will walk through the rooms looking at what children have made. There is expected to be refreshments for parents.

The next day, December 18, the school's annual Christmas program will be held in the gym at 1 p.m. The high school band and fifth and sixth grade choirs will provide the chief entertainment. The student body will join in singing traditional numbers.

On Thursday, December 19, at 1 p.m. the high school drama group will present a 30 minute Christmas play for the elementary students in the gym.

Yule contest

Prizes will again be awarded in each city ward for the Christmas lighting display judged the best.

In each ward first, second and third place prizes will be given. The cash prizes are $15, $10 and $5.

Judges for the annual contest and the evening they will pick winners will be announced later.

Dodger Hill

If Charlevoix skiers weren't ready for the slopes over the weekend they didn't discourage sledgers.

Youngsters swarmed to Dodger Hill (Antrim at Grant) to welcome the late-in-the-week snow storm.

While the scene at the sledging hill was little changed from what it has been for two generations there was one new feature--the city's attendants now have a heated, lighted booth. The booth serves to give supervisors a chance to step out of the cold for a few seconds and gives them a place to sit and tend an excited or injured youngster.

City officials are, again, asking that parents take note of the hours when there is supervision at Dodger Hill. They point out that sledging when there is no supervision could be dangerous.

Supervised sledging hours are: Monday through Friday from 3-5 and from 6-8; Saturday, 10-12, 1-5 and 6-8; Sunday, 1-5 and 6-8.

Mt. McSauba slopes ready

Mt. McSauba almost opened for its 12th year of skiing Sunday.

There was snow for the earliest opening in the history of the non-profit community ski hill. But the skiers hadn't received word and failed to show up, hill manager Chuck Meier said.

It was just as well, Meier decided. Though there was enough snow for skiing, the slopes will be in even better condition if it is given a chance to accumulate for another week. Meaning, if weather conditions do not change, there will be skiing this weekend.

Last year skiing started December 28.

Skiers next weekend will find several major improvements and increased fees to pay for them, Maurice Foster, Mt. McSauba treasurer explained.

The new fees (with last year's in parentheses): Season rates--family $35 ($25); couple, $25 ($20); single adult, $20 ($15); student, 13 through high school, $10 ($8); and children, $7 ($5). Daily fees--Adult, $2 ($1.50); adult, night, $1 ($1); student, $1 ($75¢); and children, 75¢ ($50¢).

The higher fees, Foster explained, are necessary due to the increasing cost of operation and making improvements.

He also pointed out this summer the Mt. McSauba booth at the Michigan

Amateur Golf tournament netted only $210, compared to the approximately $750 it has netted in the past. Gross receipts from skiers at the hill last year were down from $1,700 in 1966 to $1,500, Foster said.

Since last season, Foster said, $1,800 has been spent to buy a used snowmobile and repair the old one for grooming the slopes; $1,500 for an addition to the storage shed and $900 for slope improvements.

Last year $1,150 was spent on rope tow equipment and $1,600 was spent on slope improvements.

Mt. McSauba was opened in 1956 with $8,000 raised through a community stock sale. According to Foster, 200 persons bought $8,000 worth of stock at $10 a share. The majority of stock was purchased by summer residents and businessmen, he said.

The Mt. McSauba property is leased to the non-profit organization by the city, which acquired it from the late P.D. Campbell.

The first individual ticket sold to ski on the hill in 1956 was bought by George Schultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Schultz. The second individual ticket was bought by Jill Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Davis.

The Jack Uhrick family bought the first family ticket. The next three family tickets in order purchased, were bought by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Freeman, Foster and Mr. and Mrs. George Laflamme.

Adults welcome

Adult participation in the school public roller skating program is still lagging, according to Ed Terrill, director of community education.

Two evenings a week are set aside for adult skating: Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8 to 10 p.m.

Adults who had "tried it" have become instant enthusiasts, Terrill said. Skates are available for 35¢ for the evening. Skaters are urged not to wear slip-off shoes. High heel dress shoes, of course, will not do.

Family skating is scheduled from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Children have the run of the gym on Saturdays from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Township oks election on city merger

Charlevoix Township's board Monday officially asked the city to begin steps to merge the city and township into one municipal unit.

The action came after months of study and discussion.

The Township Board's action now leaves the initiative up to the City Council. The Council can either reject the townships' request, sit on it, or, as the township requested, ask the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors to set a date for an election on annexation.

If the city follows through by asking the County Board to set an election date, no delays are expected on the county level. It is suspected supervisors will view the request favorably. If it comes from both the city and township.

The townships' request for annexation was prompted by growing pressure for water in fast developing residential areas. If the city does not act immediately, township officials feel they will have to build their own water system, which might permanently rule out merger of the two municipal units.

Charlevoix Township, according to the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission's findings, is the fastest growing section of Charlevoix County, increasing in population from 294 in 1960 to an estimated 600-plus today.

This 100%-plus increase in the township compares to an approximately 10% increase in the city during the same period.

The merger would create a city with a taxable property valuation of more than $24,000,000 next year, compared to $9,847,550 this year. The city's eight-mill operating tax levy this year raised $78,780. On the merged valuation the same tax rate would raise almost $200,000.

The increase in property tax revenue, coupled with additional funds the merged municipality would qualify for from the state, is expected to make it possible to steadily extend city utility services to developed areas of the township.

Other benefits cited for the township include police protection, improved road and street maintenance, lower light bills, increased property values and more efficient and responsive city government.

Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach has several times suggested a merged city consider drafting a home rule charter to improve local government if voters approve the merger.

Voters of both the city and township will have to favor the merger in the election the city is being asked to have set.

Land area of the merged city would total about 8 1/2 square miles, compared to the slightly more than one mile in the present city.

John Schroeder named township supervisor

Charlevoix pharmacist John Schroeder has been appointed Supervisor of Charlevoix Township. He will replace Clarence Rabach.

Schroeder, a Republican, was appointed to replace Rabach at Monday's Township Board meeting. At the same meeting the board moved to eventually abolish itself and the supervisor's position by asking for annexation to the city.

A long time chairman of the township zoning board, Schroeder lives on Park Ave. near the hospital, just beyond the city limits.

Rabach resigned, effective next Monday (December 16) to become Charlevoix County Clerk, a post to which he was elected in November. Schroeder's term will expire in November 1970.

Board seeks principal for new middle school

A principal for Charlevoix's "middle school" will probably be selected in January or February, according to Sup. Rex Milligan. The present elementary school will be converted to a middle school for fifth through eighth grades by next fall, when kindergarten through fourth grades are moved to the new north side elementary school.

Its opening will give Charlevoix its third school principal. The school district now has two principals: Glenn Snider at the elementary school and Ray Carr at the high school.

Teachers and parents have already started to indicate interest in the type of program which will be offered at the middle school and whether a principal will be selected who can implement newer concepts.

At least two Charlevoix High School teachers have the credentials for a principal's job, which generally requires a masters degree in administration. Both government teacher Max Novak and shop teacher Vane Smith have their masters in administration.

School tax vote in March

A vote on higher school taxes has been tentatively set for March 3 or 10, 1969.

The school board Monday tentatively approved the early March election dates on the recommendation of Sup. Rex Milligan.

Milligan also requested and was given permission to create a citizens' committee to study the school's curriculum needs and make some recommendations on whether the program should be cur-

Novak, one of the district's most experienced teachers, has often been mentioned for administrative posts. Smith was a high school principal at Porterville before returning to Charlevoix.

English teacher Leonard Staley may have his masters in administration before the middle school opens.

The new principal will be named in January or February so he can begin work, at least part-time, coordinating and developing the program and facilities for the school.

Based on salaries being paid the district's administrators this year, the new principal will make more than $15,000 a year.

In addition to subjects now offered in the fifth through eighth grades, the middle school is expected to have programs in shop, home economics, art, science labs, etc.

Milligan said Snider will move to the new elementary school as principal.

Even if no improvements are made, Milligan said increased taxes will be necessary to meet mounting costs.

The school board Monday also heard reports from two teachers' committees which have been studying use and development of instructional materials centers (IMCs) for the elementary and other schools.

Boyer school chief gets top job in new district

EAST JORDAN—Boyer City school superintendent Howard Boyer has been named chief of the merged East Jordan-Boyer City school districts. The district (now called Twin Valley School District) has been without an administrative boss since it was created by a merger vote last summer.

Since then Boyer and East Jordan Supt. Max Damoth have continued on the payroll as assistant superintendents, with responsibility for continuing to run their former portions of the enlarged district.

The merged school board, which was elected in September, and is dominated by Boyer City, appointed Boyer to the head post last week. Damoth was appointed an assistant superintendent in charge of business operations.

Boyer and Damoth were ordered by the board to promptly move into administrative office space outside the school buildings so they can work fulltime on consolidating the school program without being concerned about day-to-day operation of the schools.

About the only functions of the two school districts which have been consolidated so far is the bookkeeping. Board members hope to see the job of integrating teaching techniques, transportation, curriculum, etc., speeded up, they told Boyer and Damoth.

Plans are being prepared for a consolidated high school somewhere between the two towns.

If you're still pondering a Christmas gift for your husband, why not look to the fish?

Though he may have a good tackle, he's also sure to need a good size trout or salmon for his Yule dinner. The old tackle, though, just won't do it.

Last summer this writer came across a number of guys using old tackle that had been tucked away in the attic for years. The chance to find a good size trout had rekindled their river after years of dormancy. The old tackle, though, just won't do it.

A tackle gift certainly doesn't have to be a rod and reel. A big part of a fisherman's expenses — maybe the biggest — are often tackle boxes, too, are often plastic ones are dandy.

It's not going to be fishing for Christmas or from Lake Michigan, but it's a gift that's sure to be appreciated.

Gifts often on gift lists are those that are useful and practical. The hardware clerk should know the best size and colors.

Remember, though, size and color of lures is important. The hardware clerk should know the best size and colors.

Fishing and other accessories for the boat also make good gifts. A large -- and strong -- landing net may be a good idea. Many fishermen can use rod holders for their boat.

A fish finder (a portable small boat) would thrill just about any angler. A local marina can fix you.

Probably the finest fishing lure is a spinner. It's a simple design, but it's a lure that's sure to be appreciated.

FHA holds initiation

by Laura Webster

The Charlevoix High School Future Homemakers of America had their initiation of new members, Wednesday, December 4.

An initiation ceremony was held and it enabled the new members to see who their officers are. It also gave them a chance to learn the purposes of the organization.

After the ceremony the fun began. New members were divided into groups and they were each given a bag of old clothes and other interesting things with which they were to form a skit.

The skits were really funny and all the old members had a good laugh.

Refreshments were served and the new members cleaned up after the meeting.

The members and their families of the local Iron-ton Club met Saturday evening in the Church dining room with a cooperative dinner and were all pleased with the new improvements that have been made this past year.

We noticed Saturday morning that the weather was not what it was expected to be. We have been having it won't be too long before the fishermen will be busy getting their fish out and ready to build the annual village on the lake near the ferry.

Phil Myer is busy building an addition on the front of his house.

Sharon Nelson is at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nelson from her duties at Ferris in the hospital.

The Christmas decorations are beginning to appear on several of our homes. We like to see our little village shining bright for the holidays.

We are sorry to hear about John Soller of East Jordan who has been in the hospital in Gaylord after an accident with his car returning from deer hunting. The family expected to transfer him to Laule Travel.

ACCOMPANIED BY A PRAYER

Many a letter starts on its journey through the mails bearing a message that will not be found within the envelope. It accompanies the letter, nevertheless. Such messages are prayers offered by the sender when the letter is sealed or when it is dropped into the mailbox. It is often a prayer by a parent for a son in the armed forces, a daughter in a hospital, or for those in anxiety from many causes.

Prayer, with a firm belief in its power, can accomplish wonders. The occasion may be a mass disaster or a purely personal and intimate matter.

How can you make your prayers effective? By first learning how to pray and practicing a faith. The church that best trains you can be of tremendous help in this direction. Here, through active participation in the services you can learn to pray effectively. Prayer is dynamic.

Another county school placed on merger block

BOYNE CITY — The Twin Valley School District is now being placed on a merger block in an effort to bring it into a merger.

The Twin Valley district is the new name for the merged Boyne City and East Jordan school districts.

The Twin Valley school board last week hosted officials from the Boyne Falls district at a meeting.

Twin Valley board members said they would take Boyne Falls into consideration in locating a new high school if there is a possibility of eliminating the county's eastern most school district. Boyne Falls has approximately 260 students, less than half of them in high school.

Two years ago Boyne Falls residents overwhelmingly rejected a proposal that it merge with Boyne City.

If the Boyne Falls district is swallowed by Boyne City, it will leave only three school districts in the county—Charlevoix, Twin Valley and Beaver Island. Walloon Lake School District also disappeared this year when it was absorbed by Petoskey and Boyne City.

Seeks permit for dock on South Arm

IRONTON — Richard Meyers of Mt. Clemens is asking the Corps of Engineers for permission to dredge and build a dock on his South Arm lakefront property just south of Holy Island.

Meyers' proposed dock would extend 50 feet into the lake. He wants to dredge to four feet below mean water level.

The Meyers' property is located on the west side of the South Arm between property owned by Howard Darrow of Boyne City and Stan Sweet of East Jordan.

Anyone interested in commenting on Meyers' request for a construction permit should write to the Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 1027, Detroit, Mich. 48231 before January 10.

The following taken from the Army Private Robert J. Wojan, 19, son of Ted F. Wojan, 409 Bridge St., Charlevoix, completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training Nov. 27 at Ft. Polk, La. His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises.

During his guerrilla training, he lives under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LOOER
CHAMBER MANAGER

We have had a number of kind remarks having to do with the colored lights decorating the front of this Chamber of Commerce premises. I am wondering whether they will last until Christmas due to the fact that a person or persons, apparently of a certain minority, removed quite a number of lights December 13. Of course, I realized it doesn't matter to them, the cost for replacing, any more than what it costs to clean up the unsightly conditions some persons leave the room here at this facility, the one available to the public at the street level. They even will steal partial rolls of toilet paper, and there is evidence of destruction, also. I should like to remind you, none of this sort of thing took place during the summer season.

Do reminded that through the efforts of Mrs. Alex Moore, we expect to have different singing groups rendering Christmas Carols here in front of the Chamber of Commerce office, Friday evening, December 20, late Saturday afternoon, approximately 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m., December 21, and Monday, early evening about 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., December 23. We hope to see many of you in the audiences.

The old-time junkman—who used to travel around by horse and wagon offering to buy with the singing: "Any old rags, rubber, metal today!" could make a fortune if he were in earshot of some of the carelessly managed Air Force bases today.

General Accounting Office (GAO) reports that during a six-month period in 1967, Air Force bases condensed and disposed of, "as unserviceable," parts valued originally at $6.7 million.

Of 78 items selected from scrapyards of five Air Force bases, GAO found that 51 could have been repaired for amounts significantly less than replacement costs—$12.08 to repair a $36 pump; $23.18 to fix a $35 valve; and $64 to put a $644 actuator in serviceable condition.

GAO cites these as examples. It doesn't attempt to estimate how much taxpayers' money could have been saved overall.

"Any old pumps, valves or actuators today?"

Thirty years ago -- 1938, of 1,430 light planes built by four U.S. manufacturers, 1,118 or about 80% are powered with Continental engines.

Learn to Live with Change: "Change has affected our most stable institutions -- the family, school, university, church and government. We must learn to live with ever-changing change, and keep abreast of it, or we may find ourselves, our businesses and our organizations quickly outdated. Winton M. Blount, President, Chamber of Commerce of the United States."

Superheat

Superheat burns cleaner and hotter because every golden drop is "electrofined." That means you get more heat and better heat — with lower heating bills for the season. Don't wait for winter cold. Be prepared in advance by calling us tomorrow. It's the only call you'll have to make all season.

The retailers so far have not continued about this year over last year. Having to do with tourism, it is quite evident there were many more persons stopping at Charlevoix this season, whether it be for a short or a long time, over and above the number of that in 1967. Based on the number of persons we will call tourists, one would expect considerably more gross receipts. For several weeks, now, we have received interesting and a number of contacts for different lengths of vacation periods for 1968.

The following taken from the News Department of National Chamber of Commerce of the United States: Inflation Remedy: Increased Productivity: "Increased productivity is the best long-term remedy for inflation, in the opinion of Secretary of Commerce, H. Smith, who explains: "Greater output per man-hour does more to bring down costs and stabilize prices in a dynamic economy than anything else over the long haul." My gracious, do you think labor would tolerate more output per man?

CARPENTER'S SON BORN IN STABLE, NAMED JESUS, THE CHRIST

HOLY BIRTH IS REPORTED IN BETHLEHEM

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM—A strange phenomenon took place here last night, when a star of extraordinary brightness appeared to stand still over the city, its light causing all other stars in the heavens to seem to disappear.

Simultaneous with the advent of the star was the birth of an infant boy in a stable behind a local inn that has the reputation of this over-crowded city excited with reports that the child is the Son of God, of a virgin birth, and that he is destined to establish a new kingdom on earth.

The Roman authorities in this poor land discount the rumor, calling it superstition, but the populace in the street is not of the same mind as their foreign rulers.

Religious leaders in the synagogues are closeted behind closed doors and the high priests are reported to be discussing seriously what the advent of this birth, and the presence of the bright star over the city, really mean.

The parents of the child, who has been named Jesus Christ, are a Joseph and Mary, who came to Bethlehem for the annual, Roman tax count, along with ex-thousands of others who are here to comply with the law.

It was a silent and cold night when their son was born in a manger in a stable behind an overcrowded inn that has no room for the expectant mother. Joseph, on foot, leading an ass, on which rode Mary, expectant with child, had journeyed a long way to comply with the law and the ancient prophecy that a Messiah would be born in this normally sleepy little village.

Finding the inn crowded, Joseph and Mary were directed to the stables at the rear of the inn, where they could take shelter from the cold, driving rain.

Inside the stable, by the flickering light of an oil lamp, Joseph made Mary as comfortable as conditions allowed and the wait began for it was apparent that her infant would be born in a few hours.

Joseph, like all fathers, paced nervously near the entrance of the stable, which was in a shallow cave in a cliff front. Nearby, a patient ox stood silently, and the bearded donkey which had carried Mary from Nazareth munched noisily on hay from the manger.

Sheep in the stable waited silently in one of the stalls and the orders of the animals and their frosty breath filled the damp, stable air. Then a strange pure light filled the stable, coming from the stall where Mary, encased behind a cloth screen which Joseph had hung over one of the stalls, lay in labor.

Then, it was reported, Angels, sent to attend Mary, slipped back the cloth and the mother of the babe brought him forth, wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger filled with fresh-cut hay.

The animals in the stable raised their heads in gaze upon the infant, around which this strange light that visitors to the stable since the birth have called "Manna".

Swiftly, the Angels that had attended Mary departed, saying they must go tell the world of the birth of the long-awaited Messiah, the King of Kings. And high above the stable, in a sky cleared of storm cloud and rain, this strange, bright and brilliant star, hovered almost directly above the stable.

If this is a king, it was a strange birth. There were no royal robes, no jewels to welcome him, only the simple shelter of a stable in a storm, and the adoration of Angels, of Joseph and Mary, and the dumb beasts of the field.

Will the world know him and recognize him as a king? Will his kingdom be as other kingdoms, of men and material things? A part of the answer was soon forthcoming.

For in a short while, voices, singing and chanting, were heard approaching the stable. They were the voices of approaching shepherds, coming from the bleak hills around this little village, and they were saying, "Glory to God in the highest, Alleluia! Christ the Savior is Born."

Mary, Mother of Infant, Says Angel Told of His Mission

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM—Mary, the mother of the infant, Jesus Christ, who was born in the stable back of an inn here in Bethlehem, said today the birth of her son and the excitement caused by his birth, was no surprise, because she had been told by an Angel of God that she would bear such a child.

Asked how she was told, Mary said an Angel appeared to her and awakened her from sleep to announce to her that God had chosen her to bear His Son. The Angel, she said, declared, "Hail, woman favored by the Lord; the Lord is with you."

Mary said she was surprised and frightened at that visitation, but that the Angel reassured her, saying, "Do not be afraid, Mary. The Lord has given you His favor and has chosen you to be the mother of a son whose name shall be Jesus."

"He shall be great; and shall be called the Son of God; and the Lord shall give him the throne of his father David. He shall be a king and shall reign over the people of God forever; and of his rule there shall be no end."

Mary also said she was incredulous that she should be chosen to bear the child of the Most High God. She said she was further told in her, "The Holy Spirit shall come upon you, and the power of the Most High God shall be over you; and the Holy Child which you shall have shall be called the Son of God."

Asked what her reaction to this was, Mary said she told the Angel, "I am the servant of the Lord and do to his will. Let it be to me as you have said."

She was also asked how an infant born of such a poor family and of no nobility could become a king, and what kind of kingdom he would have. Mary was reported to have said that her son would answer these questions at the proper time.

Facts Support Miracle Claim

This strange event that has focused so much attention on the village of Bethlehem, this birth of a baby boy to Mary, wife of Joseph of Nazareth—is this truly the miracle it seems to be?

The evidence points to the truth of such a miracle.

First, Angels from the heavens appeared in the sky over these hills proclaiming him to be the Son of God. They sang out in great choruses words of praise for both the babe and the glory of God.

Second, there is the report that the mother, Mary, was a virgin, and there are none to impugn the truth of this claim.

And third, no ordinary birth would bring to this tiny village the presence of three such wise and distinguished men as the Magi, Caspar, Melchior and Bathsheba. Nor would men of such stature lavish expensive gifts on an ordinary child.

And lastly, he is of the lineage of David, and it is not written that there will be for the people, a king and savior born of this line. And was it not foretold that this King of Kings would be born, not in a palace, but in a lowly place, and wrapped in swaddling clothes and cradled in a manger?

The facts are too much in deny. Coupled the facts with the concern being expressed by King Herod over the threat to his throne by the advent of a new king, and the rumor that Herod may order all male babies born in this time slaughtered, and the strength of this event grows even more.

But if he is the prophesied King of Kings, what kind of kingdom will he establish? What can be expected of this son of a carpenter? Although descended of David, his relationship is too remote to insure him entry into the inner circles of the priesthood or of nobility.

Certainly, man is in need of a leader who will inspire justice and fair play, honesty and dignity, such a leader is long past due and when he shows himself to be such a leader, he will have our unqualified support. —The Editor.

Rumblings Heard of Danger To Idea of New Holy King

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM -- Fear of something new, apparently, is behind reports of opposition organized with an eye to a program designed to discredit the reported virgin birth, but usually reliable sources indicate the birth has shaken the palace of Herod.

Rumors, in whose charge the whole country has been placed, tend to discount the whole story as being a superstition and in official spokesmen said, "We have reason to doubt the truth of the reported miracle that took place in the stable behind an inn on the edge of Bethlehem."

Philosophers and the prophesies of vision men are now being rejected in certain quarters, as disbelievers rather in inn and around the synagogues to discuss the reported miracle that took place in the stable behind an inn on the edge of Bethlehem.

Apparently there is as yet no formal opposition organization with any concrete program designed to discredit the reported virgin birth, but usually reliable sources indicate the birth has shaken the palace of Herod.

The mother reported that she received a vision from an Angel, who instructed her, "Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins."

A check of records disclosed that the name, Jesus, is from the old Hebrew name, Yeshu, meaning "God is salvation." "Jesus" is a shortened form of "Yeshu," and "Yeshu" is also the name of the father of the Son of David, Jesus Christ.

Shepherd was Eye Witness to the Visit from Angels

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM -- The local shepherd, Zechariah, who first saw the brilliant illumination that was coincident with the birth of the son of Mary and Joseph, gave a first-hand report of the miraculous events that took place as he tended his flock and kept watch while other shepherds slept.

Zechariah reported that the light appeared quite suddenly and spread over the hills rapidly, so that every rock and every sheep, could be easily seen.

And then, he said, there in the heavens, was an Angel, who told the shepherds of the birth in Bethlehem stable, that Christ the Savior was born.

After the messenger Angel made this pronouncement, Zechariah said, the sky behind him was filled with a chorus of Angels, singing in a great chant, the words, "Alleluia, Glory to God in the highest."

Then, said Zechariah, the shepherds consulted among themselves, asking what it all could mean, and if it were true, and they decided to leave their flocks and go into Bethlehem, to the stable behind their inn, and pay their respects to the new-born King.

The birth must be that of a King, said Zechariah, reasoning that only a holy birth would prompt thousands of Angels to appear to man and sing songs of praise.

And so it was that the shepherds left the stony hills and their flocks and went to the stable where, falling on their knees, they were received by the Christ child and Mary and Joseph.

Ebenezer Cites Line Of David as Reason for Accepting Holy Savior

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM -- This small Judean village hasn't had so much attention focused on it since it was the home of David, the shepherd boy who killed the giant, Goliath, 28 generations ago.

But the fact that it was the home of David lends credence to reports that the infant son Jesus Christ of Mary is, indeed, destined for his own place in history.

Why? Because it is through a line of descendants from David, the Shepherd King, that Jesus Christ comes, whose birth from this line of ancestors is heralded in the Tablets of Jubilee prophecies.

Ebenezer, a wise man and philosopher of Bethlehem, whose own ancestors have lived here and on the surrounding plains for centuries, came into this prophetic city this week, as well again the origin of the name of the village.

The philosopher, whose own name means, "stone of help," said he had studied the various meanings of Bethlehem and that for hundreds of years the plains around the village were fruitful and fertile, affording many acres of good pasture land for cattle and sheep, and for production of crops and vineyards.

Consequently, Ebenezer continued, its name comes from the old Hebrew word meaning, "house of bread," because of the former fertility of the region.

Put in this day, at this time of the birth of Jesus Christ, descendant of David, the countryside is vastly different. The soil is depleted, the crops are sparse and the grazing limited. It is a poor land, indeed, that has been witness to this miracle of the star that hangs over the hamlet of Bethlehem.

Heavenly Vision Inspired Choice of Child's Name

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM -- A heavenly vision inspired Mary, wife of Joseph and mother of the baby born in a stable manger behind a local inn, to name him Jesus Christ, it was learned in an interview shortly after the birth.

The mother reported that she received a vision from an Angel, who instructed her, "Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins."

A check of records disclosed that the name, Jesus, is from the old Hebrew name, Yeshu, meaning "God is salvation." "Jesus" is a shortened form of "Yeshu," and "Yeshu" is also the name of the father of the Son of David, Jesus Christ.

For example, the name, Charles, means strong, or manly. John means God is gracious, and Robert, which means "bright in name." Girls are similarly named. Alice means truth. Ann means grace. Anne means "gift of God," and, with this historical basis, the parents, Joseph and Mary, following the dictates of the vision from Mary, named their Son, Jesus Christ.

It is customary to name children to indicate their purpose in life, or the wishes of their parents.

The name, Jesus Christ, means "Son of David," and "Messiah," also "the anointed one," and "Savior." The parents' explanation.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LOOPER

First of all, the board of Charlevoix, and myself, to you great readers of this column, with a very happy Christmas Season, and hope you enjoy a happy, healthy, and prosperous New Year.

If I hoped many of you will have enjoyed the past year's column, I am glad.

I wish to take this means of thanking Mrs. Moore and all of the good participants. Some of you may have noticed the color light decorations around the front of this barbershop building, wherein the Chamber of Commerce is located. I figured I might have a little interference, but most certainly did not anticipate what actually did occur, which Friday morning caused me to decide to take all of the decorations down so that these little house angels would cause no more disturbance and destruction, antilating them to be successful in upsetting someone else's pleasure.

Thursday evening, for example, between 6:30 and 7:40 p.m., there was removed and/or broken, 14 colored light bulbs, some of which, like evenings before, were taken in the men's room and thrown against the wall to break them, leaving a mess on the floor for someone else to clean up. Friday morning, the total removed since 6:30 Thursday night was 31.

I think it is unfortunate that we have to contend with this sort of conduct. This sort of Council vetoes $200,000 plan for Ferry Ave.

City Council has rejected a nearly $200,000 plan for development of extensive facilities for fishermen at the Ferry Ave. beach and boat launching site.

The plan was submitted by United Associates of Cheboygan. It is unknown whether the city will have to pay for the plans.

The Council, in cooperation with the Michigan Waterways Commission, had asked the engineering firm to come up with plans for toilets and additional boat launching facilities at Ferry Ave. beach. Only a modest project was envisioned by the Council.

The engineering firm's extensive plan would virtually eliminate the swimming beach and calls for far more elaborate facilities than the Council feels city residents want.

The Ferry Ave. project would be paid for with state, federal and city funds.

ACCOMPANIED BY A PRAYER

Many a letter starts on its journey through the mails bearing a message that will not be found within the envelope. It accompanies the letter, nevertheless. Such messages are prayers offered by the sender when the letter is sealed or when it is dropped into the mail box. It is often a prayer by a parent for a son in the armed forces, a daughter in a hospital, or for those in anxiety from many causes.

Prayer, with a firm belief in its power, can accomplish wonders. The occasion may be a mass disaster or a purely personal and intimate matter.

How can you make your prayers effective? By first learning how to pray and practicing a faith. The church that best suits you can be of tremendous help in this direction. Here, through active participation in the services you can learn to pray effectively. Prayer is dynamic.

The quarry plan calls for lowering about a 200-foot embankment along the Lake Michigan shore to which quarrying would be allowed. The latter area would include most of the embankment in the Bells Bay area.

Persons who cannot attend the hearing may mail written statements to attorney John Michael at the Pine River building, Charlevoix. Michael will see that they are entered as part of the hearing record.

Michael also has more petitions opposing the lease plan and is hoping they will be signed, either at his office or the Courier. Persons willing to circulate petitions can obtain them from his office.

Victory slips away from CHS

The only other Hayden scoring in double figures was Kraag Lieberman, who put 10 points on the board for a half-volt. In the second half Lieberman was moved to center to replace Don Ward who fouled out.

First Negro cheered
Bill Carey scored in 24 points in the first half. The Charlevoix Junior Varsity lost was moved to Larry Reed's four-point performance.

Reed's appearance in the game was the first for a Negro in Charlevoix High School history.

EDITORIALS American Mold a good citizen

It's been said before and this week it bears repeating loud and clear: American Mold is the kind of industry Charlevoix should have.

Last week American Mold again demonstrated the clear-cut difference between an industry that does have a community conscience and one that has only its stockholders' dividends at heart.

On Monday, December 9, the Charlevoix Township Board asked American Mold to do something about suspected pollution from a settling pond used to dispose of a liquid waste from the plant's manufacturing process. The company received notice of the request Tuesday, December 10.

By Saturday, December 14, Mold's top brass in Detroit had agreed to promptly eliminate the suspected pollution source. Our repeated reference to "suspected" pollution couldn't be noted. The township claimed to have no authoritative proof that the settling basin was polluting.

American Mold did not ignore the undocumented complaint or demand that a time-consuming expert survey be made to technically prove the complaint was legally enforceable. American Mold acted! Em-

At stake, we've been told, are many similar situations around Northern Michigan in which townships have failed to improve or even officially accept land planned for roads or other public use.

The Courier, naturally, feels that the best interest of the most people would certainly be served by preserving the Pine Point beach area for the public. However, the newspaper in no way feels qualified to pass judgement on the legal question involved.

We hope, however, that citizens will join us in urging their township boards and the Road Commission to learn a lesson from this. It is time to dust off all old plat and see to it that the public's interest is served before someone does rightfully and legally stakes out a claim.

SOME OF US, it must be admitted, are slower at grasping and accepting new trends. One such example may be the snowmobile.

Though none of us at the Courier own snowmobiles, we are beginning to recognize it as a permanent and definitely healthy family sport. The time seems to have come to place snowmobiling in the same category as boating, which Charlevoix has benefited from for generations.

A Christmas nightmare

There is no need that all men in uniform be perfect model specimens. A man with that feel, for instance, may not be able to walk as fast or as far as another, but he sure as heck can, and should, be expected to do everything he is capable of -- which is no less than is expected of a perfectly healthy person.

If we need the draft (which I do not concede) wouldn't it be fairer to induce every male American at a specific age, give him a rifle, pack and let him sleep and train in the mud until he has the skills to kill and survive in combat? This might take some men a month and others nine months.

This would cut costs and be a better influence on our young men than the present system of exempting a few, giving others only eight weeks of basic military training and then shipping them out to soft special training and duty.

After the fundamental soldiering skills were learned these men could be rotated in and out of combat duty on an equal basis.

The best thing about any system is that America would rebel against war when the majority of their sons were for the first time faced with sharing the infantryman's horror. Instead of only the underprivileged or glibly few.

Combine the two and by the end of 1969 it looks like school tax revenue will be 130% greater than in 1965. (The cost of living since then is up about 30%).

A few factors other than industrial growth have contributed somewhat to the disproportionate increase in school taxes. These include poor planning and poor judgment on the part of school officials and teacher militancy, all of which are related to the economic influence of new industry.

Of course, our school program has been broadened since 1965. And, perhaps, it has even improved some. But no one can be so glib as to suggest that education has broadened or improved anything like 130%.

Many citizens have benefited from our last spurge of industrial expansion. The competition for employees has forced wages up in virtually all plants and businesses -- which is to be bailed long and loud.

The fact remains, though, that Charlevoix, and perhaps many other North Country communities, have reasonable greasing the skids for a millage vote. It is timely to compare our 1966 tax bill with pre-Medusa days.

Can Charlevoix afford more industrial growth?

Our school tax rate for 1965 was 14.75 mills. This year it is 20.45, a 39% increase.

The taxable property valuation of the school district in 1965 was $21,842,552. This year it is $26,600,560, or $4,757,908 higher than in 1965. An increase of 66%.

Due to the increase in property values the school's income from taxes would have gone up 66%, or from $315,000 to $540,000. If the tax rate today were the same as it was in 1965.

But due to the dual factors of a 39% tax rate hike and a 66% valuation increase, the amount the school gets from local taxes has increased 105% since 1965.

This 105% increase in school tax revenue, remember, compares to only a 34% increase in students.

And let's peek into the immediate future.

The school district's property tax value will probably go up another $3 million before next Christmas. Bringing it up to $30 million or 78% higher than in 1965.

Further, it seems our school taxes are destined to go up another three mills, to at least 23.45, or 60% higher than in 1965.

Personally, we think this is rather a sick situation in a small town like ours where everybody is connected with sports, and would like to see something done about it in the future.

Community fails to back team

ELLISWORTH -- Where is all of Ellisworth's spirit? That's been one of the big questions being asked around Ellisworth. Though it would seem that there is no draft, if there is to be one all should serve as near to equally as possible.

When it gets right down to a shooting war, such as Vietnam, granted that only a minority percentage of the men in uniform are going to draw the worst duty -- that of an infantryman in arm's combat. There does not seem to be a way to organize war so that this ultimate burden is equally shared.

But we are being diverted to another subject. Let's get back to the draft.

It especially angers me to see some of our young men valiantly and patriotically answering their country's call to arms while others sink out of service. Though I would like to see there be no draft, if there is to be one all should serve as near to equally as possible.

Medusa's failure to halt pollution causes concern about quarry lease

With Christmas taxes waiting to be paid in most households and our school greasing the skids for a millage vote, it is timely to compare our 1966 tax bill with pre-Medusa days.

In 1965, the last year before Medusa was a major economic factor, we had 1,236 kids in school. This year we have 1,493. A 21% increase.

Another writer skeptical of Medusa quarry

The plant was designed to produce CEMENT and that is exactly what it is going to do, for the next "hundred years." Don't blame Medusa for doing what cement plants do and doing it well. You asked for it. I understand, and now you have it, but you don't have to and absolutely must not give ANY MORE CONCESSIONS which will allow the destruction of that which is only yours by EXTREME GOOD FORTUNE AND WHICH YOU ONLY OBTAINED PRESERVE FOR THE LESS FORTUNATE AND FOR YOUR CHILDREN AND THOSE YET TO COME!

Still, as bad as it is (and it may be), we have to live with it. You are very lucky. Instead of a cement plant, you could have a modern petroleum refinery on the Point. Think about THAT ONE!

Tom Hamey
Toledo, Ohio

As cement plants go, it is one of the best, and millions have been spent in an effort to decrease the degradation of the air in the vicinity of Charlevoix.

The proposed landscaping, it and when it finally takes hold and grows for 10 to 15 years, will slightly soften the appearance of the plant looking out of the sky. There is, however, a limit to what can and will be done.

The plant will never sound like the New York Philharmonic orchestra. It will always sound like it does now, and perhaps worse as times go by and the machinery wears.

It will never perfume the air with the scent of pine and balsam. It will always smell like a cement plant smells.

School contract outlines teacher evaluation steps

ARTICLE XXII
TEACHER EVALUATION

A. The performance of all teachers shall be evaluated in writing. Probationary teachers shall be evaluated twice during the school year, one month following the teachers' commencement of service, and the second evaluation during the second semester. Tenure teachers shall be evaluated at least once every two years. More frequent evaluations may be made of both probationary and tenure teachers.

B. Evaluations shall be conducted by the building principal or other qualified persons appointed by the superintendent from outside the district as determined by the superintendent.

C. Each formal observation as required in section A of this article shall be made for thirty consecutive minutes. All monitoring or observation of the performance of a teacher shall be conducted with full knowledge of the teacher.

D. A copy of the written evaluation shall be submitted to the teacher at the time of such personal interview or within ten days thereafter; one to be signed and returned to the administrator, the other to be retained by the teacher. In the event that the teacher feels his evaluation was incomplete or unjust, he may put his objections in writing and have them attached to the evaluation report to be placed in his personnel file. All evaluations shall be based upon valid criteria for evaluating professional growth as determined by the Board after consultation with the Association.

TEACHERS' CONTRACT

A continuing report

This portion of the Charlevoix teachers' contract with the school board is being published by the Courier in the interest of public understanding. The complete contract is being presented in this continuing series.

E. No later than March 15th of each probationary year the final written evaluation report will be furnished to the superintendent covering each probationary teacher. A copy shall be furnished to the teacher and the Association. If the report contains any information not previously made known to and discussed with the probationary teacher, the teacher shall have an opportunity to submit additional information to the superintendent.

F. Each teacher shall have the right upon request to review the contents of his own personnel file, specifically exempting from review that information which is of a confidential nature. A representative of the Association may, at the teacher's request, accompany the teacher in this review. Each teacher's personnel file shall contain the following minimum items of information:

1. Annual TB report and required medical information.
2. All teacher evaluation reports.
3. Copies of annual contracts.
4. Copy of the teacher's certificate.
5. Letters of commendation.
6. A transcript of academic record.
7. Tenure recommendation.
8. Record of voluntary extra curricular activities.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

A. This Agreement shall constitute the full and complete commitments between both parties and may be altered, changed, added to, deleted from or modified only through the voluntary, mutual consent of the parties in a written and signed amendment to this Agreement.

B. Any individual contract between the Board and an individual teacher, heretofore executed shall be subject to and consistent with the terms and conditions of this Agreement and any individual contract hereafter executed shall be expressly made subject to and consistent with the terms of this or subsequent agreements to be executed by the parties. If an individual contract contains any language inconsistent with this Agreement, this Agreement, during its duration, shall be controlling.

C. This Agreement shall supersede any rules, regulations or practices of the Board which shall be contrary to or inconsistent with its terms. The provisions of this Agreement shall be incorporated into and be part of the established policies of the Board.

D. If any provision of this Agreement or any application of the Agreement to any employee or group of employees shall be found contrary to law, then such provision or application shall not be deemed valid and subsisting except to the extent permitted by law, but all other provisions or applications shall continue in full force and effect.

E. Copies of this Agreement shall be printed at the expense of the Board and presented to all teachers now employed, hereafter employed, or considered for employment by the Board.

Both parties recognize that the proposed calendar for the school year requires 183 days of actual attendance at school by members of the Association. These days have been designated as two days of pre-school conferences, 180 instructional days and one day of post-school administrative duties.

It is hereby agreed by the Association that any failure by its members to attend a regularly scheduled attendance day (defined as one of the 183 days provided for in the calendar), whether such lack of attendance be due to a strike, a "professional protest" day, a sympathy day, or for any reason not specifically allowable by the State Law as an "instructional day", will operate to automatically extend the school calendar by the number of days necessary to provide for the school calendar as originally established. This extension of time beyond the operation of the school calendar as herein established shall require the attendance of members of the Association with no remuneration beyond that which has been established by this master contract.

Conversely, if the reason for such lack of attendance on the part of members of the Association is due to action by the Board of Education which physically prohibits the members of the Association from gaining access to the school premises, or physical breakdowns of the school plant which does not allow an instructional day to be taught, then the Board agrees that extra compensation will be paid to the members if their attendance at school for more than the 183 contract days is required.

In such event, such compensation shall be computed as follows:

The daily salary for attendance days after the closing dates as set in Schedule A and Schedule A-1 shall be determined by dividing a teacher's base annual salary as shown in Schedule B and Schedule B-1 by 180.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

The Birthday of the Saviour is here, and we are once again reminded that Christmas is a family day... a day of reunions and feasting, and a day of joyous gift-giving. But let us not forget, as we fill the stockings and surround the tree with packages, the most important gifts of all... the gifts that bear neither price tags nor gay wrappings, yet are of infinite value. These are the gifts of kindness, tolerance, consideration and compassion. Let us hope that this Christmas will revive the true spirit of giving that began with the Birth of a Holy Child... to bring peace and good will to all.

Santa's Mail

Jeffrey & Kristy Olney

Dear Santa: Christmas time is almost here again and it is time again to write and tell you what I need.

To begin, I want to thank you for all the nice things you brought last year. I still have most all of them and still play with them lots.

This year I am five years old and go to school. I have been a good boy at school and at home and this year I would like a paler that you forgot to bring last year, a grill that cooks real hamburgers and a road set that three year olds can work so my little sister can play with it with me and a train set that runs on batteries and goes by itself.

We moved out in the country to a new house and don't live at the same place no more. We live on Marion Center road in an orange brick house so you won't miss us. My sister Kristy is three years old this year and wants a baby party doll that blows balloons by herself and blows bubbles by herself and a high chair for her dollies and a doll house with little furniture.

Thank you Santa and we will leave cookies and milk for you and marshmallows for Rudolf and sugar cubes for the rest of the reindeer like we do every year.

Merry Christmas Jeffrey Todd Olney P.S. I will be sure daddy don't have a fire in the fireplace so you don't get burned coming down the chimney.

We wish you the happiest of holidays with all the joy and delights of the season.

Measles now are unusual

Remember the good old days when every kid caught the measles and then didn't have to worry about it?

BRENDA WOJAN'S Christmas angels wishing you all a Merry Christmas. Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Wojan. She is four.

LOCAL

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wallace and daughters Maureen Ann and Rebecca Jane will be Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Loop of Charlevoix.

Jeane Miles came up with some statistics to show how much better kids have it today (thanks to shots) than in the good old days.

For instance, not a single case of measles has been reported in Charlevoix County so far this year. No child has died from measles in Michigan since 1966.

"Measles should not be a part of growing up. Nor a cause of death," according to Mrs. Miles.

Year	MEASLES Cases	Deaths
1963	48,752	27
1964	30,897	11
1965	28,132	6
1966	15,251	6

Gun rules to be told in booklet

Rules on guns and ammunition will be contained in a booklet under the new Federal gun law which takes effect December 10.

Tom D. Davis, Assistant Regional Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service's Alcohol & Tobacco Tax Division said he is preparing material to help gun dealers, gun buyers and collectors comply with the new Gun Control Act of 1968 which was enacted by Congress in October.

Davis said the new law should not place any unnecessary restrictions on the purchase or ownership of guns used for hunting, target shooting or other lawful purposes.

Persons under 21 will be prohibited from purchasing pistols, revolvers, and ammunition for such weapons and persons under 18 will not be permitted to purchase any firearms or ammunition.

Measles will generally not be permitted local of state residents, Davis said, although a person from an adjoining state can buy a rifle or shotgun by complying with certain provisions of the new Act. Sales to residents of a state will be prohibited if possession of the firearm is not allowed by local ordinance.

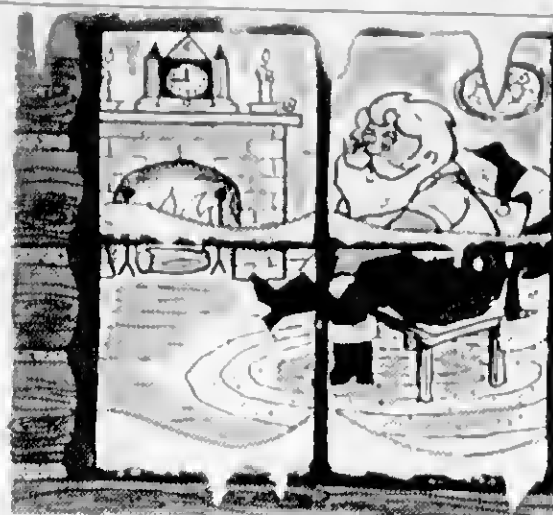

Summaries of pertinent local laws are being compiled in a booklet to be mailed by IRS to persons who request gun data. The booklet will also contain information on the new law. Davis said it should be in the hands of dealers this week to enable them to check on the gun laws of a locality before selling a gun.
